One Flies North, One South.
Surprise for Valentino.
Aged 1,000, and Moved.
Guessing Population.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HEARST RANCH, SAN SIMEON, Cal., March 2.

REGULAR TRAVEL from here to Los Angeles means a two-hour automobile trip to San Luis Obispo's Southern Pacific Railroad station, and the rest of the night on the train. It is the same, going to San Francisco.

But the airplane makes it shorter. In the front yard of this 240,000-acre ranch, down by the Pacific Ocean, from a regulation air field, two planes are just leaving, one going south to Los Angeles, the other north to San Francisco.

THE PLANE northbound is piloted by Mr. Cord, of the Auburn Motor Company, a three-motor, all black, Stimson air liner, with Lycoming engines. Carrying six passengers, pilot and owner, it will reach San Francisco, 250 miles away, in two hours.

THE OTHER plane, smaller, with one Wasp engine produced by United Aircraft, goes 200 miles to Los Angeles in an hour and a half. The pilot and owner, Clarence Brown, is a movie director, in a hurry, now making a picture with Norma Shearer.

He drives his plane, carrying one passenger, a young actress from the Argentine, Senorita Mona Maris, pronounced by Mr. Netcher, of Chicago, unusually easy to contemplate. This young lady, who has made pictures here and in Germany, says, with a pleasing accent:

"Railroad travel, don't you think, is very slow."

CLARENCE BROWN, who used to direct pictures for the late Rudolph Valentino, rides down to his plane from the hilltop ranch house on "Chief," one of Valentino's horses, and a friend with him rides on another Valentino horse, one white, one gray, both showy and fond of prancing.

Dr. Barham, publisher of the Los Angeles Herald, hired or persuaded high grade mediums to put in a call for Valentino's spirit and ask questions. They did not ask Valentino:

"Would you have believed that your finest horse would be ridden to an airship by your director, Clarence Brown, and you in the far-off land of table tipping and rapping?"

TREE MOVING, important to the beautifying of the earth, has been highly developed on this ranch by C. C. Rossi, engineer.

After experts had said it was impossible to move certain enormous live oak trees, because of their great age and size, Mr. Rossi moved them, including one at least 1,000 years old, covering about an acre with its shade.

IT WAS TRANSPLANTED five years ago, and is thriving, as are several others, almost as big. The process will interest tree growers and movers, including Miss Evelyn Smith, owner of the Amawalk nursery, biggest in the country.

With the tree was moved a plot of earth 40 feet in diameter, nine feet deep. Around this earth plot was built a "tub" of concrete, 40 feet wide, the staves made of separate concrete blocks, held together by heavy bands of iron. Tunneling under the earth, the soil and roots were supported from below by a criss-cross of concrete beams. The total weight moved, with powerful jacks, exceeded 600 tons.

It cost $5,000 to move one tree a few hundred feet, but such a tree is worth the money, if you have the $5,000. The Fisher brothers, automobile body builders, will want to know about this, for they have moved hundreds of big trees, all the way from Amawalk, Westchester County, N. Y., to Detroit.

ROLPH, EXTREMELY popular governor of California, tells a gathering of irrigationists that California will have a population of 10,000,000. That of course is true, and California will, in time, have a population of 40,000,000 and more. Bigger and more fertile than France or Italy, California will have a population exceeding theirs.

And the airplane will enable everybody to live on hills and mountaintops, keeping all the low, flat land for cultivation.

GOV. ROLPH says the greater population "will help solve our problems." That is wisdom, and this whole country, even its near-sighted law makers, will realize eventually how wise it is.

When this country had fewer than 4,000,000 people, in Washington's day, it needed more population, to consume what it could produce. More people came, wages increased, and prosperity, with wages.

WHEN WE had 50,000,000 and then 100,000,000, we needed more people, to consume our products, of farms and factories. We got them, and higher wages and prosperity with them.

With a population of 120,000,000, wages and prosperity reached their peak. A temporary setback means nothing.

WE NEED MORE POPULATION NOW, TO CONSUME OUR PRODUCTS, although stupidity does not realize it.

MR. LEGGE, head of the farm relief that did not relieve, gives up his job and "can only advise farmers to plant less wheat, less cotton, less of everything."

That is the advice of despair, and there is no cause for despair. We need, not less production, but more people, of the right kind, to consume what we produce, people exactly like

Board 'Catspaw' of Utility Corporations, He Charges; Sees Morgan Monopoly

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 2.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot appeared before the Senate investigating committee today and shot his shafts directly at the Public Service Commission.

He presented, primarily, his reasons for believing that "the commission is the catspaw of the utility corporations." He charged:

That the Morgan interests own and control more than 50 percent of the utilities of the nation and that practically all the utilities are controlled by four groups.

That the Public Service Commission furnishes a "shield behind which public utilities can practice a degree of extortion that would be impossible if there were no commission to stand between the people and these authorized monopolies."

"PREDATORY MOVEMENTS"

That the Federal Trade Commission investigation, which Commissioner James S. Benn testified was "Hearst propaganda," was responsible mainly for bringing out facts of the utilities' activities in Pennsylvania schools, including alteration of school books and other predatory movements.

That the Public Service Commission failed to decline to take action for the protection of the people in the Clarion River Power Company case, which the Federal Power Commission showed wanted a rate base of $11,033,000, although the actual base was $4,645,000, or less than half.

ACTRESS-FLIER ILL IN HOSPITAL

MONTEREY, Cal., March 2.—(INS.)—Edna May Cooper, missing Los Angeles flier and actress, was found in a hospital here today.

Dr. Hugh Dermody, a physician of the hospital staff, said Miss Cooper was suffering from "a bump on the head" and did not recall how or when she got to Monterey.

She was brought to the hospital last night by friends here.

100 Reported Dead In Fiji Hurricane

LONDON, March 2.—(INS.)—For the third time in 12 days, a hurricane swept the Fiji Islands today, inflicting a reported death toll of 100.

Central News dispatches and other messages received here from Suva stated that the latest storm devastated the Northeast coast of the island of Viti Levu, one of the largest units in the Fiji group. The previous two hurricanes, which raged for several days early last week, killed 250 islanders.

4,000 VETS APPLY HERE FOR LOANS

Rush Mounts at Bureau Headquarters; Additional Requests Made by Mail

1. Obtain proper loan application form—with information or assistance—preferably at one of the many veterans' headquarters listed in the Sun-Telegraph, or at Veterans' Bureau, 5118 Penn avenue.

2. Take or forward it by registered mail to U. S. Veterans' Bureau, 5118 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh. It is not necessary to deliver the application in person.

Ex-soldiers availed themselves of all headquarters today as the rush continued for loans on the adjusted compensation certificates, with more than 4,000 veterans having personally applied and no estimate obtainable on the number sent by mail.

A steady line appeared at the United States Veterans' Bureau regional office, 5118 Penn avenue. The Veterans of Foreign Wars headquarters in the Plaza Building had assisted 868 ex-soldiers fill out their forms before mid-afternoon. A steady stream of applicants appeared at the Sun-Telegraph main building lobby, Bigelow boulevard, and downtown branch office, Fifth avenue and Market street.

Every co-operation is being rendered by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars to relieve the pressure of work in assisting veterans fill out application forms at the bureau headquarters. Shortley pointed that his staff would be able to devote more time in preparing checks and mailing them if the ex-soldiers would prepare their applications at Legion and V. F. W. posts listed to handle the work throughout the Pittsburgh district, or at the Sun-Telegraph main office or downtown branch.

MAIL APPLICATIONS

It was pointed out, further, that once the application has been filled out, the ex-soldiers do not have to present them in person at

$20,000,000 Ringling Art Museum Opened

SARASOTA, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—The John and Mabel Ringling Art Museum was opened to the public here today. The museum, filled with collections gathered over 30 years by John Ringling, circus magnate, and others cost $20,000,000.

HOW TO GET BONUS LOANS

Veterans can obtain bonus loan application forms, information and assistance in filling out blanks from the Veterans' Bureau Regional Office, 5118 Penn avenue (telephone number, Montrose 7381); the American Red Cross, Chamber of Commerce Building; the Sun-Telegraph main office or downtown branch; or any American Legion or Veterans of Foreign Wars post headquarters, particularly those listed on Pages 4 and 6.

Following are the steps to be taken by those who have already secured their certificates:

1. Go in person or write for a "Veteran's Note," form 1185 of the Veterans' Bureau, from any of the agencies listed above. Mention if a previous loan had been obtained and where.

2. Sign the note and insert the number of your adjusted service certificate and home address in spaces indicated.

3. Have the "Certificate of Identification" on the note executed by a Postmaster, an officer of a veterans' organization or a notary public. This action is unnecessary if there has been a previous loan.

4. Hand or forward by registered mail the note to the Regional Veterans' Bureau office. If the application is for the first loan ever sought, note must be accompanied by the bonus certificate as collateral security. If previous loans have been granted, the bureau continues to retain the certificate, and application must be made either to the regional office which granted the previous loan or to the Central Office, Veterans' Bureau, in Washington.

5. Needy veterans will receive their checks earlier if more fortunate comrades delay their applications a little.

NEW DAVIS DATA BEFORE NYE

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—A meeting of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee to consider inclusion of additional data in the committee's report of the nomination and election of Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, was called today by Chairman Nye.

Nye, following an informal session of several members of the group, said the full committee would meet this morning to consider "additions which have been suggested" to the tentative report already drafted by the committee.

The nature of the "additions" were not revealed by Nye, who said the date of presenting the report to the Senate would depend on the action of the committee today. He indicated, however, the printed report may be submitted at today's session of the Senate if the committee declines to include the new developments in its findings.

Thaw Spanking Trial Scheduled for Today

NEW YORK, March 2.—(INS.)—The second trial of the case of Marcia Estardus, night club hostess, against Harry K. Thaw, was to open in Supreme Court today. She charged that the millionaire spanked her with a hair-brush.

The first trial in October, 1929, gave Miss Estardus an award of $75,000, which was held excessive and reduced to $25,000. She appealed and a new trial was granted.

THEATER BLAZE FATAL TO 10

MEXICO CITY, March 2.—(AP.)—At least 10 persons were burned to death and a score or more were injured when the 178-year-old Principal Theater burned at the end of a midnight performance today.

The ruins were still smouldering when firemen brought out the bodies and took them to a police station for identification.

Trapped behind a blazing curtain and with other exits cut off by the flames, a troupe of chorus girls, screaming, believed themselves doomed when firemen fought through the blaze and saved them. Several were severely burned and maimed.

The owner of the building, his wife and five small children, trapped in an upstairs balcony, were saved by firemen, who climbed to the top of their ladders and caught the children and their parents as they jumped.

Ex-Prince Wilhelm Fascist Candidate

BERLIN, March 2.—(INS.)—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm will be a Fascist candidate in the 1932 presidential elections, it was stated by the Berlin newspaper Welt Am Mittag today. The publication added that another member of the former Imperial family, Prince Eitel Friedrich, had sworn allegiance to Fascist aims.

Boy Aviator Brings Big Cigar to Hoover

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—If President Hoover wishes to settle back after March 4 and take a good long smoke, he has the cigar. Robert Buck, 17-year-old New Jersey aviator, presented it to him today. Twelve inches long, the cigar was brought from Cuba by Young Buck by airplane.

Hospital Needs Worried Pershing

As the American troops swung into action, the shortage of hospital facilities caused Pershing considerable anxiety. Not only was the army's equipment inadequate, but material and supplies captured by the Germans made it impossible for the French to provide facilities which had been pledged. This is revealed in today's installment of Gen. John J. Pershing's memoirs, appearing daily in the Sun-Telegraph. Pershing's fascinating narrative picitures the A. E. F. under fire.

Now How About Bonus for Brave Home Guard Vets?

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Now that the war veterans have their bonus we have figured out the new plan for home guards.

Eighty per cent disability for boys who received wounds in end chairs of barber shops.

Double indemnity for fearless masqueraders who guarded two-family houses.

Compensation and readjustment for home guards who protected breweries from the enemy and the Eighteenth Amendment.

For the unflinching custodians who marched in gruelling patriotic parades the best we can give is three cents a mile.

French Legion May Decorate Chaplin

PARIS, March 2.—(AP.)—The red ribbon of a knight of the French Legion of Honor may blossom in Charlie Chaplin's buttonhole next week-end when the comedian visits Paris.

It was reported from a reliable source today that the foreign office sees no impediment to the decoration, and it was expected the ministry of fine arts would shortly make a formal request for it.

Capone Eludes Jail Under Appeal Bond

CHICAGO, March 2.—(INS.)—Al Capone today heard Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson pronounce the formal order of sentence that will send the gang czar to the Cook County Jail for six months for contempt of court unless his appeal to a higher court is successful.

He posted a new bond of $5,000 to secure his liberty pending the appeal. Capone displayed no emotion.

Navy Dirigible Seen Flying Along Coast

NEW BERN, N. C., March 2.—(AP.)—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles, which left Parris Island, S. C., last night bound for Lakehurst, N. J., passed over New Bern early today, flying very low.

YOUTH TO TELL OF GIN PARTY

VALPAIRAISO, Ind., March 2.—(INS.)—With its last witnesses ready to testify, the prosecution today was expected to close its case against Virgil Kirkland, the former high school athlete who is on trial for the murder of his sweetheart, 18-year-old Arlene Draves, who died at the height of liquor party at Gary last fall.

Announcement that the state was ready for its final move to send Kirkland to the electric chair came at the same time defense attorneys disclosed that the youthful defendant will be placed on the stand to tell his own story of the liquor orgy last November 30 that brought about the girl's death.

It was intimated that the prosecution will produce a mystery witness today who will tell of former parties of a similar nature attended by Kirkland and the Draves girl. The youth's attitude toward the girl on these occasions will be brought out by the new witness as one of the closing features of the state's case, prosecutors said.

Kirkland and four other youths who attended the fatal party are charged with having abused the Draves girl.

Gunman Executed For Holdup Murder

BELLEFONTE, Pa., March 2.—(AP.)—Thomas F. Martin, of Philadelphia, "trigger man" in the holdup and murder of C. Cameron Cook, aged bank messenger, was electrocuted at Rockview Penitentiary today.

Roy W. Howard Praises Pittsburgh Job Plan

The Allegheny County Emergency Association announced today that its Pittsburgh Plan, whose purpose is to solve the unemployment situation, had been lauded by Roy W. Howard, chairman of the board of directors of the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Mr. Howard's letter to Arthur E. Braun, chairman of the executive committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Committee, follows:

"The Pittsburgh Plan of the Allegheny County Emergency Association which is now bearing fruit, in that hundreds of men actually are being put to work through its operation—represents a practical and courageous attempt by our present industrial system to solve its own problems. It recognizes that capital has a real responsibility toward labor; that, rather than charity, it owes them the right to earn a living and provide for their families.

"The plan strikes at the root of the employment problem by its intention to re-establish the wage earner as such, instead of prolonging the misery of his idleness by charity relief which, no matter how generous, can be no more than an anodyne to deaden the pain of economic illness. The plan aims to cure the patient.

"The ultimate success of the plan, of course, will depend upon the support it receives from employers and public-spirited citizens whose contributions will make possible the $3,000,000 fund it seeks.

"The plan may well serve as a model for any municipality in this country in the present emergency."

200 WOMEN PRESENT DEMAND

Rebuked by Herron for Applauding Anderson's Criticism Over Inaction

BULLETIN.

Council this afternoon rejected a motion by Charles Anderson to grant immediately the request of the League of Women Voters for an open investigation of the City Department of Supplies and referred the women's demands to the finance committee.

President John S. Herron rapped for order when the women applauded Anderson's remarks criticizing council's action.

Two hundred members of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters crowded Council Chamber today to press their demands for a public investigation of food purchases by the City Department of Supplies.

Civic organizations planned to join with the women in seeking a thorough sifting of charges that resulted in the discharge of Director of Supplies Bertram L. Succop as further check was contemplated of his method of letting contracts. Alleged discrimination in favor of Rhoades & Co., of Philadelphia, against Pittsburgh merchants in purchase of drygoods was the latest revelation.

Heading the large delegation of women were Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the League of Women Voters; Mrs. R. P. Kenney, chairman of the city government committee, and Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. Frank A. Bond and Mrs. S. D. Locke, members of the executive committee.

BACK UP LETTER

The women were to voice a personal plea supplementing a letter which was to be presented to Council formally by the city clerk, sent by the women last week demanding a public hearing and audit of the books of the supplies department over the last six years.

All members of Council were present except Robert Garland, called to Philadelphia by death of his brother, Bishop Thomas J. Garland.

No action on the women's demand and letter was anticipated today further than referring their request to the finance committee scheduled to meet tomorrow.

A plan for a united front in probing admitted irregularities in the Supplies Department will be discussed at a meeting of the di-

Dague's Widow Ill, Suffers From Shock

WHEELING, W. Va., March 2.—Mrs. Teresa Hess Dague, widow of Walter Glenn Dague, who was executed with Irene Shrader at Bellefonte, Pa., last Monday, is confined to the home of her father-in-law at Dallas, W. Va., critically ill.

Dr. T. K. Shields today said she was suffering from nervousness and shock.

PINCHOT ASSAILS PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION AT QUIZ

CORPORATION 'CATSPAW,' HE SAYS

Governor Brands Board as 'Shield for Utilities;' Sees Morgan Monopoly

sylvania earned in 1929, 28.5, 34.18, 38.75, 45.4, 51.8 and 69.65 per cent on their own valuations, "although what percentages they earned on the money actually invested I cannot even guess."

That water companies "whose books contain more water than their reservoirs" have a harder time getting credit than those whose books are clean, and that because the Public Service Commission allowed the inflations in the company books, this condition has developed.

CITES REASONS

The governor cited as his reasons for his attitude toward the commission, the Scranton Electric Company case, the Scranton Spring Brook Water Service Company case, the so-called secret meeting in the offices of the president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, attended by Commissioner Benn, the Philadelphia Rapid Transit rate increase of 1924, and lack of action by the commission in the Clarion River Power Company case.

For additional data, the governor referred the commission members to their own constituents and said that many additional cases would be presented by the people affected to the investigating committee of the House of Representatives which is in process of organization.

The Governor said that so far the Senate investigation has done little more than afford the representatives of the Public Service Commission and the public utilities an opportunity to testify to their own virtue. He said:

"Yet even so, thanks to brilliant cross-examination, much has developed in support of my contention."

Reference was to the cross-examination by William A. Gray, counsel engaged by the Governor to represent him at the Senate investigation.

UTILITIES' POWER

The Governor said that the commission had failed to take the place of competition and hold rates down to a competitive basis because of the growing political power of the utilities. He continued:

"I do not advocate public ownership as a remedy for the situation. On the contrary, my whole effort is now, and for a quarter of a century has been, to make regulation work.

"But regulation cannot endure unless the people believe in regulation. And they cannot believe in it unless the commission which is set to do the regulating is worthy of their faith.

"The fact is that the people of Pennsylvania have lost faith in the Public Service Commission.

"Year after year the people of this commonwealth have seen the Public Service Commission fail as the defender of the people's rights. Year after year they have paid out of their own pockets the excessive charges, which, by authority of the commission, the public utilities have imposed. They have seen the Capitol at Harrisburg overrun with public utility lobbyists. They have seen the utilities deep in politics and their firm knowledge of that fact is far beyond the power of any denial to shake.

SEES PUBLIC WRATH

"If the public utilities refuse to let legulation work, the justified indignation of the people will drive the utility magnates out of business altogether and substitute public for private control. And if that happens the utilities will have no one to thank for it but themselves.

"Again I call your attention to the fact that the greed of the utilities for money and power have forced this issue to the front throughout the nation, and that in every important case where the people have had a chance to vote upon it at the last election, the utilities were defeated and the champions of the people won.

"The people know about public utilities. They know because they have suffered. Because they have suffered, they need relief. And they will not cease to demand it until the general assembly answers their demand.

"The people of Pennsylvania are too well informed, too deeply convinced, too indignant at the present situation to be satisfied with the crumbs from any man's table. They have rights and needs which have been systematically disregarded. They have the power to compel a change. In my judgment, this is a poor time to stand in the way."

REITERATES CHARGES

As his reason for calling the commission "the catspaw of the utilities," and "worse than useless," the Governor reiterated sections of speeches made since a year ago. With reference to the Scranton Electric Company, he reiterated his charge that the commission ordered an investigation on facts brought out by the Federal Trade Commission.

Of the Scranton-Spring Brook case, he said:

"The old company has made money at the old rates. Nothing but jugglery in the new capitalization, which it was the duty of the commission to discover and block, could provide a basic for the new increased rates. The refusal of the commission to take prompt action against this increase resulted in turmoil and disturbance, and laid upon the people of the community the heavy burden of fighting the increase, part of which the commission itself has since declared to be unjustified."

CLARION RIVER CASE

With reference to the Clarion River Power case, in which the Federal Power Commission found inflated valuations, the Governor said:

"The Public Service Commission declined to take action for the protection of the people in this case, although I understand its power to do so is emphatically upheld by the counsel for your committee. If it has the power to act and does not use it, again it is proving itself the catspaw of the corporation, this time in an effort not only to swell the rate base, but to establish a valuation on the plant so ridiculously high that recapture would be entirely impossible."

Concluding, the Governor pointed out:

"The combined utilities of the country today levy on the people a tax for necessaries of daily life which amounts to more than ten billions of dollars a year, which is more by billions of dollars annually than the combined taxes of federal, state and city governments."

Their profits, he said, are bad enough at any time, but "in a time like this their wickedness is tenfold." He asked whether the commission has taken any steps to see that the present reduced valuation of public utility property, the result of depression, and the reduced cost of operation is reflected in reduced rates to the public.

Phila. Police Raid Cellar Of Aged Millionaire

PHILADELPHIA, March 2 (AP.)—The $200,000 liquor stock of Daniel Dever, 80-year-old Philadelphian, was under police lock and key today along with a varied assortment of wines and whiskies seized last week in private lockers at the Philadelphia Club and the Manufacturers Club.

Dever's home in West Philadelphia was raided yesterday by police. The octogenarian had amassed a fortune in the wholesale liquor business long before the advent of prohibition and the big stock found in his cellar was said to antedate the Volstead act by many years.

A police checkup of the seized liquor recorded 50 barrels of old rye whisky, 15 barrels of port and large quantities of such formerly well-known brands as Old Monopole, Three Star Hennessy and Mount Vernon. In addition to Benedictine, absinthe and other liqueurs there was a barrel of Scotch dated 1896. Dever sent a checker and gauger to the police station to assist in listing the seizure. A police magistrate released Dever in $1,500 bail for a further hearing.

Dever retired from business years ago. Last year he established a trust fund of approximately $2,000,000 for his four daughters.

SENATORS CALL POWER PARLEY

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—A call for a conference of Progressives of both parties to meet here March 11 for a round-table discussion was sent forth today.

It was sponsored by five senators—Norris, of Nebraska; LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Cutting, of New Mexico, Republicans, and Wheeler, Montana, and Costigan, of Colorado, Democrats. Costigan becomes a senator on March 4.

The call specifies that the organization of a third party is not contemplated.

Among the subjects to be considered will be the power issue.

Norris described the meeting as an "economic conference" with a purpose of determining the causes and cure for depression.

Five governors have been invited and have signified their intention of attending. They are Roosevelt, of New York; Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, a Republicacn; Meier, of Oregan, Independent Republican; LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Olsen, of Minnesota.

NORRIS SEES SHOALS VETO

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(INS.)—Senator George W. Norris, the veteran Nebraska insurgent, who twice has piloted a bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals through Congress, expects President Hoover to veto his latest victory.

Norris said today he could draw no other inference from the statement issued yesterday by President Hoover, in which he characterized Muscle Shoals as an engineering problem, but at the same time a political issue as well.

Returning sarcasm for sarcasm, Senator Norris said:

"The President said in his statement that 'this happens to be an engineering project.' The President being an engineer, it would seem he would have no difficulty in solving the problem and, therefore, it is rather surprising to learn from his statement that he is referring the matter to the heads of his departments, none of whom is an engineer."

Westmoreland Water Firm Boosts Rates

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 2.—The Westmoreland Water Company, of Greensburg, today notified patrons in nine communities of proposed increases in rates effective April 1, the new tariff schedule to be filed with Public Service Commission.

The increase on the first 100,000 gallons used would be 10 cents and over 100,000 gallons per month would be four cents. The raise is made necessary due to expansion of company's plant and construction of new filtration system, the notice states.

Treasury Balance $3,000,000 Lower

HARRISBURG, March 2.—(AP.)—The state treasury had a balance of $72,805,411 at the close of business at noon Saturday, it was announced today by the State Treasury Deparhment. This balance is $3,000,000 less than the balance on January 31, when the balance was $75,867,941. Total receipts during February amounted to $18,898,816 and total payments were $21,861,346.

Dry Goods Firms Here Lose Contracts to High Bidders, Records Reveal

STUDY CHARGES

Numerous individual civic organizations were making ready to consider the food purchase charges which resulted in Mayor Kline discharging Bertram L. Succop as director of supplies.

Among these are the North Side Chamber of Commerce, Spring Hill Civic Association, Business Men's Association of the East North Side, Mt. Washington Board of Trade, Bloomfield Board of Trade, North Side Board of Trade and the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade.

Succop's failure to recognize the specifications on contracts for dry goods apparently deprived two Pittsburgh firms—Arbuthnot-Stephenson Company and Janitors' Supply Company—of city business.

The Rhoades bid in several instances in which it won the contrdact was lower, but it did not comply with the specifications, it is claimed. One example shows that, last May, when bids were asked on 36-inch Hickory stripe, Rhoades offered 28-inch width and won the contract, although Arbuthnot-Stephenson bid on the 36-inch strip. The Rhoades price was 13½ cents, the Arbuthnot-Stephenson 15½ cents.

SPECIAL BRANDS

In 1930 Rhoades received $24,563 from the city for 12 lots of dry goods. Just as he specified "Parke or equal" on many food contracts, Succop specified "Basco or equal," for hospital bed sheets; "Stevens or equal," for crash; Cable Brand or equal" for pillow tubing; "Atlan or equal" for sheeting—all brands furnished by Rhoades.

In buying 120 bolts of Stevens crash two months ago Succop chose the Rhoades price of 17.57 cents per yard rather than the Arbuthnot-Stevenson bid of 15½ cents.

Mayor Kline is now acting as head of the Supplies Department, he disclosed today in a letter to Council in which he signed himself on supplies department stationery as "Charles H. Kline, director." The letter accompanied an ordinance authorizing purchase of a truck for use in Frick Park, the cost not to exceed $1,000.

The question of whether an audit of Succop's books is required of City Controller James P. Kerr, under the law, was expected to be decided today.

The law provides that the controller shall, upon the death, resignation, removal or expiration of the term of any officer, audit, examine and settle the accounts of such officer, and if he shall be found indebted to the city, the controller shall "state an account and file the same in the Court of Common Pleas."

HANDLED NO MONEY

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt was quoted as saying the law did not apply to Succop's case, as he did not handle any money. Succop was under a total bond at $60,000.

Controller Kerr has made it plain that irregularities have occurred in the departments of public works and public safety in that employes bought supplies on their personal order and had them charged to the city.

This disclosure also was expected to be taken up for public investigation should Council decide to comply with the demands of the League of Women Voters.

Replying to a statement attributed to Controller Kerr that employes of the Public Works Department bought goods in an irregular manner, Public Works Director E. G. Lang today said some errors of judgment were inevitably in a department of 14 bureaus having thousands of requisitions. All employes had been warned against repeating such mistakes under severe penalty, he said.

PROBE HINTS MONOPOLY ON FOOD

Capper Inquiry Urges U. S. Agencies Be Alert, Quotes High Prices on Bread

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A small group of powerful corporations has revealed an "alarming tendency toward the monopolistic control of the food of the nation," the Capper food price investigating committee reported to the Senate this afternoon with a recommendation that the Federal Trade Commission and Department of Justice watch developments.

After a long inquiry, the committee declared bread prices were too high, and asserted there should be an immediate average reduction of one cent per pound in wholesale bread prices. It reported flour prices had declined with the falling wheat market, but that bread prices had maintained their old high levels, with the bakers pocketing higher profits.

INQUIRY RECOMMENDED

The committee found milk and sugar [illegible]ices were reasonable, but decl[illegible] all reductions in milk price[illegible]d been taken from the farm[illegible] and recommended a further inquiry into milk prices by either the Federal Trade Commission or the Department of Justice.

BILL TO CLEAR TUNNEL DEAL

HARRISBURG, March 2.—A bill which would eliminate obstacles to the purchase by Allegheny County commissioners of the Wabash bridge and tunnel may be presented tonight or tomorrow to the Legislature, it was learned today. Some doubt which arose over phrasing of the county code might, under pressure, be interpreted to mean that the board lacks legal right to buy the $3,000,000 property from the Taplin interests. The wording will be clarified by the bill.

It will be presented in the form of an amendment to the county code, and will have the support, it is believed, of the Allegheny County delegation.

While a number of bills affecting Allegheny County will come before the House, the most discussed is the election code, sponsored by Senator Frank J. Harris and Representative D. Glenn Moore. It will have a hearing of the joint committees on election Tuesday afternoon.

The Coyne bill providing for additional Common Pleas Court judges in Allegheny County will be given a public hearing Tuesday at 4 p. m., when objections may be presented.

Bills to be given first reading include the city managership option bills, which affect Pittsburgh, Duquesne and Clairton; also another Moore bill, which extends the act concerning slot and gambling machines to embrace "possession and storage."

Weather Conditions.

A disturbance centered over the eastern portion of the Gulf of Mexico is producing rains over the Gulf states, while more northerly centers caused light rains or snows over the Middle Atlantic states and the lake region. Elsewhere precipitation was of little importance. It is still cloudy over most of the eastern portion of the country while over the West the skies are mostly clear. High barometer covers the Rocky Mountain states, with its center over Idaho. Temperature changes were towards colder over the eastern portion of the country and generally towards warmer over the West and Northwest. Moderately cold weather will continue over this section for the next several days.

those that made the country what it is.

WE CONSUME now 90 per cent of our products. More population would consume the superfluous 10 per cent and create a demand for more.

Instead of looking to Europe, Asia and Africa to buy from us, which they will not do, if they can help it, we should have enough people here to do the buying.

WORKERS, ILL-INFORMED, say more population would mean fewer jobs, lower wages.

How do they answer the fact that when there were only 4,000,000 population in the country, there was only one workman in the United States, a New England mechanic, able to earn as much as $1 a day, all the year round.

A president of the United States complained, at that time, that it was impossible to hire a good worker for less than $100 a year.

IN PROPORTION to size, Mexico's population is less than one-half ours. There you can hire a first-class worker for $35 a month, and he boards himself.

Canada's population, in proportion to size, is not one-tenth of ours. Wages and prosperity here are far ahead of Canada. We need more population. THINK IT OVER.

Guard Gusher While Casing Is Installed

WELLSBORO, Pa., March 2.—(AP.)—With a doubled guard to prevent the curious and sightseers from endangering either themselves or the workers engaged in the task of subduing the biggest gas well east of the Mississippi River, work on the Meeker strike went forward rapidly today.

Sixteen joints of casing were run down yesterday, each joint being 20 feet long and weighing 20 pounds to the foot. The total weight of the casing will be approximately 40 tons when completed.

Veto Protects Peoples' Rights, Coolidge Asserts

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 2.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The power of the President to veto legislation is one of the important checks of our constitutional system. It would be difficult to demonstrate that any refusal to approve an act of the Congress has caused great harm, while it is easy to discover vetoes that have been of great benefit to the country. Legislators will often approve a bill which an individual would reject because functioning through mass action divides and dilutes their responsibility. Moreover the President represents all the people while a senator or representative usually considers only his constituents.

Calvin Coolidge

Generally the power has been used sparingly. Eight presidents never resorted to it. Washington returned but two bills, Lincoln but three. Cleveland holds the high record, having disapproved 343 measures.

The veto power is not a method by which the judgment of one man is to be used to override the judgment of the Congress. It is to provide opportunity to reconsider a doubtful measure. The knowledge that legislation will be reviewed, that it may be disapproved in a public statement by the president, has a distinctly deterrent and sobering effect. The veto power safeguards the rights of all the people.

CONGRESS NEAR ADJOURNMENT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(INS.)—Assured of a nine months' vacation before the next Congress convenes, House and Senate today went through the formal motions of legislating with all controversial issues doomed in the 48 hours remaining before adjournment.

Having battled for two years over farm relief, tariff revision, unemployment and drought relief, election contests, investigations, conflicts with the President and other forms of politics, the fading Congress was content to devote its final hours to speeches, minor legislation and a review of its history. It was apparent no more important legislation would be enacted before noon March 4.

Gandhi Reaches Peace Settlement With Great Britain

AGREEMENT ENDS INDIA MUTINY

Long Dispute Settled by Pact; Terms Expected To Be Announced Soon

International News Service.

BOMBAY, March 2.—An agreement settling all points of the Indian dispute has been reached by Lord Irwin, viceroy, and Mahatma M. K. Gandhi in their "man-to-man" conferences at New Delhi, according to an announcement by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru today.

He added that an official statement giving the final conclusions of peace agreement would be issued tomorrow night.

The public statement of the understanding was withheld until Tuesday in deference to Gandhi's customary observance of Monday as a "Silent Day," during which he withdraws from public to meditate and pray for eventual peace in his land.

TERMS KEPT SECRET

While the terms of the announced agreement were kept a close secret, it was believed here that the vexing question of the salt tax had been solved. The tax levied on salt by the British government was one of Gandhi's chief complaints, and to protest against it he launched his famous civil disobedience campaign last year, eventually falling under arrest after his "march to the sea." He served nine months in Yeroda Jail.

Gandhi, it was understood, also demanded of the Viceroy the liberation of the 50,000 political prisoners still in jails throughout India, the right to continue the picketing of foreign shops selling liquor and foreign cloth, and the cessation of alleged police brutalities in dealing with Indian demonstrators.

In return for these liberal concessions, Gandhi guaranteed the cessation of all anti-British agitation in India and full co-operation of the Indian Nationalists in establishing constitutional government with the eventual purpose of fulfilling Premier MacDonald's promise of qualified dominion status for India.

During these "man-to-man" discussions, the "holy man" acted continually with the full knowledge of the leading Indian Nationalists. He conferred repeatedly with Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, who headed the Indian delegates to the London round table conference, thus assuring their full co-operation in whatever agreement he reached with Lord Irwin. The latter, on the other hand, was in constant communication with his London government.

Settlement of the Indian dispute, coming on the heels of the British success in arranging a Franco-Italian naval accord, would be an outstanding feather in the cap of the MacDonald Labor government. It would terminate one of the most hectic periods of passive and often violent resistance to British rule in India.

CONFER IN SECRET

Lord Irwin and Gandhi, one representing the might of the British empire and the other the swarming millions of India, have conferred behind locked doors off and on for the past 10 days in the $1,000,000 government palace at New Delhi, officially dedicated only a few weeks ago.

Emerging from the palace just before sundown on such occasions, Gandhi consistently refrained from comment but frequently gave evidence of being optimistic as to the final outcome.

NOTE SHOWS GIRL SOUGHT VINDICATION

Letter to Pennsylvanian in Hands of N. Y. Probers; Officer Denies Frameup

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—The slaying of Vivian Gordon, who was to testify in a vice graft inquiry, bogged deep in mystery today with denials by the policeman who arrested her and her ex-husband that they "railroaded" her to the reformatory in 1923.

Miss Cassie Clayton, of Erie, Pa., to whom Miss Gordon repeated in a letter her charges of framing, was brought to New York today to be questioned by Referee Seabury's aides.

'SOUGHT' VINDICATION

Miss Clayton had turned the letter over to New York police. It read:

"I reckon you've noticed the Investigation that's going on in New York for the last few months. It's about time. Anyhow, I wrote them a letter and they answered, asking me to appear in Supreme Court tomorrow. Boy, I'll be glad to get that cleaned up, if it takes my last breath. To be vindicated—vindicated—vindicated.

"And then, when folks feel mean and nasty, they can't say, 'Why, she's this and that and the other thing.' Yes, Cassie, that's been done. . . ."

Returning from a vacation in Bermuda, Patrolman Andrew J. McLaughlin was questioned by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney and District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin, of the Bronx.

CHARGES FLIRTATION

Miss Gordon flirted with him on the street, he said, and he took her to a lodging house, where he made the arrest. Her accusations that her husband conspired with him to obtain control of their daughter were unfounded, he said. He exhibited a letter reading:

"You no doubt recall when you framed Benita Bischoff on March 9, 1923, causing her conviction for vagrancy. She is now writing to tell you she is going to appear before the vice committee and tell the whole story.

"She leaves the rest to your imagination, which she hopes is as good as when you concocted those lies about her in court.

"Yours truly,

"B. F. B."

Miss Gordon, who also used the name of Benita Franklin Bischoff, was strangled and thrown out of an auto after conferring with counsel assisting Referee Samuel Seabury in an inquiry into the magistrates courts.

The ex-husband, John Bischoff, business manager of the District of Columbia Reformatory at Lorton, Va., denied that he even knew McLaughlin or that a plot existed between them. He obtained a divorce in Philadelphia on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Deadly King Cobra Travels Pullman

NEW YORK, March 2.—(INS.)—Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the Bronx Zoo, made a disclosure today which should bring a violent shudder to passengers in a certain Pullman car traveling between New York and Washington on Sunday.

He revealed that in a suitcase beside his berth on the Sunday trip he carried the most dangerous reptile in the world—a king cobra, 14 feet long. The cobra, which will decorate the Washington Zoo, had to be kept in a certain temperature, so the good doctor covered the suitcase with a blanket and then rested his own feet on the blanket.

Shriners' Potentate To Meet Ortiz Rubio

MEXICO CITY, March 2.—(INS.)—Esten A. Fletcher, imperial potentate of the Order of the Mystic Shrine, arrived here today accompanied by his wife and party.

It is understood President Pascual Ortiz Rubio, who is now in Guadalajara, hopes to return to Mexico City in time to greet Fletcher officially. Ortiz Rubio last month became a Shriner and a thirty-second degree Mason.

Schoolgirl, 15, Found Dead, 2 Youths Held

DETROIT, March 2.—(INS.)—Tossed by the roadside, Anna Gabriel, 15, is dead here today, while police are pushing their investigation into what they term another "school-girl" murder.

Anna disappeared en route to Junior High School Friday morning. Two youths, aged 17 and 22, are being held by police in connection with the case. No charges have been filed against them.

French Fliers Break Non-Refuel Record

ORAN, Morocco, March 2.—(INS.)—The world's non-refueling airplane record was held today by the French airmen Boussotrot and Rossi, who stayed aloft for 75 hours and 23 minutes on one filling of gasoline. They flew 5,359 miles over a closed circuit.

'MODEL YOUTH' DENIES GUILT

HAVERHILL, Mass., March 2.—(INS.)—Smiling and calm, Russell Noble, 17, "model boy," walked through a crowd of several hundred persons into District Court today and pleaded not guilty to burglary and other charges in connection with a hammer attack last Wednesday night on Mrs. Clara E. Ellis, wealthy young widow. Pending a hearing March 11, bail was set at $51,000.

Nearby in Benson Hospital, Mrs. Ellis hovered between life and death, appearing very weak despite a blood transfusion.

The alleged statement of the boy Sunday school teacher that he entered the bedroom of the widow to steal a wrist watch to cover a defalcation in a high school class fund, was not accepted generally.

He denied any secret love affair with Mrs. Ellis, declaring that he only knew her by delivering papers at her home.

Charlotte Green, 17, confidante of his boyhood dreams and ambitions, said:

"There must be some terrible mistake. I'll stand by him."

CAPONE HIDING, WOES GROWING

CHICAGO, March 2.—(INS.)—Alphonse "Scarface" Capone remained under cover today while legal counsel prepared a defense for his next joust with the law, which is scheduled for Wednesday, when the gang leader is to be arraigned on a vagrancy charge as Chicago's No. 1 "public enemy."

Capone is at liberty on bond awaiting an appeal following his conviction and sentence Friday to six months' imprisonment for federal contempt.

Other troubles were reported brewing for the millionaire gang czar as the federal grand jury heard evidence regarding Capone's income tax affairs. Three witnesses already have been heard, according to federal prosecutors.

Rebels Repulsed In Nicaraguan Tilt

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 2.—(AP.)—An insurgent attack on the town of Daraili, Northern Nicaragua, yesterday was repulsed with five of the attackers killed and 20 wounded.

Five National Guardsmen and 10 civil guards made up the defending force. More than 200 men, well armed with machine guns, rifles and grenades and led by the chieftains, Salgado, Hernandez, Diaz and Blandon—all henchmen of the insurgent general, Augustino Sandino—made the attack.

MRS. BENNETT TO TESTIFY

KANSAS CITY, March 2.—(AP.)—Testimony in the trial of Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, accused of slaying her husband after a bridge game quarrel, has paved the way today for her appearance as a witness in her own defense.

Neither James A. Reed nor J. Francis O'Sullivan, of defense counsel, would discuss their plans, but made it plain the 35-year-old widow would go on the stand.

Her moral character undisputed, and described by witnesses as the devoted wife of a violent-tempered man, she was expected to present a new story of events leading up to the fatal shooting of John G. Bennett, wealthy representative of a perfume company, in their fashionable apartment September 29, 1929.

State witnesses have testified Bennett was killed by two of four shots fired from an automatic pistol shortly after Bennett slapped his wife in front of guests for terming him a "bum bridge player."

CHICAGO, March 2.—(AP.)—If you have a receding chin don't worry about it. It may be a social asset.

Rides Across U. S. On Horse, Hurt By Auto

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(INS.)—Frank M. Heath, 60, who won a national reputation as a horseman five years ago when he left here on horseback and visited every state in the Union, was run down by an automobile here when crossing an intersection on foot. Hospital physicians said his skull was fractured.

Heath's long ride, during which he covered 11,000 miles, was accomplished without a single mishap.

PRINCES SHAKEN BY DEATH OF 12

BUENOS AIRES, March 2.—(Universal.)—The Prince of Wales and Prince George were in Argentine territory today visibly moved by the drowning of 12 musicians sent to serenade them Saturday night as they rested from their journey on Lake Llanquihue.

Both princes showed the profound impression left by the tragedy enacted before their eyes. Only seven of a military band of 19 were saved when the lighter from which the musicians had serenaded the royal yacht was rammed and sunk.

The disaster, the first unhappy note to mar the princes' triumphal South American tour, occurred late Saturday night while the two British royal visitors were enjoying themselves aboard a yacht, anchored several hundred yards off the lake shore.

NEW NAVY PACT ENDS WAR FEAR

PARIS, March 2.—(AP.)—A Franco-Italian naval race, one of the most serious threats to the peace of Europe, appeared today to have been eliminated with definite agreement of Great Britain, France and Italy on a naval relationship to be maintained during the next five years.

The terms of the agreement were withheld pending transmission to Washington and Tokio, but it was understood today that they were constructed around the actual needs of France and Italy until 1936, rather than on the basis of specifying a proportion between the navies.

The agreement, if acceptable to the United States and Japan—and there was no doubt on that score—will broaden the London Naval Treaty, which never was more than a three-power pact in its important phases, to a five-power instrument, limiting until 1936 the navies and naval construction programs of the great maritime nations of the world.

9 'Poor Man's' Cafes Open in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, March 2.—(AP.)—Nine "poor man's" restaurants, serving meals at the equivalent of 10 cents, American money, were opened by the Federal District Public Charities in Mexico City today.

One such restaurant was opened a week ago as an experiment, and proved successful. A complete meal, from soup to dessert, is served to the newsboys, bootblacks and unemployed and other needy.

FIRE DESTROYS TROTZKY HOME

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 2.—(AP.)—Leon Trotzky, Russian revolutionary leader who for more than a year has been a man without a country, has been burned out of house and home.

The villa he has occupied during his exile on Prinkipo Island, in the Sea of Marmora, took fire before dawn yesterday and burned to the ground before Trotzky and his wife, both of whom are ill with malaria, could salvage more than a few of their possessions.

The fire began from an overheated stove in a bathroom on the lower floor of the villa, and awakened the cook, who roused the family.

Trotzky was not able to save even a suit of clothes, but he did preserve some valuable letters from Lenin. Material for a book he has been writing was lost, as was his valuable library of hundreds of books. He managed to save a manuscript of a history of the Russian revolution which is about to be published.

Man's Teeth Stolen, Held as Evidence

PEABODY, Mass., March 2.—(AP.)—Two youths who held up and robbed William Mahoney were nothing if not thorough. He says they stole his wallet, which was empty, his keys and his false teeth.

Later the pair he accused, Frank Potuba and William Cavanaugh, both 20, were arrested, but Mahoney's troubles didn't end there. Police are holding his teeth for evidence.

A thrilling moment as the giant Mauretania pulled into Cherbourg. Mr. Hyde fell overboard, up and down the ship went up the chilling cry, "Man Overboard!" Capt. Campbell, British speed king, was the first to act. A lifeboat picked up Mr. Hyde.

PRIZES POSTED FOR MACARONI RECIPES

Spaghetti Awards Included In Contest for Women: All Will Receive Gifts

Cash prizes, assorted packages of macaroni and spaghetti as awards and a gift for every contestant features a new contest opening today for women of the Pittsburgh district.

It is The Sun-Telegraph macaroni-spaghetti recipe contest, in fact, two contests in one for the best recipes for either of these packaged food products.

There is a total of 32 cash prizes, each carrying in addition an assortment of packaged macaroni and spaghetti products. There are 24 assortments of products for additional winners. Besides these prizes every contestant sending in one or more recipes will receive a macaroni timer. It can be used to time the cooking of any foods that require from three minutes to one hour of cooking.

NO LIMIT TO ENTRIES

The rules are simple. Every woman has a favorite recipe for cooking macaroni. Send it in, following the contest rules published with this announcement. Or, if it is a spaghetti dish, then send in that recipe for the spaghetti contest.

Any number of recipes can be sent in for either macaroni or spaghetti or both dishes. Contestants are not limited to one contest. Two sets of identical prizes will be awarded for both dishes.

CLOSES MARCH 21

In short there are two contests—one for the best recipe using macaroni and one using spaghetti. The competition is open to every woman reader. They can be entered into the contest from the recipe file or the favorite cook book.

The contest will close at noon March 21. The winners will be announced soon after that date. Also, the winning recipes will be published.

Contest Rules

1—Each contestant may submit as many recipes as she wishes, calling for macaroni or spaghetti.

2—A part of the wrapper of a package of any brand must be enclosed with your recipe.

3—Write on one side of the paper only. Be sure your name and address are on each sheet of paper you submit. This is important.

5—The contest closes at noon on March 21.

6—The names of the winners will be announced soon after that date. The prize-winning recipes also will be published.

THE PRIZES

(Macaroni Contest)

Third prize—Five dollars in cash and six assorted packages of macaroni products.

Spaghetti Contest

Third prize—Five dollars in cash and six assorted packages of spaghetti products.

Twelve prizes of $1 each in cash and two packages each of spaghetti products.

Twelve prizes of one dozen assorted packages each of spaghetti products.

In addition to the above prizes, each contestant submitting one or more recipes calling for macaroni or spaghetti will receive a macaroni timer free.

British Yacht Seeks Record to Honolulu

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 2—(AP.)—In an attempt to establish a new speed record between San Diego and Honolulu, the British yacht Nanlin, owned by Lady Anne Henrietta Yule, left here at noon today on the 2,268-mile voyage.

Capt. T. A. Rainey, master, said he expected to reach Honolulu in five days, which would capture the speed crown held by the liner Malolo.

U. S. Ambassador's Daughter to Wed

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 2—(AP.)—In compliance with Danish law, Miss Virginia Booth, daughter of the American minister, tomorrow will go through a civil marriage ceremony with William Dickeman Vogel, of New York and Milwaukee, preliminary to the religious ceremony Wednesday.

Since her papers did not arrive in time for the usual publication of the banns three Sundays in advance of the ceremony, Miss Booth has obtained aa special license from King Christian.

KILMER TO REST IN ARLINGTON

The body of Capt. William Sawtelle Kilmer, of the United States Army Engineers, who died in his home at 1604 Denniston avenue, will be taken to Washington tonight for interment in Arlington National Cemetery. Capt. Kilmer died Saturday night of pneumonia.

Capt. Kilmer was born in Pennsylvania, but moved to New York when a boy. He was appointed to the United States Army from the district of Columbia as first lieutenant, Engineers' section of the Officers' Reserve Corps. A year later he was promoted to the rank of captain. During the war he was engaged in procurement of engineering equipment and supplies. Two years ago he was appointed military assistant to the district engineer of Pittsburgh.

During his service here he was in charge of construction of Dashfield's Dam, Ohio River, and locks and dams No. 7 and No. 8 on the Allegheny River. He was a member of the Propeller Club of the United States, Port of Pittsburgh. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Esther Kilmer, and two sons, Donald and Norman Kilmer.

COOPER, DEAN OF HOUSE, DIES

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—Representative Henry Allen Cooper, of Wisconsin, is dead.

Oldest House member in point of service, the 80-year-old Republican Progressive died at his hotel here early Sunday as he rounded out 36 years of service and planned to take his seat in the coming Congress.

The tall, upright, white-haired and bearded "dean of the House" attended a prolonged House session Saturday night and retired late, complaining of feeling ill. Death, which came a few hours later with his wife at his bedside, was attributed to acute indigestion.

Cooper entered the House with the Fifty-third Congress in 1893. For one term, his service was broken. He was defeated for reelection to the Sixty-sixth Congress because he voted against entering the World War. Throughout his career he was an ardent supporter of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette.

Short Circuit Blast Injures Plant Head

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 2.—Kirk L. Glauser, superintendent of the Midvale plant of the Canton Brick and Fireproofing Company, suffered burns late yesterday in an explosion resulting from a short circuit. Preparing the plant for reopening, he lifted the lid of the starting motor and the explosion followed. Glauser was taken to the Union Hospital at Dover.

The plant, closed for three months, was to be opened today, employing 150 men.

Hawks to Exhibit On European Tour

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—Europe is going to see some plain and fancy speed flying. Capt. Frank M. Hawks, holder of the transcontinental record, announced he would take his fast plane across the Atlantic about the end of March for an extended tour.

He will consult foreign airplane technicians, inspect European transport lines and attend the international aircraft show in Stockholm in May.

Auto Driver Faces Death Case Hearing

WOODSFIELD, O., March 2.—Preliminary hearing was to be given John McAndrews, 25, today on a manslaughter charge based on the death of William Christian, 7, Athens. Christian was changing a tire on the Barnesville road when Waldo Umpleby's automobile, occupied by the owner and driven by McAndrews, struck him. Both Umpleby and McAndrews were arrested.

Washington Board Meeting Postponed

CUTS SILK HOSE BILLS IN TWO

A New York fashion expert has found a simple, easy method to double the wear of silk hose and undergarments. These articles, worn next to the skin, wear out doubly fast because of the perspiration and other body excretions which soften and rot the silk.

This lady found that soap and water were inadequate for washing such articles. She recommends when washing silks to add a tablespoonful of Energine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash and rinse as usual. This method not only cleans thoroughly and quickly but makes silks like new with revived colors and pleasing freshness. The difference in results over the use of soap and water alone will amaze you. It means longer life—real economy.

Energine is unexcelled also for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves and ties. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.

BANKS CAN GIVE BONUS LOANS TO VETS

Hines Cites Law, Welcomes Added Facility as Quick Method of Disbursement

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Banks throughout the country can lend money to veterans under the amendment to the World War adjusted compensation act increasing the loan value of bonus certificates to 50 per cent, Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, announced today.

He said this mode of procedure would be encouraged by the veterans' administration in every way, as it would afford immediate relief to many who otherwise would have to wait some weeks because of the number of requests being made.

A statement issued today by the Veterans' Bureau said:

"Under the amended law, as was the case under the original law, all banks throughout the country can loan money to veterans on the basis of their bonus certificates. The more banks that extend loan privileges to veterans, the sooner will the present problem of veterans' loans be met."

Gen. Hines, in commenting, added:

"I have asked the Federal Reserve Board to issue a bulletin to all banks detailing to them the provisions of the law and how they may act. This will give them the desired information and should assist in helping to handle the existing situation."

Banks Advise Veterans To Use U. S. Bureau

Banks in the Pittsburgh district will make loans to war veteran depositors on their adjusted bonus certificates, but they advise the veterans to make their applications through the Veterans' Bureau, because of the lower rate of interest charged on the loans.

The rediscount rate on the certificates in this district is three per cent, and the banks are permitted to charge two per cent above that figure, making a total of five per cent. The maximum rate of interest charged by the government is four and one half per cent.

Main Offices for Loan Aid to Veterans

General headquarters where ex-soldiers can apply for information, necessary forms and assistance on applying for loans, with office hours, follow:

Veteran Bureau Regional Office—5118 Penn avenue, 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Allegheny County Council, V. F. W.—314 Plaza Building, 8:30 a. m. to 8 p. m.

The Sun-Telegraph—Main office lobby, Bigelow boulevard, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 9 p. m., Charles R. Haley, V. F. W., in charge; downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street, same hours; Clyde Hartzell, South Hills Post, American Legion, in charge.

U. S. TO PROFIT ON BONUS LOANS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(INS.)—Under the rates at which the government will borrow money this month to finance payment of loans on veterans' bonus certificates, the Treasury will make a profit of about $30,000,000 annually, provided the total loans aggregate $1,000,000,000.

Secretary Mellon today announced the March financing, which will take the form of $500,000,000 in 3⅜ per cent 12-year bonds, $600,000,000 in 2 per cent 12-month certificates and $300,000,000 in 1½ per cent six-month certificates.

HEARST PAPERS PRAISED FOR AID TO VETS

Sun-Telegraph's 2 Offices Help Speed Work of U. S. Bureau, Shortley Declares

Hearst newspapers throughout the country, including the Sun-Telegraph, today were lending full co-operation to U. S. Veterans' Bureaus, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign War organizations in speedily handling the thousands of ex-soldiers in filling out application forms for loans on the adjusted compensation certificates.

The main office of the Sun-Telegraph, co-operating with Regional Manager Michael Shortley, was maintaining a central downtown depot for applications. Representatives of the V. F. W. and Legion were in attendance at the main building lobby, Bigelow boulevard and downtown branch office, Fifth avenue and Market street.

DAILY SERVICE

Daily service is being maintained by the paper from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. at both offices.

In an effort to relieve the rush of applicants at any one point, the Sun-Telegraph is maintaining constant telephone connection with the downtown headquarters. When a long line forms at one point, the crowd can be quickly informed where other offices nearby can handle it without delay.

Lauding the newspapers' efforts, Shortley declared:

"Our bureau and the veterans are thankful for the service being rendered by the Sun-Telegraph in assisting the various headquarters to maintain a central depot without interfering with the bureau's routine. In arranging to give widespread publicity to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion posts maintaining neighborhood headquarters in the evenings, our work at the bureau is greatly lightened and permits more time to be devoted to sending out checks."

COUNTRYWIDE SERVICE

In all Hearst offices throughout the country the same co-operation is being offered in keeping with the efforts extended by William Randolph Hearst in supporting the passage of the loan bill. Many offices are printing forms where the bureaus' supplies have become exhausted; special storeroom headquarters have been opened with staffs in many cities. The Rochester Journal-American chartered a plane to fly to Buffalo for a rush supply of application forms.

VETS CONTINUE LOAN RUSH

the Veterans' Bureau but can mail them. Shortley asserted this would assist his office in reaching the total of at least 600 checks for mailing daily.

County Commander John B. Nicklas, Jr., of the American Legion, and County Commander James Pirt, of the V. F. W., today joined with Shortley in asking those members not needing money immediately to withhold making applications for several weeks so that the needy cases can receive first attention. Both commanders declared many ex-soldiers required the money for medical attention in their families and other pressing needs.

TWO PROCEDURES

Two procedures are being followed in the applications, one form being necessary where the veteran has not had a previous loan and another form where a loan has already been obtained. In the former case, the applicant must fill out a "Certificate of Identification," a form requiring that he be sworn before stipulated officials. Where a previous loan has been obtained this is unnecessary, the form merely requiring the official application.

Shortley today pointed out that where no previous loan had been obtained, the veteran must mail his adjusted compensation certificate with the application. Pointing out other important details, he said:

"No loan can be granted on an adjusted compensation certificate unless it is two years old.

"An additional loan can be secured only from the office holding the certificate. For instance, if the veteran obtained a loan through a bank and the bank has sent his certificate to our central office in the Arlington Building, Washington, D. C., the veteran must make his application to that office for the additional loan. If the veteran secured a previous loan through the Philadelphia office of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, he must obtain all additional loans through that office.

SUN-TELEGRAPH AIDS

"After making application for a loan, the veteran will save our time and help us speed up the work of writing checks if he will not write letters concerning the application."

The Sun-Telegraph working with all Hearst newspapers in assisting the veterans' bureaus in handling the rush for loans, has opened its offices for veterans' organizations to meet those seeking to fill out applications. Clyde Hartzell, of the South Hills Post 156, American Legion, is stationed daily at the downtown office from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. to provide application forms, information and assist in filling out the forms. The same service at the same hours is being offered by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the paper's main office, Telegraph Square, by Charles R. Haley.

V. F. W. Agencies in All Districts

Veterans of Foreign Wars posts have arranged to provide ex-soldiers with bonus loans application forms and assistance in filling them out in various districts. The assistance will begin tomorrow, all posts listed herewith maintaining evening hours, from 7 to 9.

County Commander James Pirt announced downtown offices at 314 Plaza Building were open daily from 8:30 a. m. to 8 p. m. No daytime staffs will be maintained in the neighborhood headquarters.

One exception will be at the Corp. Everett Post 514, McKeesport, which will have day and evening headquarters starting tomorrow. During the day, veterans can apply from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. at the Diamond Garage, Market and Fourth streets. # Alma Rubens 'Kidnaped' Driver In Daring Dash for Freedom

Tricked Chauffeur by Threat With Iron Bar He Believed Was Gun in Star's Hands

By ALMA RUBENS

CHAPTER XXVII.

BEAUTIFUL ALMA . . . 'THE SUN POURED IN AT THE WINDOW'

I dropped back on my pillow and pretended to be asleep.

The two nurses and the two attendants whispered together. The whispering, the strange searching looks, the knowing smiles—these are hard things to bear, and every patient in every such institution must bear them, hour by hour, and day by day as far as my experience goes to show.

Nurses—I suppose some of them do their best, but some of them do their worst, and some nurses at some of these institutions have by long practice developed a perfect system of malicious persecution that is almost satanic in its cunning and cruelty.

I made up my mind that this tall, strong, silent nurse with the watchful eyes and the thin ironic smile, was going to try to drive me into a tantrum so that there would be an excuse to lock me up somewhere in a cell with barred windows.

I looked at her, and smiled what I hoped was a sweet and winning smile.

"I'll fool them all," I thought. I wasn't an actress for nothing.

I did fool that nurse.

"She isn't so bad," thought the nurse. I could see her thinking it. "All she needs is a strong hand."

"I'll fool her," I said to myself again, and for once I fooled my haunting demons, too, and dropped off to sleep.

In the morning the tall nurse stood by my bedside with a pretty tray in her hands. On the tray was a glass of iced orange juice, dainty toast, marmalade and fragrant coffee. I ate like a famished animal.

Gained Strength

The coffee gave me strength. I got up and paced the floor.

The windows of my room looked out on a beautiful garden, the air was like a tonic, the sun poured in at the window, and I could see through the glass, along one of the long, broad, smooth, winding roads of California.

It called to me as the sirens called to the shipwrecked mariners in the old, old story.

If I could only get out, if I could only step into a car and whizz down that long, smooth, winding road, away, away, away, into freedom—again.

Just as I was trying to plan some way of escape I saw my mother drive up to the entrance of the house.

She was not 50 feet away from my window!

Like a flash a plan of escape rushed into my brain.

I ran into my bathroom, twisted off the steel rack, put there to hold wash cloths. I bent the steel bars back and forth, back and forth, until I broke one off, then I twisted it free at the other end. I had in my hands a steel tube about five inches long. I tucked it inside my dress.

An instant later an attendant opened my door, and told me my mother was waiting for me.

I followed the attendant into the visitor's room.

My mother gathered me into her arms and kissed me tenderly.

Alma Watchful

"How do you like it here, darling?" she said.

"Fine," said I. "I'm sure they can cure me here."

We talked together, my mother and I. I told her of my beautiful rooms, my delicious breakfast, and the fine streaming sunshine that poured into my bedroom.

All the time we were talking I was watching the group of nurses standing in the hall, near the open front door. There were six of them, all tall, strong, determined women, with quick, watchful eyes, and firm, self-controlled mouths.

After a life time, it seemed to me, three of them walked away—I was afraid to wait any longer.

Through the open window I could see Fred, our chauffeur, dozing in the front seat.

"Now or never," I thought.

Turning to mother, I asked her for a dollar. To give to a nurse, I explained.

Mother fumbled in her purse, took out a dollar and gave it to me.

"Wait just a minute, mother," I said, "I'll be right back."

I stepped into the hall, sidled past the three nurses near the door, and was out on the sidewalk and into the back seat of the car, before any one noticed my maneuver.

Chauffeur Cowed

I snatched the steel tube from my bosom and put the cold end of it against the back of Fred's neck, he thought it was a pistol barrel.

"Don't turn around, don't make a sound," I said. "If you do I'll blow off the top of your head. Step on the gas, and step lively."

Fred began to beg.

"Please, Miss Rubens," he said, "don't make me do this. I'll lose my job."

"You'll lose something more than a job if you don't do as I say. Make it snappy." I pressed the steel tube harder into the back of his neck.

Fred made a snappy, and, as we vanished in a whirl of dust, I looked back and saw my mother on the sidewalk surrounded by a dozen doctors and nurses, all excitedly pointing at our speeding automobile.

Bonus for Home Guards?

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

guarded the reservoirs will be allowed all they can drink. The profiteers who made the paper shoes and the non-explosive ammunition will get preference in the next war. Which is better than a license to steal.

The dollar-a-year men will get 10 per cent of their original salaries figured out on a peace basis. The fact they got a dollar in the first place was due to war hysteria.

It was such a nice war we want to do something for the boys who helped to nurse it along. And we wouldn't require an extra session of Congress to shower a few nonabrasive testimonials on the beezark who started it.

Never try to stop a high pressure salesman from jumping off the wharf. He will talk you into jumping off with him.

And we don't want to do that because we are on the mend. March came in like a lion and is liable to come back like the Spartan oyster on its own half-shell.

Spring is not only in the air but there's a couple under the back seat, where you need 'em most.

Congress has passed most of its legislation and President Hoover vetoed everything with that good old jolly vigor made famous by Cal Coolidge.

There is no doubt that Cal will go south in history as the man with the million vetoes. One day he even reached for the weather report when somebody grabbed his wrist.

What difference does it make? They've done everything to embarrass the administration but give it a glass bath tub.

We've been acting as silly as a giraffe trying to play mumbly-peg with the neighbor's children. But it's fun. The Democratic party has worked itself into a fine case of suspended animation.

Next Tuesday the Democratic National Committee meets in Washington. It's not so much a convention as a survivors' meeting.

The boys will start by sticking pins and needles into each other to discover signs of reserve power. Then they will breathe on mirrors.

If you pass those tests you are still a Democrat.

We want to see them get together and make the next campaign one that will be remembered by somebody else besides the Republicans.

Competition is the life of trade. That's the fault with democracy. It has been selling its flypaper in the winter time.

Next year is a presidential year. It's also leap year. That's a coincidence. But it can be synchronized.

We hope a new Democratic great auk rises from the ashes of an incinerated organization.

Maybe it's not an auk. It might have been a phoenix bird or a fabulous roc.

RUSS PLOTTERS PLEAD GUILTY

MOSCOW, March 2.—(INS.)—In the second big counter-revolutionary trial within a few months, 14 prominent economists charged with treason appeared in court today and pleaded guilty to all accusations.

The penalty of their offense is death. They emulated the eight engineers who stood trial last December on charges of sabotage and conspiracy to overthrow the Soviet, by pleading guilty as soon as the indictment against them was read.

The trial opened and continued on its ponderous course, strangely devoid of the glamor and street-drama that accompanied the trial of Prof. Ramzin and his associates. While there were Klieg lights and cameras, there was no nation-wide broadcast, and the howling mobs demanding the lives of the defendants were absent from streets and squares.

Stomach Ulcers? Don't Operate!

Home Remedy Ends Pain Quick.

No expensive treatment, no rigid dieting necessary. Stops pain, soothes and heals ulcers, neutralizes the acid condition causing trouble. Jacob Fritz of Newport, Minn., writes, "I suffered 40 years without relief from pain. An examination showed ulcers. Von's Pink Tablets stopped all pain in five days, and it never came back. Ulcers all gone. Am 70 years old, but now feel and look like 50 because of perfect health."

Ulcers, acidosis, constipation, gas, sour stomach are relieved quick by Von's Pink Tablets, when taken as directed. Von's Pink Tablets cannot be bought at drug stores. They are always sold direct from our laboratories. Write today for valuable free booklet telling about these ailments and explaining Von's method of ending them. Ligonier Von Company, Dept. ## FRAT DANCE DATE NEARLY OFF

"Triple-Action" Eleventh Hour Rescue

D. Roest

"For weeks I had been looking forward to a fraternity dance at Lehigh. My luck—the day of the dance I had to get a bad cough! My mother gave me some Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup; and I stayed in the house all that day. Immediately, the cough got better. And although I still felt a little shaky, I went to the dance and had a good time. No ill after-effect next day. My cough was completely gone — thanks to Smith Brothers'!" D. Roest, Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, New York.

Mechanic Fixes Cough

"Triple-Action" Helps Him to Health

R. W. Combs

"Crawling under cars in a great big drafty garage is almost a sure way to catch coughs. Every winter, so far, I've had my troubles. This winter, on the boss' recommendation, I got a bottle of Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. It certainly worked like double-heavy oil on my 'valves'. In no time at all, my cough stopped; my cold got better; and I have been hitting on all cylinders ever since." R. W. Combs, 6451 Wentworth Ave., Chicago, Ill.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

When Enrico Caruso died leaving nothing but a hallowed memory to Metropolitan followers, they turned to the stalwart, home-loving Beniamino Gigli to take his place. How well this golden-voiced tenor has succeeded is known to every music lover. Gigli is the first of 12 internationally famous stars to entertain us each Monday night at 8:30 over WJAS. Tosselli's "Rimpianto," better known as his "Serenade," is a song Gigli does with much dramatic appeal. His last offering—"Santa Lucia"—lingers in our memory as the tune we liked to warble best in grammar school days. Its Neapolitan simplicity and beauty are unexcelled.

Tom Vastine became worried the way we tooted on the big horns of his musicians when they weren't looking, so in an attempt to ameliorate matters for all concerned he asked us what band piece we liked best. By way of truce we hear "Semper Fidelis" on KDKA at 8.

When that 110-piece Pan-American Orchestra plays on WCAE at 10:30 o'clock listen for a certain selection composed by Eduardo de Fuentes. He is often referred to as the Victor Herbert of Cuba.

QUESTION A DAY:

Answer—"Sitting On a Five-Bar Gate."

Ben Bernie (WABC at 11:30) has dubbed Richy Craig, Jr., as "Sir Richard of the Air," and recently sent Craig this telegram: "Dear Richy: After hearing your program Tuesday, I traded you for the Market Reports. Don't know which affected me most. Signed, The Old Maestro."

* * *

On a par with this is the joke Lloyd Yoder of NBC writes us about Tom Hanlon, announcer at KFI. Tom was called to the telephone after the conclusion of a symphony concert performed by 100 instrumentalists, in which the string section numbered 62 men. "Excuse my bothering you," said the caller, "but would you mind telling me who it was playing the cello?"

They've asked Lily Pons, young French soprano, to include the famous "Mad Scene" from "Lucia di Lammermoor" when she sings for the WCAE audience at 7:30 on Easter Sunday.

* * *

"The Peanut Vendor"—Victor Young's Orchestra (KDKA at 9) is Will Rogers' idea of a swell song because no one can sing or whistle it.

MEMORIES

Now it's time to say something about Brian McDonald. Brian is an old pal. When he was manager of WJAS in the old days we used to sit on a microphone stand, the piano or whatever was handiest and plot how we might become famous. Brian's silver notes would rhapsodize us into dreamland and about that time the city editor would call and ask when we expected to write the next day's column. Brian would continue the song that night on the air after expressing his sorrow for the way we newspapermen had to slave.

Brian McDonald

Time flew by (as it always does) and we at last became associated in "Gazette-Tele Radio Revues" every Friday night. Benny Rubin, the celebrated comedian, was called in to be M. C. of these productions and was the first man to read a comic paper on the air. Funnier than that was the way he hung around after the regular program to hear Brian sing.

The result was that when Benny packed his bags to go to New York, Brian packed his also. Show producers shoved him into musical comedy and there he was—FAMOUS—overnight.

The things we had talked and dreamed about came true.

They've called Brian back to the old home town to be an M. C. and that's honor anytime to be a "prophet" in the burg where they know you best.

We're still writing radio for the same newspaper and wondering if we'll ever make Charley Danver or O. O. McIntyre jealous.

Brian is on KDKA at 11:15 tonight and it makes us feel good to tell you about it.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

SCORES BIG VICTORY OVER RIVALS IN ST. LOUIS TEST

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself
Creator of "Believe It or Not"

"We're from Missouri," wired the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "Got to prove it to us . . .

"Bring out your black masks . . . and let's see if OLD GOLD can win this 'show-me' town."

Out I went. Bag and baggage. Bought a flock of the four leading brands of cigarettes in St. Louis stores. Concealed the names with black masks.

Then set out. Covered the town from river boats to factories. All told, 1041 smokers . . . sampled all four brands . . . picked the one each liked best.

Result? Not even close! OLD GOLD, 334. Brand X, 264. Brand Y, 237. Brand Z, 206.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, March 2.—Talk has succeeded music as the most popular product of the microphonic mills. Never in the history of the republic has the gift of gab been so profitable and all because of radio.

Until radio entered the national scene, talk occupied a relatively low financial position. A few monologists managed to reach the haven of financial independence, a few Chautauqua orators roamed the land for stipend more regular than impressive, but for the most part those with a special gift for gab were forced to depend upon the wages of book agents and street tonic dispensers.

Radio changed the situation. It produced out of its magic hat impersonators of two humdrum Negroes battling with the bewildering life about them and the deluge of words began. Deluge? It's more like a Niagara. It pours from the loudspeakers with a force and volume that must be audible on Mars. Who isn't talking on the air? I can think of no one save female impersonators and ventriloquists.

Strain your ears in any direction and what do you catch? A constant procession of voices bent on telling the world. Historians of the war are fond of recalling the interminable march of the green-gray German hosts through Brussels. The German parade is like a G. A. R. procession of today in comparison to the hordes of gabbers that are marching to the microphones.

Two years ago it would have been reckless folly to have told, say, a Hoover commission that the time would soon be at hand when the ear cuppers would demand something more from the loudspeakers than Beethoven and Berlin, Gounod and Gershwin, when top and lofty word-spilling would take its place with amorous balladeering, when Rudy Vallee would go the way of all flesh and "Pagan Love Song" would give way to the personality able to ladle out old truths in a new dressing or new truths in old dressings. But such is the case.

The list of speakers is inexhaustible. Early and late they din their message into the ears. Glibly and falteringly, with booming voice and nasal, with smoothness and pile-driving punctuation they talk. It is the golden age of gab. And to the garrulous belongs the spoils.

Every kind of talk is available from that concerned with senatorial thumb nosing at the White House to that of those who have looked long and minutely upon cook books.

One can hear in a space of an average week rural philosophers, homespun poets, members of the vast stage army who have mastered German and Yiddish and Negro dialect, advisers to the lovelorn, those who have endured the silences of polar icebergs, interpreters of economic problems by the thousands, travel guides, dog fanciers, commentators of books, of sports, of news; advisers of those who are about to diet, front-seat observers of the Hollywood circus.

The Frank Crumit-Julia Sanderson combination is rapidly winning a place among the heavy-sugared artists of the air. They are now drawing pay checks from three different commercial sponsors.

Songs of today are quite as sentimental as those of the sombre nineties. The only difference is that the majority of those of today are touched with a wisecrack brush. One of the most tinkly of current sentimental tunes is "Cheerful Little Earful." Through its rhyming title and the words "The well-known I love you," it escapes any suggestion of the maudlin.

Radio speakers are forever talking of their "outstanding days," "greatest thrills," "most memorable events." Why not for a change—it might prove diverting—tales of the dullest days, the most trivial events, the heights in boredom?

Broadcasters say that "yes" is pronounced seven different ways on the radio. Oh yeah?

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome
If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to all May's & Liggett's Drug Stores, or your druggist, and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.
This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM IN REVIEW; LOCAL AMUSEMENT EVENTS

Hugh Trevor Finds Dual Job Keeps Wolf Away in Movie Capital

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 2.

Not every actor is as lucky as Hugh Trevor.

Finding roles temporarily scarce, he has gone back to the insurance business as a partner of William Hawks, Bessie Love's husband.

Trevor never intended to become an actor. He went out to sell Richard Dix an insurance policy and "Rich" talked him into the movies. Shortly thereafter, he signed with R-K-O, and turned out to be a competent juvenile.

Richard Dix

In these quiet times, however, even good actors find themselves without work. And most of them haven't any other trade. Trevor is doubly fortunate, for he goes back into the insurance business with valuable connections formed during his acting days.

Although he has bought into the business with Hawks, the young leading man isn't through with the films forever. If a role comes up, he will accept it. But in the meantime, he eats.

Not only that, but this fortunate young man is Betty Compson's steady.

Not so long ago, a flapper star, then working at First National, met one of the studio big-guns on the lot.

"Are you saving your money?" he asked, paternally.

LATEST GOSSIP

These air-minded stars, Ann Harding and Harry Bannister, will fly in their own plane to the April aviation show in Detroit. The motor metropolis is Harry's home town, and it was there he met Ann, while playing stock. . . Bill Boyd and Dorothy Sebastian are off on a belated honeymoon to Honolulu. At the time of their marriage in Las Vegas, Bill had to hurry back to Hollywood to finish a picture. They'll be gone a month. . . Leo McCarey, who has just finished directing Gloria Swanson in "Indiscreet," has signed a contract with Caddo Productions, of which Howard Hughes is the guiding hand. Before making a picture, however, the director will take a trip to New York. . . Joan Marsh, M. G. M.'s promising ingenue, will have a part in Christie's "Meet the Wife." She goes from one picture into another. . . Charles Judels, the character-comedian, refuses to sign up for less than a week's work. As he is good, M. G. M. recently paid his seven days' salary for what turned out to be 15 minutes' work. He also has received the same amount for one day at Warners, and for two days on a Raoul Walsh picture . . . Felix Young, former actors' agent, shortly heads for New York to look for new talent for Paramount. It's all inspired by Jesse Lasky's recent announcement that Paramount is going after "the greatest stock company in the history of the motion picture business."

Melodrama!

Ann Harding has the heroine role in the talk screen version of the old romantic melodrama, "East Lynne," coming Friday to the Stanley.

THREE ACTRESSES ADDED TO PICTURE

Marjorie White, Fifi Dorsay and Ruth Warren are the latest additions to the galaxy of feminine attraction which will be the title role of the new Flagg and Quirt picture, "Women Of All Nations."

Greta Nissen will be the chief point of contention between Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe, and a newcomer, Rosalie Rae, also has been chosen for a prominent part in the proceedings.

Meanwhile Director Raoul Walsh is keeping the Fox studio casting office busy interviewing more actresses and is conducting rehearsals with the players already selected.

McLaglen, finally out of the Hollywood hospital where he has been recovering from a minor operation on his arm, is bickering with Edmund Lowe over the ladies as usual. El Brendel also is in the cast.

Robert Montgomery To Visit New York

Robert Montgomery, who is now completing work in "Shipmates," will leave for a vacation in New York as soon as this picture is completed. This will be his first trip "back home" since leaving the New York stage about two years ago to begin work in talking pictures. Montgomery is under long-term contract in Hollywood and his last role was opposite Constance Bennett in "The Easiest Way."

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you knew all along!)

That no geographer knows where the Hudson River ends and the North River begins. (There, now! Toy with that for a while).

That the law enforcer of Suffolk County is named Blue.

That the district attorney of Orange County is named Lemon.

That the word "hussy," now used derisively, was once meant to designate nothing more than a respectable housewife.

That most of us are righthanded because the forefather used the left hand for a shield over the heart, while swinging a weapon.

That it was Andrionicus of Rhodes who coined the word "metaphysics" even though our dictionaries do not say so.

That Elihu Yale, founder of that collitch, married a native of the East Indies, who bore him three daughters.

That the Spanish Fly (a drug) comes from Russia.

That the Hungarian "Csikos" (cowboys to you!) are as dexterous with rope and horse as any U. S. cowhand, even though they wear petticoats.

That George Washington, on leaving Guion Tavern, kissed the cheek of the hostess. Thereafter she never washed her face.

That the Miami weather has been so erratic the slogan, "It is always June in Miami," should be "It's always June in July."

In Richmond, Va., Sam Heller is a ham seller.

That over in Puget Valley thunderstorms are so nearly unknown that grownups quake and tots hide under beds when one occurs.

That Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde were conceived in a dream.

That the Brahman rinses his mouth seven times the first thing in the morning when he gets up, and that the females are exempt from this performance because their mouths are "everlastingly pure."

That the white elephant isn't white or gray—but yellowish.

That the Arizona garnet, the most beautiful of all such stones, is brought up to the earth's surface by an ant.

That water never killed a drowning person. Death ensues from respiration having stopped, and not because the water got into the lungs. Because water cannot get into the lungs. Yes, sez me!

That President Fillmore took his first bath in a bathtub after he had passed the aged of 50.

That Christmas is not a holiday in Kansas.

That in 1874 the French passed, among other laws, one which prohibited anyone from making a round kerchief. They had to be square.

That lobsters have teeth in their stomachs.

That Claude C. Hopkins was the world's highest paid ad-writer ($150,000 per year). He popularized the Free coupon.

That Malaysians in their tribal feasts drink down their viands with kerosene, regarding the liquid an exceptional feast.

That Tallulah Bankhead stage-named herself after her home town, which is Tallulah, Alabama.

That Western Union has more cable stored in the ocean (not in use) than they have in the storehouses.

That when you are in Havana you mustn't call the Cuban President by his name (Machado) these days. It's "Mr. Smith."

That in the Sunday World of May 25, 1930, Quinn Martin, erstwhile cinema critic, wrote: "No silent film ever again will succeed on Broadway. Not even the one Mr. Chaplin insists he is making."

That "dead as a door nail" was a 14th Century wisecrack.

That the best line in a long time is the Bethlehem Globe-Times' line: "What a world! Nobody will take your last cigaret, and everybody will take your last dollar."

That the recent blurb credited to Fred Girton (of The Friday Night, a Miami weekly), viz: "If the old fashioned gal ever comes back it will be from an automobile ride," brought us a rude letter from C. E. Heil, of that staff, who wept that how could a little feller like himself get anywhere if a guy like me stole his stuff and credited his boss. He was mercilessly mean.

That we answered his letter and regretted not seeing his initials at the bottom of his long column of puns, adding that we credited his boss so that some credit line would be noted.

That we almost died the next night in the Pullman when, while reading Film Fun, we came across the same gag about the old fashioned gal. In fact Mr. Heil's entire column was thefted from that movie mag.

No matter which way you spell it—a Heil is a Heil.

Tibbett's Picture Titled 'Prodigal'

"The Prodigal" has been selected as final title for Lawrence Tibbett's new starring film, formerly known as "The Southerner." This picture, based on an original story by Bess Meredyth and Wells Root, was directed by Harry Pollard. The supporting cast includes Esther Ralston in the feminine lead, Roland Young, Hedda Hopper and Cliff Edwards.

END INDIGESTION IN 10 SECONDS

Pain, Gas, Belching Vanish Quick with Amazing New Prescription—Acidine

It's the best way to end burning acid stomach, heartburn, dizziness, belching, bloating, gas and headache from acidity. Stops pain, gas; quickly ends acid troubles. Get ACIDINE from your druggist today. Costs only a few cents—and say goodbye to acid stomach torture.

Mrs. Elmer R. Hall, of Chicago, Illinois, says: "I had suffered from indigestion for several days. Then I tried Acidine. I took three doses, and, Presto, I was feeling fine."

ACIDINE is entirely different from other known remedies. Contains the marvelous digestant, Japtase. In the laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 800 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes! Five other scientific ingredients stop burning acid, soothe irritated stomach, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach pain.

Don't run chances of dangerous, painful troubles from acidity. Get ACIDINE today and note quick relief from sourness, pain and belching. You can eat, drink and smoke all you like. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

JACK HOLT TO PLAY REX BEACH'S HERO

Jack Holt, he-man actor of open film spaces, has been cast in one of his favorite out-of-door roles in Radio Pictures' "White Shoulders," a Rex Beach story, scheduled for early screening.

He will play the part of a civil engineer. Incidentally Holt worked as a civil engineer before he became one of the screen's popular players.

Fannie Hurst Story For Marion Davies

"Five and Ten," a picturization of Fannie Hurst's novel of this name, will be Marion Davies' new starring picture, according to announcement by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Miss Davies recently completed work in "It's a Wise Child," and is scheduled to start work on her new vehicle very shortly.

Jailed for Failure To Pay 'Gas' Tax

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 2.—Harry Smith, owner of a gasoline service station on Butler road, has been sentenced by Judge R. L. Hildebrand to two months in the County Jail and to pay a fine of $25 and costs on each of two charges of failure to pay the gasoline tax. The sentences run concurrently. The amount of tax unpaid is $3,600.

TENSE TOLSTOY DRAMA WITH PATRICOLA AT DAVIS

By GEORGE SEIBEL

No stronger contrast could be imagined than the frivolous Tom Patricola and Tolstoy's "Resurrection," which is what the Davis Theater has to offer this week. Tom does not appear in "Resurrection," but Lupe Velez does. This Spanish hoyden, with her alluring come-hither eyes and oozy theme songs, has reformed and gone Russian. She is a very staid and sober Katusha, victim of dashing John Boles as Dmitri and of the stately matriarch played by Nance O'Neill.

George Seibel

Tolstoy would have torn out some of his whiskers if he could have witnessed some of the things that have been done with his novel of atonement. But it has all been done reverently, and the moral of his harrowing tale is driven home.

ROAD TO SIBERIA

There are very fine scenes of the tragic pilgrimage to Siberia over the wastes of snow. There are lovely pictures on the Russian farm—but the best of "Resurrection" is the sincere acting of Lupe Velez and John Boles. Tolstoy would have approved of that, as well as of some prison horrors.

The vaudeville bill also has a few horrors by way of variety, as Owen McGiveney presents a tabloid version of "Oliver Twist," in which he plays all the parts. He is in turn Fagin, Monks, the Artful Dodger, Bill and Nancy Sikes, doing everything except drag himself around by the hair as Bill drags Nancy. By a system of flashlights behind the scenes, the audience can see him make his lightning changes from one character to another. It wouldn't be believed if it couldn't be seen.

PATRICOLA'S TAKE-OFF

Then Tom Patricola, with his maddening dances and uproarious humor, parodies the McGiveney act very amusingly in "The Wager." Patricola is assisted by the shapely and graceful Pearl Twins.

Speechless

Mountain Lion Kills 2 in Mexico

TAMPICO, Mexico, March 2.—(AP.)—A mountain lion killed two women at a railroad point midway between here and Monterey. Peasants organized to run the beast down.

PICTURE IN HARRIS IS "CRIMINAL CODE"

"The Criminal Code," dramatic photoplay, which recently had a run of three weeks in the Warner, is now being presented in the Harris. It is a story of prison life, involving a young man caught in the relentless toils of the Law.

Walter Huston is seen as a district attorney who later becomes prison warden among the men he once prosecuted in court. Phillips Holmes is the hero and Dorothy Cummings portrays the warden's daughter.

The picture has many gripping episodes and it holds interest throughout.

Carroll and March In Same Film Again

Nancy Carroll and Frederic March have returned to New York after vacations in the West Indies. They will work together soon in a new film, "Between Two Worlds." Miss Carroll was "lost" for a few days before her return, since she unexpectedly took a boat from Havana to Hollywood, instead of returning directly to New York. March grew a beard during his trip, on which he was accompanied by his wife, Florence Eldridge.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The First Mrs. Fraser," opening tonight in the Alvin, brings back Grace George, who once delayed the mighty Hannibal on "The Road to Rome." There'll be a mat on Wed and Sat.

"The Student Prince" will pursue his studies in the Alvin, beginning March 9. This is announced as a farewell for the royal stude. Seats Thursday.

If "all the world's a stage," as the Bard hath it, the property-man is more important than the players on it.

The Nixon goes "Strictly Dishonorable" for a week, beginning tonight. Flobelle Fairbanks, niece of Doug., will help in bringing that state to this honored house. Daytime shows are listed for midweek and week-end.

Unless something befalls betimes the Nixon will be nix next week.

Some actors spend a lot of energy getting ahead and then find it swelled when it is acquired.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" is the play in which the George Sharp Players will become rumanesque in the Pitt from tonight on until the customary hour for closing saloons next Sattidy night. Thursday and Saturday Joe Morgan will pet his snakes in the afts as well as eves.

Anon (which is Greek for March 9) Mr. Sharp's valiant crew will undertake their most ambitious undertaking, "Death Takes A Holiday," which is no picnic for the undertaker no matter how you look at it. Ann Forrest will play Death's sweetie.

The actor makes up for his part, but often the part fails to make up for the time audiences spend in witnessing it.

There has to be a first time for everything, so Jack Simon, manager of the Aldine, has selected Thursday (or is it Friday?) for the first midnight opening of a fillum in that house. Charlie Chaplin, in "City Lights," the host. City and county officials—and you, too, maybe—the guests.

The last laugh is the best laugh and this one may be on me—for thinking you have got this far.

Y. M. & W. H. A.

|---|---|
| Toccata | Frescobaldi |
| Sonata No. 1 | Boccherini |
| Variations on a theme of Mozart | Beethoven |
| Concerto in A minor (in one movement) | Saint-Saens |
| Lamento | Faure |
| Allegro Spiritoso | Senaillier |
| Intermezzo (from "Goyscas") | Grandos |
| Le vol du bourdon | Rimsky-Korsakoff |
| Sicilienne, theme and variations | Weber (arr. by Piatigorsky) |

The long-awaited Gregor Piatigorsky, a new star among cellists, played his first Pittsburgh concert at the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association last night, and just about took the house by storm. A musician of magnificent temperament and a most engaging personality, he at once conquered his listeners. After that he could do no wrong.

Mr. Lissfelt

There is truly no other cellist with so grand a tone nor with so broad a sweep to his bow. In all his playing is an elemental ruggedness that is almost overpowering; then it appears that his instrument becomes too limited for his expression, and like Paderewski, he sometimes exceeds those limits. But his cantilena is like the voice of Wotan in a Wagnerian opera. And when his deft fingers play a characteristic miniature like Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bee" the effect is dazzling.

Lida Antik played accompaniments, not too easy a task for so fiery a soloist.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

A slight mention of Representative Jim Rooney's beer bill, which he has submitted to the Legislature, has brought from that young lawmaker a generous offer to share the honor of that bill with his friend John O'Donnell, the North Side wardchairman. In fact, Statesman Rooney goes so far as to describe his bill as the Rooney-O'Donnell beer bill.

Mr. Pfarr

This reveals Mr. O'Donnell in a new and kindly light. In his habits he has always been known as a fanatical dry, but his sponsoring of the Rooney beer bill is certainly conclusive evidence that he is broad-minded enough not to try to interfere with the personal habits of others.

Diplomat Rooney has been in the Legislature only a few weeks and he is only 23 years old, but he has acquired the political touch early. In his letter he uses such resounding terms as "Un-democratic," "Un-Republican," "Un-American" and "Taxation Without Representation."

Dr. Walter L. Ritter, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, is a member of the Sigma Pi fraternity, and a few nights ago at a fraternity reunion he told the audience of an incident which occured some years ago.

AN' I SAID, "SAY AMEN"

The doctor happened to be passing through Sunday school room one day while the class was in session. The teacher announced to the class that Dr. Ritter would say a word or two about the day's lesson.

Finally he parried: "Well, children, what shall I say?"

And a 5-year-old whispered "Say amen and sit down."

There is a beauty shop in the Negley building and when fire broke out in the building Friday a lady who was being administered a permanent wave had to escape with her hair in disorder. It was right in the middle of a permanent wave.

The permanent waver and the lady fled to a shop next door, where the wave was unwaved and the lady was able to be herself again. She asked reporters not to mention her name in their reports of the fire because—well, because her husband hadn't wanted her to get a permanent.

They put Jake O'Leary, of Chartiers Valley, on the spot at a semi-private dinner the other night. The toastmaster, Larry O'Toole, had insisted that the speakers orate on any subject which he chose in introducing them.

"And now," O'Toole announced, "we'll hear from Jake O'Leary on the stirring subject of 'The Monkey Wrench.'"

Jake stood up, surveyed his audience and without hesitating, began:

"Every monkey wrench has its turn. And now it's mine."

Street beggars, in these days of competition, must develop their ingenuity if they're going to get anywhere in their profession. And Ray Phillips knows of one who has. Mr. Phillips was strolling along Fifth avenue when the beggar approached him and said:

"How about a touch, mister? I'm a good skate."

And so doing, he waved a roller skate—presumably a good one—before Mr. Phillips' impressed eyes. The beggar won, because Mr. Phillips has a weakness for roller skates.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal.,
March 2.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The soldiers lined up getting their money sure look like they needed it. The big financial boys say it's "bad economy to pay the money now."

Will Rogers

When was anything connected with the war good economy? Even entering it wasn't a stroke of financial genius. Hog Island cost as much as this bonus. And the enemy couldn't find it, and neither could we.

A debt is just as hard for a government to pay as it is for an individual. No debt ever come due at a good time. Borrowing is the only thing that is handy all the time.

Yours, WILL.

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By JOHN J. PERSHING

Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces

Succeeding chapters of "My Experiences in the World War" will appear daily and Sunday exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

CHAPTER L.

Hospitalization and completion of three corps headquarters and staff organizations occupied my attention the last week of June, 1918.

Twelve of our divisions were then either in line or in reserve behind the French, five were in training in French areas and five were in training in rear of the British army. Of those with the French, seven were concentrated in the vicinity of Villers-Cotterets and Chateau Thierry, between the French front and Paris.

The British seemed to think the French unduly nervous about the safety of Paris and that Foch was holding a greater proportion of American troops behind the French lines than necessary. They believed there was a strong probability of another attack against their front, and felt Gen. Foch was not paying enough attention to their situation.

Gen. Pershing

However, they probably did not realize that a counter-offensive was contemplated on this front should the occasion present itself.

The First Corps Headquarters, organized in January under Maj. Gen. Hunter Liggett, with Col. Malin Craig as Chief of Staff, had become a smoothly working machine ready for active service anywhere but events had moved so swiftly there had been no opportunity for the assembly of divisions.

With the increasing size of our army it was evident that a greater number of divisions would be able to take part in operations at earlier dates than we had thought possible. Consequently, the organization of the Second, Third, and Fourth Corps Headquarters was at once completed.

Wanted Permanency

The Second Corps, Maj.-Gen. George Read commanding, with Col. George Simonds as chief of staff, and a limited number of staff officers, was charged with matters of administration and command pertaining to the divisions behind the British front.

The Third Corps, temporarily under Maj.-Gen. William M. Wright, Col. Alfred Bjornstad chief of staff continued to supervise training of divisions serving in the Vosges area. The Fourth Corps was temporarily under the corps chief of staff, Col. Stuart Heintzelman with headquarters at Toul. By the actual constitution of these corps they were expected soon to become efficient enough to handle units in operations.

Maj.-Gen. Wright

It was our policy throughout the war to make the basic corps organization as permanent as possible. The corps commander and his staff and certain corps troops such as heavy artillery, signal and engineer contingents and supply units thus formed a team that grew in efficiency with experience. Divisions were assigned to corps according to circumstances but were not attached with any idea of permanency.

As to hospitals, when our troops became suddenly engaged in the Chateau Thierry region we had to rely largely upon the assistance of the French to care for our wounded.

Although they had given us every assurance that hospital arrangements for those operations would be complete, and without question did their best, it was only through the mobile hospitals we had organized that we were able to give our casualties proper attention.

In extenuation of the French failure to take care of our casualties properly, it must be said that when the Germans swept over the Chemin des Dames to Chateau Thierry the French lost 45,000 beds included in some of their best-equipped hospitals.

We had not hospitals on that front, and with limited transportation found it difficult to supplement the scant French facilities. In fact, the situation as to hospital accommodations for our troops was about to reach a critical stage.

In this connection a cable was actually submitted by Mr. Casper Whitney for the New York Tribune which was scathing in its denunciation of our medical department. The censor immediately informed the medical representatives at my headquarters, and Gen. Ireland, the chief surgeon, requested an investigation, which was at once carried out by the chief of the Inspector General's Corps, Gen. Brewster.

Mr. Whitney was asked to be present at all the hearings, and when the actual facts were brought out, showing the efficiency of the medical department, he was most apologetic and thereafter

JOB AID GIVEN NEW GROUP

Two hundred more men went to work today at jobs provided by the Allegheny County Emergency Association. They replaced the original 200 who had worked since last Thursday. The original 200 will be paid at 3 p. m. tomorrow at 51 Tunnel street.

One new job was added to the list today—that of removing rock from the Mt. Washington roadway.

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Public Works Department, presented an ordinance to Council today requesting $5,000 for material for patching several unpaved streets, so that more work may be supplied.

Other ordinances request $7,500 for trucking on other improvements and $5,300 for sewer improvements. Council recently has also been asked for $292,000 for 13 other construction jobs.

Additional contributions received from corporations announced today, included those from the Arsenal Printing Company, Consolidated Ice Company, Feltyberger Brothers, Impervious Varnish Company, Leon C. Jeffry Company, Inc., Gammack & Co., Pennsylvania Underwriters Association, Henry W. Oliver Estate, Westinghouse Air Brake Company, Kroger Grocery & Baking Co., Kay, Richards & Co., Carbo-Oxygen Company, Moore, Leonard & Lynch, National Biscuit Company, Raphael Electric Company, American Window Glass Company, Edgar E. # BISHOP GARLAND DEAD, VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

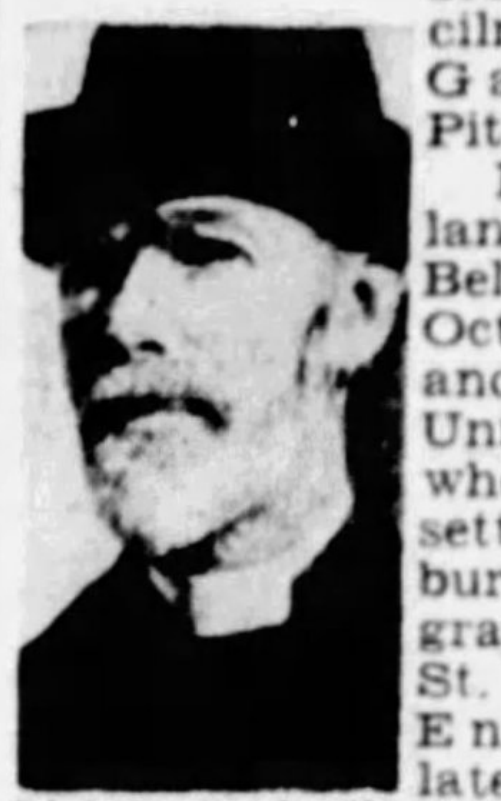
Protestant Episcopal Leader And Ex-Steel Executive Spent Early Youth Here

The Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Garland, 64, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, diocese of Pennsylvania, and former steel company executive and minister in Pittsburgh, died in Philadelphia last night of pneumonia. He was a brother of Councilman Robert Garland, of Pittsburgh.



Bishop Garland

Bishop Garland was born in Belfast, Ireland, October 25, 1866, and came to the United States when a youth, settling in Pittsburgh. He was graduated from St. Bees College, England, and later took theological examinations of first class at Cambridge and Oxford universities.

GENIUS AS MANAGER

Through relatives, the Oliver family, he became interested in the iron and steel business shortly after his arrival in Pittsburgh, and manifested such genius in organization that before he had attained the age of 21 he had been made manager of the Oliver Iron and Steel Company. Upon reaching his majority he retired from the steel business as well as the brokerage business, to enter the Philadelphia Divinity School.

He was ordained a deacon in 1891, and a year later was advanced to the priesthood, and sent to Pittsburgh as assistant rector of St. Peter's Church, Oakland. He remained here only a year, going to Johnstown as rector of All Saints' Church, remaining there two years.

IN ILL HEALTH

From 1903 to 1911 Dr. Garland was secretary to Bishop Whitaker and continued his clerical work under Bishop Mackey-Smith. He was made bishop suffragan of the Pennsylvania diocese in October, 1911, serving 13 years in that post before succeeding Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander, who resigned in November, 1923, as diocesan bishop. He was elected in January, 1924, as bishop of the diocese and installed the next May.

He had been in ill health for some time, and last Wednesday was stricken by pneumonia.

The day previous he preached in Old Christ Church, Philadelphia. During a trip around the world, from which he returned last September, he was seriously ill for a month in Bierut, Syria.

Lawyers to Honor Justice R. S. Frazer

FARMERS VISIT CITY IN SURVEY

Fifty Somerset County farmers, headed by their county agent, C. C. McDowell, were to spend today and tomorrow in Pittsburgh studying local market conditions under the auspices of the agricultural committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

The study, arranged by the Pittsburgh chamber's committee, of which T. D. Harmon is chairman, is a part of the chamber's program of agricultural development designed to encourage Western Pennsylvania farmers to ship more produce into this market, which now is dominated by agriculturists from other states.

Ministers of the Pittsburgh conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, are holding an all-day meeting today in the Bellevue M. E. Church, the Rev. Dr. John B. Magee, pastor. Luncheon was served by the Ladies' Aid Society.

PASTOR SCORES 'THIRD DEGREE'

A protest against alleged police brutality in the use of the "third degree" was voiced by the Rev. W. H. Hanna, pastor of the Knoxville Christian Church, Knox avenue and Charles street, at services held there last night. The protest, which stated that: Before any proof of guilt and in order to secure a confession prisoners are subjected by policemen to mental torture and physical abuse, was unanimously adopted by the members of the church.

Many of the mysterious deaths, says the Rev. Hanna, that occur in police cells are to his mind the results of police brutality in the intemperate use of the "third degree."

Special invitations had been extended to Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh and to Director of Public Safety James M. Clark to attend the meeting and explain the reason for the use of this method of investigating prisoners, but neither appeared. However, the protest of the use of the "third degree" in Pittsburgh has been sent both of these officials.

BLANKS SENT LAST YEAR'S PAYERS

Promptness to Avoid Late Rush Urged; Aid Available In Preparing Statements

By midnight Monday, March 16, every single person whose income exceeded $1,500 last year or married person whose income exceeded $3,500 must file an income tax return.

March 15, the usual day for filing returns, falls on Sunday. This gives taxpayers an extra day, but it is advisable to avoid the last minute rush at the Federal Building. Assistance will be given by employes of the Revenue Bureau to persons requiring help in preparing their statements.

The tax may be paid in full at the time the return is made or in four equal installments, due on March 16, June 15, September 15 and December 15.

BLANKS SENT OUT

Income tax blanks have been mailed to individuals who paid a tax last year. Failure to receive a blank does not relieve a person of the obligation to file a return.

In addition to the personal exemption allowed a married person, or head of a family, a further exemption of $400 is allowed for each dependent under 18 years of age. Even though a married person's exemptions make it unnecessary for him to pay a tax, he must file a return providing his income exceeded $3,500. Each year employers are required to file statement of wages paid to employes to facilitate the work of the department in checking on payments of taxes.

Much misunderstanding exists to persons whose status changed during the year. Divorced persons or separated married persons are classed as single and are entitled to exemptions of only $1,500. The $3,500 exemption applies only to married persons living together or to heads of families.

PROPORTIONAL PAYMENT

The revenue act provides that, if a person marries during the year, his personal exemption shall be determined by apportionment in accordance with the number of months he has been single or married. A fractional part of a month is disregarded unless it amounts to more than half a month, in which case it is considered a full month.

For example, a couple married on October 14, 1930, may file a joint return and claim an exemption of $3,125 which is 9-12 of $1,500, or $1,125 for the husband while single, plus $1,125 for the wife while single, plus 3-12 of $3,500 for the period they were married.

With respect to the $400 credit for a dependent, the taxpayer's status on the last day of the year is the determining factor.

Graphic Arts Group Again Honors Pittsburgher

By PENELOPE REDD.

The American Institute of Graphic Arts in announcing the sixth annual selection of the "Fifty Prints of the Year" again includes the names of William Wolfson, of Pittsburgh, as one of America's premier graphic artists.

Penelope Redd

Despite the fact that Wolfson's work has been selected as one of the "Fifty Prints" for the third time, there is an additional interest in this year's choice because the woodcut, "Six A. M." is now on view at the twenty-first annual exhibition of the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh.

Indeed, the local organization gave Wolfson his first chance to compete with his peers.

Wolfson has always expressed urban scenes with an individual style which is at once trenchant and poetic.

His early adventures in the graphic arts were all of Pittsburgh subjects. Dry points of the Logan street market, lithographs of children at play in Schenley Park, or of a little girl in Soho, meeting her father, were typical.

In the medium of wood cut, Wolfson is a tyro. His janitor of "Six A. M." belongs to the company that George Bellows created with such vigor.

The "Fifty Prints of the Year" will be shown at Carnegie Institute here, at the Art Center in New York City, and at Smith College in Northampton, Mass., through the month of March. Thereafter, they will be sent on a nation-wide tour as the best 50 from some 900 prints made in America by our ranking graphic artists.

The Associated Artists of Pittsburgh well merits the honor of having admitted "Six A. M." before it was chosen as one of the "Fifty."

BANDITS' FAKE CALLS TO POLICE AID IN ESCAPE

Wrong Man!

EXCLUSIVE PHOTO to Sun-Telegraph

ALFRED SCHWARTZ

Mr. Schwartz, Pitt student now doing his studying in Montefiore Hospital. Answering a call intended for another "Alfred Schwartz," he was hurt.

IDENTITY ERROR BRINGS INJURY

The fact that Alfred Schwartz is a name borne by three students of the University of Pittsburgh, is a matter of regret to one of the trio today. Albert Schwartz of Jersey City, N. J., residing at Bayard Hall, 200 North Dithridge street, a student residence club, lies in Montefiore Hospital as the indirect result of mistaken identity.

University students often earn extra money by having their names placed on hospital lists for blood transfusions. The hospital called one Alfred Schwartz listed, but got the wrong man. The notified man, not being aware of the mistake, hurried to the hospital on his motorcycle to investigate the summons. Rounding a curve, the machine skidded, turned over and pinned Schwartz beneath. He escaped with bruises.

The hospital later secured the right Alfred Schwartz for the blood transfusion, and are now caring for the young man whom they called by mistake.

BOTTLE MURDER TRIAL BEGINS

Traffin Yenchenko was to be arraigned in Criminal Court today, charged with the murder of Wasil Pancrato, 42, of 2205 Watson street. Pancrato died in the Mercy Hospital August 4 as a result of being hit on the head with a milk bottle the day before, in his home in Watson street.

Three visiting judges will assist the local jurists in handling the cases this week. A new grand jury was to start work today, and two new panels of 120 jurors each were to report for service.

On Thursday three election boards from the Strip are scheduled for trial. Alleged irregularities growing out of the primary last May resulted in information being filed against the boards of the Fifteenth District, Sixth Ward; First District, Sixth Ward, and the Ninth District, Second Ward.

ROB CAFE WHILE SLEUTHS GO ON WILD CHASES

Two Restaurants, Store And Gas Stations Looted; Girl's Purse, $40 Seized

Two bandits who by a ruse insured their escape after the holdup early yesterday of the Sofis Restaurant, 5909 Penn avenue, were still being sought by police and detectives today.

Before staging the robbery, they called East End police and told of a traffic accident at Penn avenue and Beechwood boulevard. While the emergency crew was speeding to the scene the bandits telephoned police again, this time reporting a riot in Spahr street.

Then they entered the restaurant, rifled the cash register of $300 after menacing Gregory Flemens and Mrs. Mary Kolis employes, with revolvers.

NORTH SIDE HOLDUP

An hour after the East End robbery, an armed robber entered the Vellis Restaurant, 612 East Ohio street, held up James Sados, the night manager, and escaped with $15 from the cash register.

The J. B. Jordan catering store, 256 North Craig street, was invaded Saturday night by three armed bandits who obtained an unestimated amount of money. The trio forced Miss Frances Stiles to hold up her hands while they took the money in the register.

GAS STATIONS ROBBED

Harold Winkler, attendant at the City Service Gasoline Station, Hamilton and Dallas avenues, was held up by two bandits who obtained $20, early yesterday.

A few hours before another City Service Station, at 3500 East street, was held up by two men who took $50 from Ralph Beckert, an attendant.

Miss Collette Switzer, 20, of 1228 Evans street, McKeesport, was held up by two men, one of whom snatched her purse, containing $40 she reported to McKeesport police. She was en route home yesterday when the theft occurred., police said.

$500 Damage Caused By North Side Fire

Fire starting in a rubbish barrel in the rear of a cigar store operated by M. Garenstein, 120 East Ohio street, caused damage estimated at $500, when it spread along the outer wall to the Star Beauty Shop and United Laundry Agency on the second and third floors late yesterday.

Found unconscious from monoxide gas fumes, the life of William Swartz, 50, of 1938 Middle street, Sharpsburg, was saved early today when the victim was rushed to St. Francis Hospital by Motorcycle Patrolman Chester Zygello, of the Sharpsburg police. Zygello was patrolling his beat when he glanced into a garage in the rear of Slusser's service station, Twenty-second and Main streets, and saw Swartz unconscious in an automobile.

BIRTH CONTROL URGED BY MINISTER

Squirrel Hill Pastor for Annullment of Runaway Marriage; Upholds Divorce

Birth control was approved and advocated by the Rev. Dr. William M. Woodfin, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian Church, Squirrel Hill. Speaking at a community service in the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. Woodfin approved birth control and advocated sterilization of criminals, and the insane and physical and mental examinations as a requisite to marriage.

Runaway marriages were condemned by the pastor who declared that the parents of such young couples should have the marriage annulled. He said:

"So many young people go to Wellsburg and make a lark out of a sacred responsibility. Out of half a dozen runaways to Wellsburg, four have turned out disastrously. Since young people treat such a marriage as a joke, their parents should treat it the same way and have it annulled instantly. Why should young lives be blighted by a foolish blunder. If parents would refuse to recognize these cheap marriages and have them annulled they would tend to put a stop of such marriages."

The speaker condemned easy divorces but said divorce was justified on grounds of common justice. He also advocated that the churches do more to educate people on how to live together.

Barbecue Slaying Suspects Freed

State police of the Point Lookout barracks last night released three young men arrested in Aliquippa Thursday as suspects in connection with the Wednesday holdup and murder of Frank J. McGreevy, barbecue stand owner, in the McKeesport-Irwin road. McGreery was shot and killed by one of the bandits while the latter was searching his pockets. Witnesses to the shooting were unable to identify any of the suspects.

"YES—I am 39 years Old!"

SAYS IRENE RICH

"I DON'T mind confessing it a bit," says Irene Rich with her warm, irresistible smile. "I really am thirty-nine years old!

"A screen star never worries about birthdays, you see, as long as she doesn't look old. To hold her public—to face the cruel test of the close-up—she must keep the fresh loveliness of youth.

"That is why in Hollywood we guard complexion beauty above all else. We know it says 'youth' quicker than anything else. Any woman who wants to keep her charm right through the years should keep her skin always soft, smooth, youthfully aglow."

How does this lovely star guard complexion beauty? Just as so many other Hollywood actresses do—605 of the 613 important ones! "I use Lux Toilet Soap regularly," she says, "and have for years."

For every type of skin, Hollywood will tell you, this fragrant, delicately white soap is the perfect complexion care. Surely you will want to try it!

A VOTE YOU CAST EVERY DAY

In America the people rule. They put parties in and out of power as they see fit. They choose presidents, governors and mayors. The law makers who do not do their bidding do not stay long on the job...

So the people control business. They buy what they like. What doesn't please them they pass by. Some concerns succeed and others do not—their fate is in the hands of the people.

In politics the people vote only at regular intervals. In business it's an every-day affair. By ballots in one case; by hard-earned dollars in the other. And every day more people vote in this way for A&P stores than for any other.

Only stores that serve the public well can stay on the job for 71 years.

Ferrero, Noted Historian, Scheduled to Lecture Before Clubs Here

Guglielmo Ferrero, famous Italian historian and philosopher, who is to lecture here before the Twentieth Century and the Friday Morning Clubs this month, published the first volume of his "The Greatness and Decline of Rome" in 1901. This work was in five volumes and when completed was translated in many languages and published all over the world with great success.

Mr. Ferrero was invited to this country in 1908 by Theodore Roosevelt, who declared him to be "the world's greatest living historian." Ferrero's writing career began at the age of 20, when he collaborated with the great Prof. Cesare Lombardo in writing "The Female Offender," which was published in 1893. He wrote "The Young Europe" after living for some time in Paris, London and Berlin. Upon his return from America he dropped history and devoted his time to philosophy, expressing his theories in "Between the Old World and the New," which hinted at such a catastrophe as the World War. Mr. Ferrero's "The Third Rome," a long novel which he published in Italy at the end of the war, was brought out in America as "The Seven Vices."

The distinguished visitor will address the Friday Morning Club on March 13, with "Christianity and Paganism" as his subject, and will speak before the Twentieth Century on the sixteenth on "The Problem of War—Suppression or Limitation."

Rose Meitlein Litt, violinist, will appear on the Tuesday Musical program of modern music tomorrow in Memorial Hall. Carolyn Mahaffey, contralto; Charlotte Shallenberger, soprano; Jane Schlotterer Cooper, pianist, and a group of students from Carnegie Institute of Technology in eurythmic demonstrations are others who will participate.

Mrs. Litt

An opera program is scheduled for March 17 under the direction of Anne Griffiths, assisted by Mary Jones Sherill and Jessie Yuille Yon. Excerpts from Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Verdi's "Falstaff" will be given.

The annual manuscript program has been arranged for March 31 by Ruth Stephens Porter, chairman of the manuscript section. Compositions of Alice Stempel, Josephine McGrail, Nellie Risher Roberts, Mary Hildeburn Parsons, Dorothy Radde Emery, Carolyn St. John and Gertrude Martin Rohrer will be presented by Elsie Breese Mitchell, Alta Schultz, Rose Meitlein Litt, Mary Redmond, Consuelo Metzger, Mrs. St. John, Christine Adams Jones and Evelyn G. Randall, of Washington, who will be the guest artist.

8 INDICTMENTS AGAINST RUTH

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 2.—Eight indictments, charging misapplication of $150,000 in funds of the Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania, Connellsville, of which he was president, were returned by the March grand jury against Linford F. Ruth, of Washington, D. C. It is claimed that before the Connellsville bank was closed Ruth so manipulated loans and notes that the accounts were short.

Ruth was arrested in Washington, brought here and freed on $20,000 bail. His case was listed for trial during March term but he obtained a postponement until June.

LAWYERS' POLL ON JUDGES DUE

Results were to be announced tonight in the referendum among the 1,712 lawyers registered in Allegheny County on the proposed two-judge bill pending in the Legislature.

The vote, which was being taken by the Bar Association, under the direction of Oscar Emrich, law librarian, resulted in the return of most of the ballots late last night.

A hearing on the bill will be held in Harrisburg tomorrow afternoon by the Judiciary Special Committee of the House. Members of the Legislative Committee will attend, accompanied by a tabulation of the referendum. The Bar Association, at a recent meeting, adopted a resolution against the measure.

Real Estate

A four-family apartment at 860 River road, Avalon, has been conveyed by Claude A. Strobridge to John J. Kvatsak in exchange for two houses at 1815-17 Davis avenue, Twenty-seventh Ward. The deal was consummated by Benjamin B. Moore, broker.

Percentage occupancy of office space, said by economists to be an accurate barometer of business conditions, shows Pittsburgh among the successful cities. According to J. B. Crutchfield, member of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association of Pittsburgh, the city's average vacancy of total office space is 10.8 per cent. This is well under the national average. Were it not for generally retarded business, says Crutchfield, Pittsburgh would probably be confronted with an acute demand for office space.

A $45,000 addition to its plant in North Dennison avenue is being planned by the Haller Baking Company. According to plans prepared by Paul R. Scheunaman, architect, the addition will occupy an irregular lot approximately 48x115 feet and will be of steel and concrete construction. The proposed building will house the private and general offices of the bake oven department with the street floor being utilized for shipping purposes. The addition will enlarge the plant about one-third.

The Teutonia Premium Building and Loan Association of Pittsburgh has been admitted to membership in the United States Building and Loan League. Officers of the newly accepted association are M. J. Scheller, president; George Alberth, vice president; Albert L. Madder, treasurer; John Kucharski, secretary, and W. F. Stadtlander, attorney.

A house in Bingham street, Seventeenth Ward, has been sold by Anna R. Wolf to Felipe Gutierrez for $5,614. The lot measures 60x80 feet.

Twenty-eighth Ward—A. C. Patterson, brick dwelling, 1332 Oakglen street, $4,500.

You either feel GOOD or you don't

Chief Connally had both these experiences

"I FELT weak and rundown. My color showed that my blood was very pale. I suffered from poor circulation. A Pathological Laboratory made a test of my blood, and the examination showed it to be 33% below normal. It was then that I decided to take a course of S.S.S.

"In about six weeks' time, after taking S.S.S. regularly, I had another blood test made, and it showed that my blood had been restored to normal. My appetite was greatly improved; so much so, that I could eat pork, and the like, without any discomfort. And to my surprise, my skin and complexion became clear as almost new, and like a child's.

"I think S.S.S. is the most wonderful blood medicine and tonic of its kind on the market today. It has so improved my circulation and the condition of my blood that it has made me feel like a young man again, although I am 56 years old."

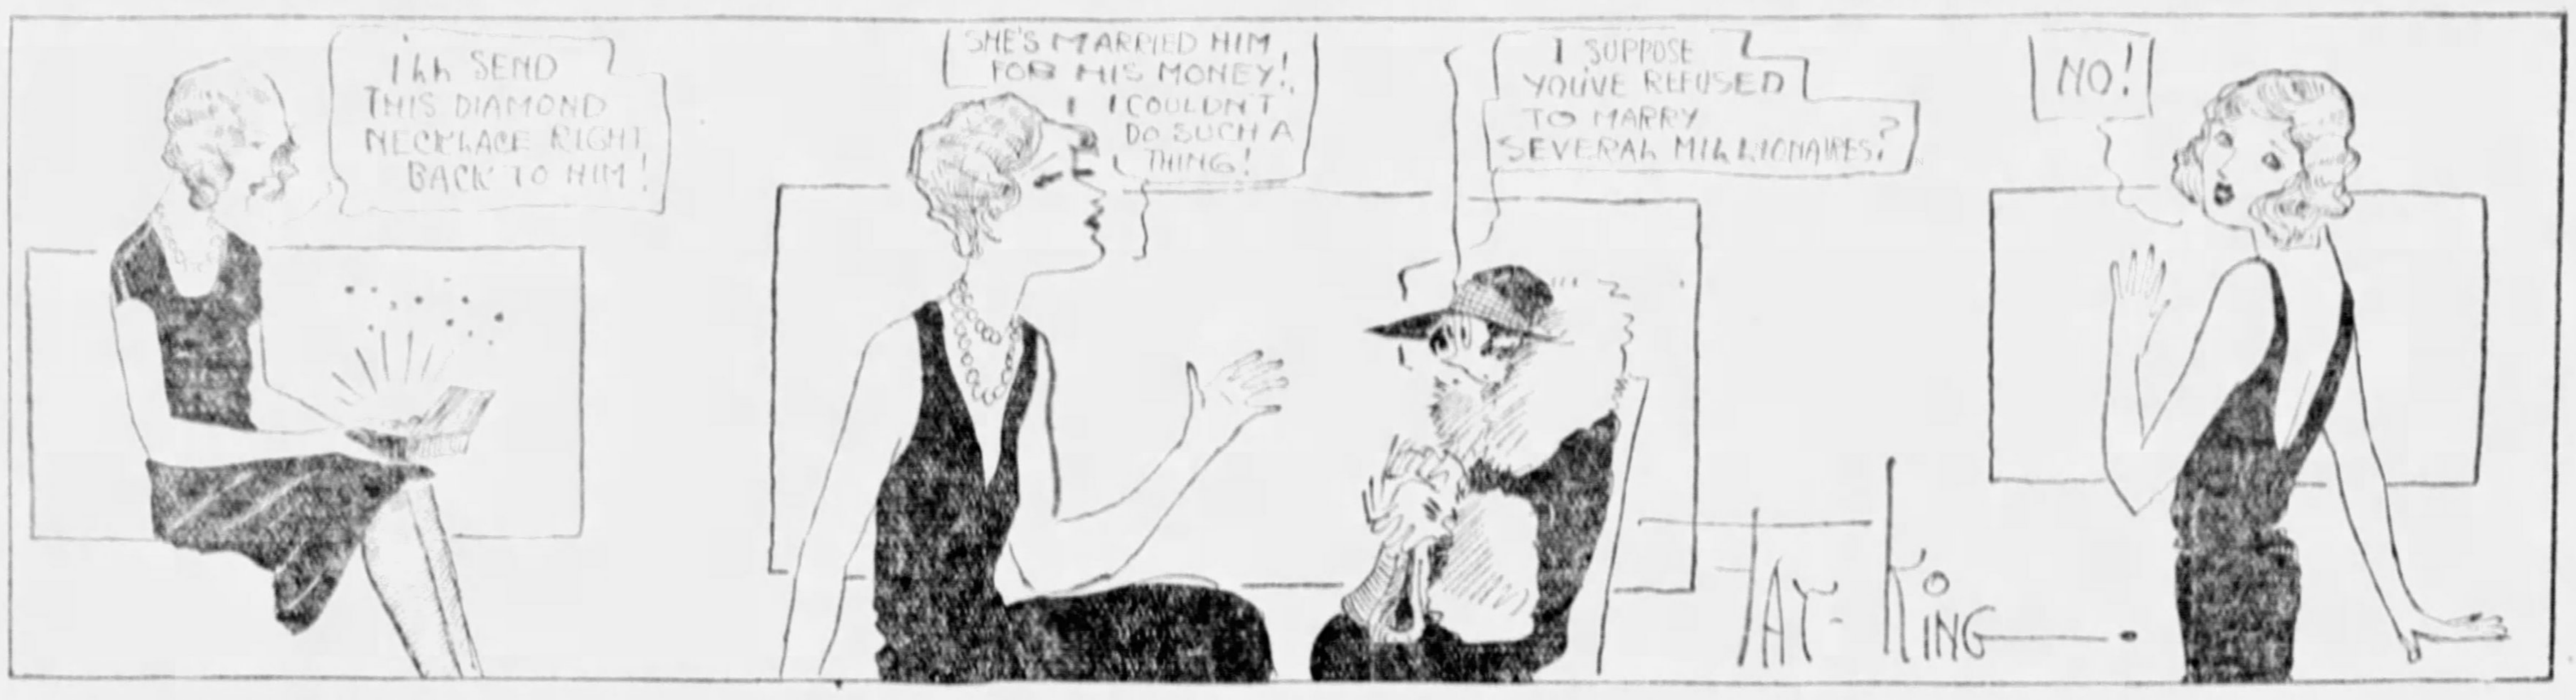
Easy to Condemn One for Doing Things We Might Have Done—Fay King



I'LL SEND THIS DIAMOND NECKLACE RIGHT BACK TO HIM!
I SUPPOSE YOU'VE REFUSED TO MARRY SEVERAL MILLIONAIRES?
NO!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

It is so easy to condemn the other person for doing a thing that you have not had to decide upon for yourself.

For instance, we are inclined to condemn the girl who marries for money when we, ourselves, have never had an opportunity to refuse a man who could give us all the luxuries that money can buy.

We condemn another for accepting priceless gifts, yet we wonder if we ourselves might not find it a little hard to return a diamond bracelet or a string of pearls.

Of course it has been done.

History tells us of one great beauty who returned jewels to an emperor, saying they were meant only for a courtesan or a queen —and she was neither.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

You Will Find Monotony if You Dodge Reality

Is the Lure of the Gypsy Trail calling you?

Do you long for Life ... Romance ... Adventure—

And are you sure they're only to be found on mountain trails or pirate seas?

Anne Marie does and is.

"There's something missing in my life!" she cries. "I hate the monotony ... just going to work every day and home again! Just seeing a lot of dull people and dull buildings day after day! I long to tramp in the wind ... to sail away somewhere, I don't care where! I need salt in my life!"

And the chances are that cry is echoing in your heart ... and in the hearts of scores of other people going rebelliously about their daily tasks ...

Hates Monotony

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I read your articles every night, when I get home from work, and you help me a lot sometimes but now I wish you'd give me some advice about myself. I can go to a stranger better than I could to one of my own folks. They'd just laugh. But I think you'll understand. Here is my story.

"I am a young girl, going back and forth to and from work each day and hating the monotony of it. I have a good father and mother and a few good friends, but there is something missing in my life—there's an ache I can't explain—a sort of dull pain pulling at my heart. There is something missing in every modern person's life, I am sure.

"I want life, adventure, romance. And I want courage to find these things. All I do every day is to sit in a dull office and see a lot of dull people, from 8:30 till 5, and then I go home from the office. Is that living? No! I go to a few shows, I have a few pleasures, and I try to 'put on an act' as if I enjoyed myself. But an act is all it is.

"I am something of a dreamer. And sometimes I dream of mountain trails, with the smell of pines and fresh wind blowing. I dream of the streams, the sky, and being out there where they are, with the one I love, working, suffering, planning. Then sometimes I dream of the sea ... being a pirate ... an adventurer, just taking life as it comes. But the only time I get to do any of these things is when I do just dream.

Wants to Travel

"There must be a way of just quitting this life I'm living, of breaking up ties that bind one to the daily grind day after day, and going out where those things are. Don't you think so? Right now I would love to go away off somewhere, get among different people, into a different environment, do something that will give me the things of life that are, after all, the only things worth while.

"I am sure that God didn't mean human beings to be cooped up in ugly cities, breathing impure air and there must be places left where it is different. I know it. But none have the courage to break away. I must break away and I will.

"I want to buy a hiking outfit, a dog (I love dogs, they understand one)—and just travel. Anywhere. I don't care where until I find where I belong. I would work when I needed money. You said in one of your articles that no matter how much good green grass a herd of cattle has, it will travel miles no matter how long and hard the trail for salt. That's what I need in my life. Salt! I want a home and babies some day, but I must find my salt first or I'll never be happy or satisfied.

"Do you think I could do what I want to? Please help me.

"ANNE MARIE."

Could you go adventuring on gypsy trails, my dear? Yes, probably you could. But I doubt if you'd be any happier than you are now. Most of us think that other pastures are greener than ours no matter where we are. And life is always monotonous unless we meet it with sense and insight and courage, and live it with imagination. Just now, your imagination is ranging far hills and high seas, and missing the sparkle and zest that are right under your nose.

You think you want to live life in the raw but you're mistaken. You're really afraid of life and you're bound, not by the monotony of your days, but by that fear. Your desire to "hit the trail" is really a desire to escape from that fear ... a desire to escape from people.

Should Face Facts

People crowd around you ... press upon you ... and because you're really afraid of them you revolve inside yourself and dream. You long to run away, to find the life your fears deny you. But you can't find life by running away from it. Life is here — now ... all around you. And the salt of life lies in the common experiences of life, met squarely and courageously.

Then what'll you do? Study those "dull" people you meet. Study them as you once studied grammar. If you'll do that, you will soon find that they're not queer and awful beings, but just folks as hungry for your friendship and approval as you, down in your heart, are for theirs. And you'll soon see that that "something missing" has miraculously been found.

It's a pretty picture to dream of swinging along a mountain trail beside a winding stream, with the birds singing and the sun shining, with no other human being to disturb your self-confidence. But if you tried it, you'd find monotony there, too. The trail is hot and dusty. Water and food are scarce. And while flowers may blossom along the trail, blisters often blossom inside your boots.

So stop dodging, Honey, and dig into the adventure of living right where you are. Salt's all around you, if you'll forget yourself and look for it!

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Remember this: Before applying make-up, there should be a preliminary cleansing. An oily, thin liquid is desirable, but must be thoroughly wiped away with a bit of old, soft Turkish toweling or a cleansing tissue. When eye shadows and dry rouge are put upon a soiled cutaneous surface they smear. If a girl knows her beauty paints, she makes a first-class job of the first attempt, and does no touching-up afterward.

Cutting the hair has no effect on its growth. If it were the tonic some women believe it to be, we'd have no bald headed men among us. They trot-trot to the barber shop for a haircut every few weeks. Cutting has been beneficial to women because it has made shampooing easier, and shampoos are had more frequently. Also with the long wopses of the pre-bob periods few heads of tresslocks were rinsed free of soap scum.

Dicky Consents to Madge Wearing Veritzen's Flowers.

There was that in Dicky's tone which made me loath to answer his query concerning the method of handling Philip Veritzen which Lillian had advised. But I dared not hesitate. I did not wish him to feel that I attached any especial importance to the proposition I was about to make. And I did wish him to understand the truth, that the idea was Lillian's from inception to possible conclusion.

"Lillian thinks we ought to humor him as far as possible, in the same manner that one treats any mentally sick person."

Dicky struck his fist upon the table and I shot a side glance toward the end of the room where Purnell was working which brought a swift, muttered apology.

"Sorry. I won't explode again. But when you talk about humoring that hyena—the way I'd humor him would be with a club studded with jagged nails—I see red all over the place. Go ahead. I begin to see light. In just what particulars do you and Lil wish the dear old thing humored?"

I felt my courage slipping, snatched at it and held it steady.

"It's about this party," I said. "I have counted so on Mary having a perfect evening and I was afraid that Mr. Veritzen would spoil it by some exhibition of his enmity toward her. But instead he has seemed unusually interested, and as you know, not only offered theater boxes at his house for the whole party, but also insisted upon sending all the cut flowers and corsage bouquets for all the women guests. It's wonderful of him to do it for her—"

I had kept up bravely up to this point, though conscious that Dicky's quizzical eyes fixed on me held sardonic mockery. But when he gave an exasperated little snort I faltered and flushed.

"You'd better blush," he said, but I was relieved to hear nothing but amused mockery in his voice. "I'll fall for the humoring stunt, and a lot of others, but when you calmly state that Phil Veritzen's playing the bountiful caliph at this party because of Mary, you tax my credulity, or that of anybody else a bit too far. Mary could go without flowers until she had to go out and pick dandelions in the backyard for all Phil Veritzen cares, and you know it better than anybody. And for all your modesty and inferiority complex and all the rest of the inhibitions, you know on whom he's showering all the pretty posies. But that's neither here nor yet there. I see your point and Lil's, and I suppose the gist of the whole matter is that we mustn't risk wounding the vanity of the great sultan by refusing to wear his flowers. Is that it?"

I looked at him with sudden inspiration.

"Dicky, before I answer that question, I want you to answer one for me. Have you the remotest idea that either for policy's sake—on my own account —or from preference, I would exchange a single dandelion blossom from you for the costliest bouquet Philip Veritzen or any other man could send me?"

My eyes held his steadily, and with a little leap of my pulses I saw his face soften and a tender smile curve his lips.

"I'll admit I'm fatuous enough to believe that."

"Then," I pressed home my advantage swiftly, "can't you be generous and—"

"Oh! I'll countermand the order for the bouquet," he conceded airly.

"But—I don't want you to, even though it is terribly extravagant. I am going to wear Mr. Veritzen's flowers as a shoulder knot, but I'm going to take two or three blossoms from yours and tuck them in at my waist. The rest I'll have in my room. I suppose I'm terribly sentimental, but I'd like to feel blossoms of yours close—"

"To your heart?" Dicky asked softly, yet with whimsically curving lips. We were being terribly banal I knew, but I cared no whit.

"Yes," I acknowledged, and he swiftly put his hand over mine. Then his face darkened and I knew that some fresh cause of irritation had just come to him.

"Look here!" he said, withdrawing his hand, "I don't mind your wearing that old goat's flowers as long as he's sending them to all the women guests, but I do mind his getting the idea that he's beating me out on the proposition. When I came into the dining-room a few minutes ago, I heard him ask you if you had decided whose flowers you were to wear, and of course that meant he knew I was sending you a bouquet. Yet no one save you knew that little thing."

I looked at him steadily.

"Aren't you forgetting Edith?" I asked.

Household Hints

Salt thrown on a fire will extinguish a burning chimney.

Keep a small horseshoe magnet in your pin and needle box for picking up pins, needles or broken needles that may fall to the floor.

When stitching thin silk, etc., by machine, put white paper underneath material to prevent puckering or drawing; the paper is easily removed afterward.

How to Keep Well

Don't Apply Poultice to the Common Boil.

Dr. Copeland

In the good old days, the victim of a boil was treated at home. Grandmother would apply a bread and milk poultice to bring the boil to a head. There was a great dread of the knife in those times. Even the doctor hated to use it. The simple measures were depended upon by everybody.

Modern surgery does not depend on these remedies of long ago. Experience has taught us that if a boil appears, we are dealing with an infection. To get rid of the first boil and to avoid a series of them, we must remove the infection.

In some cases the quickest and safest way to deal with the boil is by means of an incision. This is no longer the simple lancing of the days long gone. A wide opening is made so as to insure drainage of all the accumulated pus.

Most of us fear the scalpel or knife just as much as our ancestors did. But, instead of fearing this little operation, we should respect it for the great aid and relief it gives.

Sometimes boils terminate in abscesses, which require more radical surgery. This complication is usually the penalty of delay. Fussing with useless poultices has softened the tissues and encouraged germ growth. An abscess is the natural result.

It is not necessary that every boil should be opened. But it is certain that poultices should not be applied to these infections.

Above all things do not squeeze a boil. The most dangerous thing you can do is to squeeze it. By doing so, you break the defensive wall that nature has thrown up around the boil. When you destroy this, you produce an abscess, which may do serious harm.

In cases where infection is present, but the pus is deep seated, it is wise to apply heat. This is best done by applications of gauze dipped in hot boric acid solution and kept hot by placing a hot water bag over it.

The effect of this treatment is to reduce the pain and localize the pus. Then it may be opened.

This is spoken of as bringing the boil to a head. If you continue with the hot applications, the pus will escape without squeezing. If poultices are applied, there will result a ragged opening, with great chance of the infection spreading.

To those individuals who are afflicted with numerous boils, modern medicine offers the use of a vaccine. These vaccines are of two kinds. The so-called "stock vaccine" is used or a vaccine made out of the pus obtained from the patient's boil.

Boils are never to be ignored and played with. I have known of serious results following the improper care of the common everyday boil.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, March 3

Although the lunar configurations point to a lively state of affairs obtaining on this day, yet it may not be considered entirely propitious. New projects are under a baneful ray, there is a sign of sudden disruption or change and personal affairs are attended by a sign of friction and inharmony as well as regrettable indiscretion, probably through intrigue and jealousy. It is urged that all affairs be managed with circumspection and precaution.

Those whose birthday it is may not find the coming year a happy or satisfactory one unless they manage affairs with discretion, good judgment, wariness as to deception and fraud, and exercise particularly circumspect conduct in their purely private relations.

A child born on this day should have much versatility and many good qaulities, but may be disposed to many traits which may make difficult situations.

Correct Manners

Poorly Planned Wedding Breakfast.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A young lady is to be married and is having a catered dinner. She is not sending out invitations but is visiting friends and relatives, inviting one of each family to the dinner. In other words, either the husband the wife, a son or daughter is invited. If the head of the house attends, he must do so without his wife, and vice versa.

My friends claim that it is proper for the bride to issue such invitations. I claim that it is wrong. My opinion is that no husband should attend a supper alone, as it is rude to the wife, and that no wife or daughter should go without an escort.

Another problem would be there would be a possiblity of too many women and too few men, or the reverse. I claim that the seating arrangements should be made in such a manner, as to have a gentleman beside each lady.

The discussion brought forth quite a tempest as all those who heard it side with me, and therefore, it was decided to ask your opinion.

O. M.

I too agree with you, unreservedly. This method of invitation is without taste. Either the young lady should not attempt this sort of dinner, or, if she does, she should give it with good taste, making her guests as happy as possible. She should limit the number of families she includes in her invitations, or increase the number of guests. Naturally, a husband would not wish to attend a dinner of this sort without his wife, and a wife certainly would not wish to go without her husband. I don't agree with you that the daughter of the family would need an escort, but husband and wife should, in each case, be invited together.

The Divorcee's Wedding Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct to wear the wedding ring after the divorce when there is a child?

2. How should one introduce the child's father?

DIVORCEE.

This is entirely as you feel about it—it's fundamentally a personal matter. If the ring means anything to you—even if only from the point of view of your child—then you'll probably want to wear it. If it is a symbol of an unhappy experience, then I'd certainly urge you not to wear it.

2. On the probably rare times when you will be called on to make this introduction, you might say, "Mrs. Norton, may I present Mr. Knowles?" or "Mrs. Norton, do you know Mr. Knowles," or, even more simply, "Mrs. Norton, Mr. Knowles."

Rely on Own Resources

Our experience during these operations showed that we must depend on our own resources for the kind of hospitalization and treatment that we expected our sick and wounded to receive. Mobile hospitals could not always take the place of more permanent installations needed after a great battle.

Gen. Ireland

The important question of enlarged hospitalization, with ample accommodations and attendants for the sick and wounded, was, therefore, receiving the very earnest attention of Gen. Ireland, in whose judgment and ability I had complete confidence.

Although new problems were encountered here and there as our troops were sent to different parts of the front, they were all met in such a way as to reflect credit upon our medical department.

My diary notes the following:

"Paris, Tuesday, July 2, 1918. After busy days at Chaumont came to Paris on Saturday, stopping at Orly to see new DH-4 with Liberty motor. Saw Gen. Langfitt on reorganization of S. O. S., which seems topheavy.

"On Sunday went to 1st Division and held first ceremony to confer decorations. Camps in excellent condition. Motored to British G. H. Q., stopping with Col. Bacon. Called on Sir Douglas Haig. Spent yesterday and today with Gen. Reed, 2d Corps, inspecting new divisions, including 80th, 78th, 30th, 33d and 27th, and consider the personnel most promising.

"Returned to Paris tonight. Have learned that French at last have begun to enforce requisition for horses. Bishop Brent commissioned Major, National Army. Brigade of Regulars, 2d Division, stormed Vaux this afternoon, capturing 500 prisoners."

Demand for Planes

It was encouraging to see our own airplanes, even in limited numbers, coming overseas at last. While some defects in manufacture had been observed in both the DH-4 plane and in the Liberty engine, these had been pointed out to the department at home and were in course of correction.

Although the French manufacturers made many suggestions that we should adopt this motor or that, and had none too mildly opposed the adoption of the Liberty engine, its success was instantaneous and the Inter-Allied Committee soon found itself swamped with requests for allotments.

To cover their new construction for the next six months the British wanted 5,000, the French 3,500, and the Italians 2,000 over and above the requirements for our own army and navy air services both at home and abroad.

The tonnage situation considerably restricted the shipment of planes from home, but for the time being France and England could furnish them provided we could supply the engines, but at all times the demand for both planes and Liberty motors was greater than the supply.

The horse question was one that gave us trouble continuously. Because of the tonnage situation and the scarcity of forage in France, and in view of the promise of the French to purchase and deliver to us 15,000 animals per month from April to August, both inclusive, we had in March recommended to the War Department that shipments from home be discontinued.

But, as has been stated, the French farmers were reluctant to sell, even at the increased prices offered, and the climax came May 31, when the French advised that due to military developments on the Western Front the government had issued orders suspending the purchase of any additional animals for the American forces.

Over Pershing's Head

I immediately took the matter up with M. Andre Tardieu, of the Franco-American Committee, calling his attention to the extent to which the French failure to supply animals would immobilize a considerable portion of our forces.

As a result the French agreed to adopt a system of enforced requisition throughout France, commencing June 20 and extending to August 1. It was estimated that there were in France not in military service approximately 3,000,000 animals, from 300,000 to 400,000 of which were thought to be suitable types.

We were promised 80,000 of the 160,000 to be obtained through the requisition, and in addition counted on approximately 14,000 from the British in accordance with their promise to supply horses for the divisions behind their lines.

Negotiations were also reopened for obtaining animals in Spain, and it was thought 25,000 could be obtained from that source.

These numbers, however, would still leave us with a large shortage August 1 and the War Department was therefore requested June 30 to resume shipments at the rate of 8,000 per month. It was realized that this number would not meet requirements, but it was hoped we might obtain still further assistance from the Allies and thus avoid a greater demand on our already inadequate tonnage.

About this time M. Tardieu took the initiative, and without consulting anyone sent a cable to the French ambassador at Washington requesting that our War Department begin the shipment of horses for our armies at the rate of 35,000 per month, to be increased progressively to 60,000 per month. The department was naturally alarmed, as the cable indicated a situation entirely at variance with what I had reported.

Happened Once Before

M. Tardieu

It will be recalled that exactly the same thing had occurred in the fall of 1917 in connection with the shipment of horses, except that then M. Tardieu was on the receiving end in Washington. When his attention was called to the importance of co-operation he was much embarrassed, and said that no differences in the future need be feared. M. Tardieu was most efficient, and as chief of the Franco-American committee aided us materially in procurement and in many other ways.

My diary says:

"Chaumont, Saturday, July 6, 1918. Conferred with Lord Milner Wadnesday morning in Paris and later with Haig, giving my objections to our troops in training being taken for an offensive.

"Attended meeting Supreme War Council in the afternoon.

"Reached Chaumont at noon the 4th and participated in celebration at Hotel de Ville.

"French Mission also gave an entertainment, with movies of 1st Division at Cantigny. Gen. de Castelnau called and Gen. Petain, Gen. Ragueneau and de Chambrun dined with us and attended a troop entertainment. Received many telegrams.

"As a compliment to the French, I issued orders yesterday making July 14 (Bastille Day) a holiday.

"Part of the 33rd Division made an attack with the Australians on the 4th.

"Held detailed discussion today with McAndrew, Hapgood and Eltinge on S. O. S. reorganization."

Discuss Shipping

Lord Milner came in from Versailles, and together we went over the problems of troop shipments and considered the continuance of tonnage for the increased American program.

He assured me their plans contemplated the same help they were then giving us, but he was very anxious that the American divisions behind the British lines should remain there, and somehow I felt that his assurance as to shipping might depend upon the number of divisions that would be held for service with their armies.

Marshal Haig, who called later, was also very solicitous as to the retention of our troops, and said he would be very much weakened if any more divisions were taken away. I told him that for the moment the question where they should serve would depend upon where they were needed most.

Col. Griscom

It had not been my intention to attend the July 3 session of the Supreme War Council, but a telephone message came from Mr. Lloyd George asking me to come.

It gave me the opportunity of thanking him for the spirit behind the British purpose to celebrate the Fourth of July with us, on which I had already written him a note. As he had sent word through Col. Lloyd Griscom that he wished to visit some of our units, this was also a chance to extend him an invitation in person.

At this session of the Council there was an absence of that tenseness that had prevailed at the last two meetings, the only question discussed while I was present being whether the Belgian Army would be under Gen. Foch. The Belgian chief of staff objected on the ground that a king could not be placed under the command of a general.

It did not appear to me that the point was well taken, as in the matter of rank both Haig and Petain were senior to Foch, who, after all, held his place by common agreement.

Celebrate the Fourth

In spite of the technical question of rank, the Belgian authorities, as represented by the King, were strongly in favor of co-operation.

Once the portion of the line to be held by each of the Allies was distinctly defined and the operations to be undertaken by each were agreed upon, Foch might have been called the Chief Coordinator.

Each commander-in-chief was superior in his own army, as he had been before, and Foch's task was to co-ordinate the operations of the armies in such a manner as to make it impracticable for the enemy to concentrate against one. In practice, this was the role he actually played under the provisions of his appointment.

The Fourth of July found me in Chaumont. The French people there never missed an opportunity to show their pleasure at having us in their midst and their appreciation of our aid to the cause.

The principal ceremony of the day was a reception to the officers of my headquarters by the local French officials, both civic and military, and the prominent citizens at the Hotel de Ville. This was an altogether delightful social gathering, including a series of suitable speeches.

The spirit of fraternity that prevailed made it easy to respond. In fact, on this, as often on similar occasions, I found myself almost as enthusiastic as the French speakers, though perhaps less content with my effort.

The Allies elsewhere did not forget that it was our Independence Day, and messages came from Clemenceau, Foch and Haig and many others from all over France.

Tomorrow: The British, despite Pershing's objections, get our troops into premature Fourth of July attack.

NEW BALL MAY HAVE MENTAL EFFECT

BACK IN THE heyday of his brilliant pitching career, Chief Bender generally was only starting to think where the average hurler left off, and he shows no change in his ways now as a Giant slab coach in beginning his thirty-first year in paid baseball. While other baseball men have studied only the physical side of the new ball question in figuring that the changed pellet is going to help the hurlers, Bender has gone deeper into the subject and comes up with the opinion that "the effect of the new ball will be largely psychological."

Chief Bender

Admitting that a 75-cent word like "psychological" is rather a big one for an Indian to be juggling, the scribes to whom the Chief made the statement at the McGrawites' camp in San Antonio explain that if he didn't get it at Carlisle he picked it up while residing in the cultured precincts of Philadelphia. But that's the word Bender used in giving his opinion of the 1931 pellet and he didn't get it in the wrong place, either. It expresses just what he wanted to say on the subject.

THE CHIEF BELIEVES that if the big league pitchers really think the new ball will help their deliveries, that is exactly the effect it will have. In other words, the confidence that must always be part of a pitcher's stock in trade will be reinforced this year by the feeling that he has far better tools with which to work.

It is Bender's view that the change in the ball is by no means great, but he thinks the fact that it has been altered even a little in the hurler's favor will most certainly count. Speed ball pitchers may find that the raised stitches will tend to rasp their fingers as they release their deliveries, he says, but that won't mean much of a hardship to any staff, as most of the tossers will be wanting to shelve the smoke ball to experiment with curves.

ALL AROUND THE wily redskin believes the new ball is likely to bring a radical change in the game, a departure from the overdone slugging and exaggerated long-distance hitting that have produced many farcical scores in recent years.

He admits that even the new ball may travel a great distance when thumped exactly right, but the thing is that not so many ordinary hitters as in the past will be meeting it squarely. The pitchers will have better control of it, and will be able to make it do more things through having a firmer grip on it by reason of the heavy seams, and under such conditions the batsmen will not get hold of it nearly so often as has been the case.

BENDER SKETCHED HIS career for Will Wedge. He is a quarter-breed Chippewa, which he says is pronounced Chippe-way and not Chippe-wah, he has a German name and he was reared as an Episcopalian. His father was a German-American farmer from near Albany, who went West and married a half-breed. After three years in an Indian grade school, he attended Carlisle from 1893 to 1901, learning the trades of tinsmithing and painting. He pitched his first game for money in 1901, at Hillsboro, Pa., receiving $3.25 for the engagement. He became a real pro at Harrisburg in 1902 under the name of Albert and hit the road to fame with the A's in 1903. He has managed four clubs in the minors since leaving the big show, including Johnstown.

Ralph Hogan

IF RALPH HOGAN and the Carnegie Tech basketeers, whom he coaches, did not accomplish anything else on their recent eastern trip they made the St. John's College team, of Brooklyn, play so brilliantly to beat them, 24 to 18, that the exhibition carried the easterners right into the movies.

Basketball is to be a film feature now, like Knute Rockne's football, Bobby Jones' golf and Bill Tilden's tennis. Ted Husing, the announcer, contracted to pick the team and direct the production. He had St. John's in mind, that five being rated by many the best amateur outfit in America, but left it up to the game with Carnegie Tech. If the Skibos had won that night, it would have meant the end of St. John's screen chances.

THE PICTURE WILL be a talkie, with the St. John's team going through its plays and Coach Buck Freeman explaining on a blackboard the movements and revealing the inside tactics of his crack quintet, which has lost only two games out of 45 in two seasons.

The films will show the pivot play, the double pivot, the triangular pivot, the switch on defense, freezing the ball, stealing the tap from center and other strategies. Husing, who will do the talking, says the screening will be along lines similar to Rockne's football pictures revealing the Notre Dame methods.

OWING TO THE expense of competition it is said that there is only a remote chance that any foreign stars will enter for the national championship tennis tournaments in America this year. Jean Borotra, of France, says he may try again if his business assignments happen to bring him to these shores about that time, but he admits the chances are against it. It is not even certain by any means that Miss Betty Nuthall will come over from England again to defend the women's United States singles title which she won last year.

THE SHARKEY PUNCH that had him wandering around the ring looking for his chair wasn't the hardest that Tommy Loughran ever received, according to his own statement. The worst sock came from Leo Lomski, who knocked him down twice. Tommy won out, but says he didn't remember the first four rounds at all.

Loughran recalls that his hardest fight was with Martin Burke and he rates Jimmy Slattery as the cleverest boxer he ever faced. He says Gene Tunney was rugged and strong, but depended on his brains to win. Jack Dempsey he calls a tiger and great fighter, but a killer rather than a crafty ring general.

AT A TIME when some notable sport figures are passing out, the retirement of Dr. Emanuel Lasker, 63, of Berlin, from active participation in chess matches and tournaments, is worthy of more than ordinary notice.

Dr. Lasker has made no public appearances since the Moscow congress in 1925, but is only now announcing his permanent retirement. World champion for 27 years, he leaves a gap in the foremost chess ranks and record that will endure. Dr. Lasker, Dr. Alexandre Alekhine and Jose Capablanca are ranked as the greatest chess triumvirate of the Twentieth Century.

Bill Johnston

AN EASTERN VISIT by Little Bill Johnston, recently elected president of the California Tennis Association, causes tennis followers to wonder whether Big Bill Tilden would have won as many national championships as he did if Johnston had been healthy and strong. Johnston was a marvel in playing ability, but was in poor health and frail, weighing less than 125 pounds, and Tilden used to beat him by wearing him out in the long run. Now Johnston weighs 145, is healthier and stronger than ever before in his life. With a poundage and a strength in keeping with his skill in the old days he might have conquered Tilden and all the rest for years. At that he won the national singles championship in 1915 and 1919, and captured 13 Davis Cup matches out of 16 in which he participated. Truly, one of the tennis immortals.

JACKETS CAUSE BIGGEST UPSET OF WEEK

By JESS CARVER.

Westminster, Pitt, Grove City, West Virginia and last, but not least Waynesburg, drove through good bad and indifferent, mostly the latter, opposition last week and managed to evade being tagged with a defeat. As a result, the standing of the Panthers, Titans and Grovers was greatly improved, while those astonishingly inconsistent Green Bisons, of Bethany, who broke even in four games, slipped from second to third place in the standing. The boys are lined up now as follows:

| | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pitt | 5 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Westminster | 11 | 1 | .938 |
| Bethany | 12 | 3 | .800 |
| Grove City | 9 | 3 | .750 |

It remained for Waynesburg to pull the biggest upset of the week. The Jackets tramped down to Bethany Friday night to make, what we all thought, a sacrifice on the altar of Bethany joy, but, lo and behold, didn't the Yaller Jackets stick out more of a sting than they have shown all year and serve the Buffaloes their second defeat of the year on their home court.

GROVERS WIN

Grove City played two games, one against a district rival, and pulled this one out of the fire by trimming Geneva in an extra period match at New Brighton. Geneva won one out of three, losing to the Grovers and the return struggle to Westminster, but knocked off Allegheny.

The Covenanters did very well in holding the Titans fairly well in check Saturday, after having played a tough game with Allegheny the night previous.

Pitt saw action only once, against Tech Friday night. Eddie Baker put this one away for the Panthers, giving his best exhibition of the year. Tech tried and tried hard, but couldn't quite make the grade.

W. VA. COPS TWO

West Virginia finally went a week without being beaten. The Mountaineers took the Dukes in an overtime game Wednesday and then kept ahead of Wash-Jeff Saturday.

Bethany, beaten Monday by Westminster, and Friday by Waynesburg, put Allegheny and Thiel away in between for a 50-50 record.

The season hasn't very long to run now. This week Pitt, Tech and the good old Dukes will each see action twice, once at home and once abroad. All three face tough assignments, Pitt having Wash-Jeff to meet here and Penn to play in Philadelphia; Tech having West Virginia in its own gym Tuesday and Penn State at State College Saturday and the Dukes moving on Waynesburg tonight and coming home to engage Thiel Friday.

The Tipoff

The outstanding star of the W. P. I. A. L. tourney to date, at least for the games that have been played in Pittsburgh, was this chap Leo Malarkey, of McDonald. Malarkey not only led his team in scoring as it eliminated Washington Saturday night, but gave an exhibition of cool, calculating and clever play.

McDonald may not win the W. P. I. A. L. title, in the face of opposition such as the defending champs, New Kensington, Monessen, Ford City, New Brighton, New Castle, Scott and Duquesne will offer, but it will take a good team to knock Coach Cox's team out of the running. The boys face either Coraopolis or Duquesne in the second round, and unless they were playing over their heads Saturday, will be even choices against either.

There are few high school coaches in the district with a better grasp on their subjects that Moe Rubenstein, of Ambridge, and Nate Lippe, of Aliquippa. They were both of 'em star players in college and of first rank in independent circles. Both are having success as high school mentors for the big reason that they teach fundamentals—and teach 'em right.

The two victories scored by W. Va. Wesleyan over West Virginia this year were about the worst things that could have happened to the Bobcats, according to Coach Cebe Ross.

"I haven't been able to bring my team down to earth since," Ross told me recently." The boys were so tickled over trimmin' the Mountaineers that they forgot all about the rest of the games on the schedule. As a result, we haven't won an important one since."

There is a dearth of really outstanding college stars in this section this year. There have been shining lights, of course, but few consistent ones. Benedict, of the Dukes; Fergus, of Tech; Doc Kowallis, of Pitt; Cliff Aultman, of Geneva; Blaine Laycock, of Grove City; Mal "Rush," of Bethany, and Harry Rice, of Westminster, have been the leaders. Others have been good one night and terrible the next.

And in the entire district, there isn't a man within a mile of last year's great pair, Babe O'Donovan, of Westminster, and Charley Hyatt, of Pitt.

Appendicitis Hits French Davis Cup Team

PARIS, March 2.—(AP.)—An epidemic of appendicitis has struck French Davis Cup tennis stars. Jacques Brugnon, doubles veteran, underwent an operation yesterday, two weeks after Rene La Coste went through the same experience. Both are lost to the French Cup defenders this year.

With both La Coste and Brugnon out of the picture, France will have to pin her hopes for a successful defense on the two veterans, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, and two youngsters, Christian Boussus and Rene De Buzelet.

JONES INVADES HOLLYWOOD

The man from Atlanta will make a series of 12 pictures on golf instruction, for which, reports have it, he will receive a quarter of a million dollars.

Taking of the pictures will begin early this week and will perhaps continue for two months. Jones said he was anxious to finish them sooner if possible, as he wants to get back home with his wife and children.

Bobby said he had been playing quite a bit of golf this winter, but that he hadn't been playing particularly well.

"I want to be at my best in the pictures, however," he said. "I could miss a shot now and then in a tournament and get away with it, but film costs money and I don't intend to waste a lot of film on bad golf shots that would have to be retaken."

Asked if he would ever delve into that part of the pictures which deal with love, kisses and et cetera, Jones replied:

"I am going to stick with something I know about. That means golf and only golf."

Asked if he was through with competitive golf, Jones said:

"Yes, positively. I intend to play a lot of golf in the future, but it will not be competitive. That's definite."

FIGHT PROBE SLATED

NEW YORK, March 2.—The Billy Petrolle-King Tut bout will come under the scrutiny of the New York State Athletic Commission at its meeting tomorrow, as a result of rumors that the battle last Friday night was "in the bag." Both boxers, their managers and other persons connected with the bout have been summoned to appear.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Tut, tut! . . . In a couple of words, there is the story of the King Tut-Billy Petrolle sixth meeting, in New York, the other night . . . And did you know that, while Tut was dragging down a 15-grand guarantee for making his second New York appearance, Lope Tenorio, the Filipino, who ruined Tut's first New York showing, was resting to box a six-round bout at a Brooklyn club on the following night? . . . Fifteen years ago, Bobby Jones was the boy wonder of the golfing sphere . . . And now he's writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph . . . Who says this isn't the land of opportunity? . . . Jimmy Isaminger, Philadelphia writer, knows of an indoor golf course that is so natural that a grasshopper was caught meandering around it.

L. series itself has grown into such a big proposition that it is quite a strain on the young contestants and might stand a little restraining influence as a safeguard against overemphasis . . . Arguments are on as to whether the boxing fans prefer official or newspaper decisions . . . How about good decisions for a change?

James (Red) Mason, dean of local boxing managers, arrived in town unexpectedly over the week-end, after having stuck close to Chicago because of the serious illness there of his brother and sister . . . He passed up all trips out of the Windy City with Jackie Fields and other fighters with whom he is associated, but had to come here on a personal business matter . . . In a letter from Chicago, a few days ago, he expressed sympathy for Barney Dreyfuss on the death of his son, Sam, and had some nice words to say for Barney, whom he has known across the years . . . Pictures in the newspapers showing the baseball players getting ready in the training camps for another season remind us that Pete Bowen's favorite sport, track and field in the outdoors, will be with us again soon . . . Don't neglect to read the final installment of the Dorgan series . . . . It's a pip . . . . Max Schmeling doesn't like actresses or other fluffy girls and announces that when he's through with the fight racket he'll settle down and marry some substantial German fraulein . . . . Penn State will be defending the intercollegiate boxing championship when it stages the annual tournament in its home ring, March 20-21 . . . . With Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Duquesne University, West Virginia University and Wash-Jeff now sponsoring boxing teams, it won't be long before this sport will be one of the most popular forms of varsity competition in these parts.—HARRY KECK.

One victory in the two games abroad which make up their International League hockey slate for this week probably will be enough to keep the Yellow Jackets in the thick of the fight for a title play-off berth. The Schooley icemen clambered up on even terms with the fourth-place Tecumsehs by handing London a 2-0 setback at the Garden Saturday, and they are likely to retain at least a half interest in fourth place if they can get an even break in their fights in Cleveland tomorrow and in Windsor on Friday.

While the Schooley icemen are battling the champion Indians, the Tecumsehs will be hosts to the lowly Detroit Olympics. London figures to take Detroit, but London does not figure to down the pace-setting Bisons at Buffalo on Saturday. Should the Jackets lose in Cleveland, which is far from a certainty, they can make up the lost ground by downing

UNBEATEN TEAM ENCOUNTERS BENTLEYVILLE

The Lineups

| Monessen. | Pos. | Bentleyville. |
|---|---|---|
| Tucci | F | Damich |
| Rodebaugh | F | Zamiska |
| Kotys | C | Moeller |
| Stevenson | G | Abd |
| Zeleska | G | Beck |

Monessen and Bentleyville, representing respectively Sections V and XVI in this hectic W. P. I. A. L. championship elimination tournament scramble, which is by way of becoming more and more of an scramble each day, start off a full week of scholastic competition in the Pitt Stadium tonight in a first round, upper bracket game.

Monessen is one of the few unbeaten teams, as far as sectional play is concerned, to appear in the tourney this year, ranking with New Kensington, Ambridge, New Castle and Ford City in this respect. Bentleyville would have been in the identical category had the boys not faltered in almost the final game of the season and dropped one, but at that, the team carried off the honors in nine out of 10 games.

MONESSEN UNBEATEN

Monessen, Section V representative for the past three years, enters tonight's combat the ruling favorite, and for that very reason the Bentleyvillers figure they are going to cause a great splashing about of the dope by defeating the Fivers.

However, Monessen, with a trio of stars of the caliber of Kotys, Stevenson and Zeleska, and with a player chosen as an all-section forward, Rodebaugh, is formidable enough to be a bit cocky. Last year, the boys were eliminated in the second round by Uniontown, 16 to 14.

Bentleyville is a newcomer to tournament competition, being the first champion out of the new section, Division XVI. Damich, a forward, Moeller, a center and Abd, a guard, are rated as outstanding stars.

Tomorrow, Westinghouse and Schenley will settle the Section 1 argument in the City League, meeting in the Stadium in the afternoon, and then on Friday, the winner and the Section II champs, South Hills, will inaugurate the three-game series for the city title.

CATHOLIC TOURNEY HERE

Duquesne University again will sponsor the annual state Catholic high school basketball tournament here for leading fives throughout Pennsylvania, the playoff to be held in the Bluff gymnasium Friday and Saturday. The winning team will be sent to the national tournament at Loyola University, of Chicago.

Donors of cups for the tourney have been announced and the list of contending teams will follow. Final registrations and pairings will be made today, it is planned, and the names of the teams participating then will be available. Last year Altoona Catholic won first place.

Elmer F. Layden, director of athletics, and John D. Holahan, graduate manager, are directing the annual tournament for the third time.

The list of donors is as follows:

Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police; Eugene S. Reilley, Frank J. Lanahan, F. W. Reis, Jr., Frank C. Mayer, James Philip O'Connor, the Duquesne University Alumni Association and the Notre Dame Club of Western Pennsylvania.

TOURNEY OPENS TONIGHT

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 2.—The annual Allegheny-Kiski Valley Scholastic Basketball tournament gets under way here tonight, to be concluded on Saturday. Sixteen teams are entered.

The games tonight are:

Franklin vs. Springdale, Falls Creek vs. Parnassus, Verona vs. Oakmont and Leechburg vs. Tarentum.

SPORT SHORTS

NEWARK, N. J.—George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight, will make his American wrestling debut against Bill Demetral, veteran Greek grappler, here next Thursday night.

WHEELING, W. Va.—Hundred (W. Va.) High School turned in its thirty-ninth successive victory when it defeated Farmington High, 36-15, Saturday night. Hundred won the state championship last year and was undefeated this season. Wheeling also finished its regular schedule undefeated when it downed Warwood, 29-8, Saturday night.

WHEELING, W. Va.—High school baseball was dropped from the official program of sports by the Ohio Valley Athletic Association at a meeting here. Golf was suggested as a substitute, but official acceptance has been postponed.

CLEVELAND.—(AP.)—Managers of Tommy Freeman, world welterweight champion, and Young Jack Thompson, of California, former champion, have virtually agreed upon articles for a 15-round championship bout to be held here, probably April 14.

OSCAR SUCCEEDS JIMMY

Oscar Morrison, late of the Hill Crest Country Club, New Kensington, has succeeded his brother, Jimmy, as professional and greenkeeper at the Pleasant Valley Country Club, between Scottdale and Connellsville. Jimmy has resigned to take over the pro job at the Colonial Country Club, Harrisburg. Oscar has been at the New Kensington club for almost five years.

SWISDAK GETS ACE

OSCALA, Fla., March 2.—Playing with M. F. Torrence, Mike Swisdak, assistant professional at the Highlands Golf Club, who came to Oscala from the Edgewood Country Club, Pittsburgh, had the honor of making a hole in one on the new No. 2 course.

CARD APPROVED AT LENGTHY CONFAB HERE

By TOM BIRKS.

Although all of the 12 clubs of the reorganized Middle Atlantic Baseball League posted forfeits yesterday at the schedule meeting in the Hotel Henry, it developed there is a possibility that the Hagerstown (Md.) club will be among the missing when the season opens.

Elmer Daily

President Joe Cambria, of Hagerstown, was not present at the session, the Hagerstown forfeit being presented by Col. Nelson Russler, of Cumberland. Since Cambria applied for membership, those who control the ball park in Hagerstown have asked a rental which Cambria will not meet. In the event Hagerstown does not go through, the franchise will be awarded to the Martinsburg, W. Va., club, which was in the defunct Blue Ridge League with Hagerstown last year.

SCHEDULE APPROVED

President Elmer Daily, however, hopes that the Hagerstown trouble will be adjusted.

It was a long-drawn-out session that the moguls staged in approving the schedule, completed by the schedule makers, Fred Dorrington, of Fairmont; H. C. Cramer, of Scottdale, and J. E. Wilson, of Charleroi. The Middle Atlantic League never had a balanced schedule, and the one presented proved no exception to the rule.

Twelve clubs, some playing night baseball and others not, some playing Sunday baseball and some not, made the drawing up of a schedule a real job, but, after a few minor changes, the card was approved.

Beckley is carded at Scottdale, Charleston at Huntington, Cumberland at Hagerstown, Johnstown at Jeannette, Wheeling at Charleroi and Clarksburg at Fairmont in the opening games, May 7. The season will close September 13, with the first half ending July 9 and a post-season series concluding the campaign. All of the grounds have facilities for night games except Scottdale, Fairmont and Clarksburg, and the first two are considering installing such equipment.

It transpired that the club representatives voted President Daily a substantial increase in salary in appreciation of his efforts during five years in office.

With minor leagues throughout the country going out of business and having trouble in getting a quota of clubs to operate, the success of the Middle Atlantic in enlarging its roster to 12 clubs speaks well for the executive ability of its president.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

The Beckley representative brought out something for the sporting goods equipment fraternity to think over. His club is going to use baseball suits of orange and black color in its night games. These colors, it was said, stand out better. So if the night baseball craze keeps up, some of the games will take on the appearance of a Hallowe'en party.

The usual crowd of baseball umpires, fans and players jammed the lobby. Turk Reilly, the former baseball star; Frank Packard, Homewood boy headed for the Southern Association; Eddie Onslow and Leo Mackey, who had an armful of letters from Pittsburgh sandlotters wanting a tryout with Cumberland, were noticed. President Russler, of Cumberland, is pleased with the popular Pittsburgher who is handling the reins for the Colts this season.

MEXICO CITY, March 2.—(INS.)—Tommy Freeman, of Cleveland, world welterweight champion, retained his crown today after gaining a decision over Jose Gaona, Mexican scrapper, in a 10-round battle here last night.

Ringside observers were inclined, however, to grant the decision to the Mexican. The fight was witnessed by a crowd of 30,000.

Shady Side Poloists Lose in Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 2.—The Shady Side Academy polo team, of Pittsburgh, went down to a crushing defeat at the hands of the Mill Creek Riding Club here yesterday, losing 32½ to 11. The lineup:

| MILL CREEK. | G. | F. | Net | SHADY SIDE. | G. | F. | Net |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

BEARS, HUSKIES IN FINAL

SEATTLE, March 2.—(AP.)—Closing the 1931 Northern Division Pacific Coast Conference basketball season Saturday night with 14 victories and two defeats, the University of Washington Huskies won the right to meet the University of California Bears for the Pacific Coast title.

Building Up Big Fights

By IKE DORGAN, The Man Behind Tex Rickard's Fistic Ballyhoos.

CHAPTER XLIII.

When Tex Rickard swooned and fell into my arms in the pine bowl at Jersey City on the morning of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, it should have been a warning to him that he was gambling with death, a sporting chance that eventually he was to lose.

Jack Kearns

We were arranging some of the more important seats in the press row, the most exacting job I ever had to do for Tex.

Men were coming from every corner of the earth to report the bout and Tex was keenly interested in seeing that no one man should be overlooked. That was one of Rickard's soundest musts. The fellows from overseas must go back home with stories of Tex Rickard's efficiency as a promoter. Old Tex was building up for some of those foreign invasions of which he dreamed night and day.

Tex had not even complained of the terrific pain which beset him as he busied himself around the press row. All of his big troubles were over. The principals had come through their training without a blemish and there was only the rain to wish away. It was a dull, dark, hot morning and every now and then I saw Rickard look up at the frowning skies.

RICKARD STRICKEN

Suddenly he bent over sidewise, as if he had been drilled with a bullet. He let out a horrible yelp and then actually fell into my arms. The heat in the arena was oppressive and I had Tex carried down under the stand, where it was cooler. He lay in great pain and I was frightened stiff. It was one of the tense moments of my life. Honestly, I thought he was going to die. He never had been hit so hard before. I had visions of the show going on with the master builder cold in death behind the scenes. I'm sure that if Tex had been given the choice, he would have elected to die in harness, right in the midst of his first over-a-million show, rather than submit to cutting.

He snapped out of it after a while and those who saw him around the ring that afternoon, running his great project with the cool eyes and steady nerves of a genius among showmen, never would have guessed that only a few hours before he had been sitting on the brink of eternity.

I repeated my appeals to him to submit to an operation. He only grinned as he always did when I mentioned it and sent for Jimmy DeForrest to have the old trainer massage his side.

The day he left for Miami, never to return alive, he met DeForrest in the hallway at Madison Square Garden and said:

"Jimmy, better git ready to hop down to Miami some day soon. That old appendix is kicking up the dust again. Mighty sore and I may need you."

LOSES BIG GAMBLE

Jimmy laughed and went his way. Just a few days later, with three doctors in the room, each urging an immediate operation, Rickard held them off with this parry:

"Boys, let me have a half hour to think this thing over. If I'm not better in a half hour's time, when you come back, I'll go for the knife. Jest give me half an hour."

I know what was on his mind. He was thinking of DeForest and the messages that always seemed to relieve him. He was counting on sending a quick telegram or a telephone message to DeForest in New York, a plane ride to get away from the knives—anything but the dreaded operation. But he didn't get a chance to call Jimmy. In 15 minutes, he had collapsed and was in a semi-conscious condition when the doctors again were called in. There was no delay now. They ordered the operation and the world knows that grim Tex Rickard lost the gamble with death. Had he taken my advice eight years before, on the day he was carried under the grandstand at Boyle's Thirty Acres, he might be alive and well today, still amazing the world with the magic of his fistic extravaganzas.

KEARNS "OUTSMARTS" SELF

Rickard knew the importance of the Dempsey-Carpentier bout so far as his standing as a promoter was concerned. He felt that it would establish him as the greatest of promoters for all time even if he didn't turn out to be a winner on the show.

Tex always got one gigantic kick out of that show and it was because Jack Kearns short-changed himself.

When Tex made his offer of $300,000 for Dempsey and $200,000 for Carpentier he actually was goaded into making it because of Kearns' urging. As usually, Kearns was talking in telephone numbers, and Rickard, every bit as daring a gambler, talked them right back at him.

Tex tried to be cute about that guarantee. Wouldn't Kearns work on a percentage basis?

"I'll give you 37½ per cent instead of that $300,000 guarantee, Jack," Rickard told Kearns. "What do you say?"

A BREAK FOR TEX

"Just this," answered Kearns. "I'll not take any such gamble as that. After all, I've got a partner and I've got to protect his interests. I'll take the percentage, but I want the $300,000 to go also."

"Kain't do that, Kearns. No guarantee and percentage, too. Take one or the other."

"I take the $300,000," said Kearns.

When the gate receipts were counted, Rickard figured that Kearns had talked himself out of more than $300,000 by refusing the percentage offer. And that was quite a blow, my hearties, for Kearns always split the profits down the middle with Dempsey. It meant that Kearns outguessed himself, his own personal bankroll, by at least $150,000, not a puny item in those days.

I can hear Tex chuckling over that bad guess of Kearns' even now. Tex knew that Jack was a bright young man around the fighting business and it tickled his fancy to think that Kearns himself had rejected the offer after it had been made.

Naturally, Kearns thought that he was hitting a bull's-eye when he accepted the flat guarantee. The fight was a little over his head, as it had been over Rickard's. Both missed their guesses, but Tex had made up his mind that, if the fight was to run wild fire, he and not Kearns would be the one to profit. Tex always stuck to that rule. He never would give any man a guarantee and a percentage.

KNICKERS PLAY S. S. FALCONS

GAMES TONIGHT

Knickers at S. S. Falcons.

N. S. Buicks at Penn Five.

AMATEUR LEAGUE

Hill Top at Rankin C. C.

METROPOLITAN LEAGUE

Hill Top Reserves at Daro Club.

Mt. Washington at St. Ann's.

L. J. Hannans at Chmiel Five.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

P. N. A. at Grand Cadets.

INDEPENDENT

Greensburg Phantoms at Trinity Royals.

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Although another strenuous week of basketball faces district teams, only a light league schedule is set for local quintets tonight. In the West Penn circuit a pair of contests are carded, the Knickerbockers invading the South Side Falcons' court, and North Side Buicks battling the Penn Five, of Sharpsburg.

Hill Top Y meets Rankin in the Amateur League, while Hill Top Reserves take on Daro, Mt. Washington plays St. Ann's and the Hannans combat Chamiel in the Metropolitan loop.

P. N. A. encounters the Grand Cadets and the Tojans play Whoopee in the Junior League. The Greensburg Phantom Five is slated to play at Trinity Royals.

The County League series gets under way tomorrow on the Duquesne High floor with the defending titleholders, Duquesne Lafayettes, playing Fintex in the first of a three-game engagement.

Three games will be played here this week by the Renaissance Negro passers, of New York. Thursday they play Holy Cross at Pythian Temple; Friday they play Fintex in the South Side Market House, and Saturday they meet the Lafayettes in Duquesne.

The Lorain Ex-Hys, who have beaten the Cleveland Pennzoils, play Y. M. H. A. here Thursday night. The Mieles, of the County League, engage I. K. S. on its court Friday night.

Charley Hyatt, now playing for the Los Angeles A. C., has announced his team will play in the National A. A. U. tourney. He also suggested a benefit game with Pitt here, but local authorities are said to be unfavorable to a post-season game.

DUNLEVY TEAM IN WEST PENN CUP FINAL

Playing on a heavy field, Dunlevy, of the Keystone Soccer League, qualified to meet Bridgeville in the final of the Western Pennsylvania challenge cup by defeating Cecil, 3 goals to 0, at Husher Field, yesterday.

It is the fourth time Dunlevy has figured in the final. This season will see a grand finale of a series of three games for the first time in the cup's history.

Dunlevy deserved to win. They either played a great game of football or else Cecil was off form, for the Panhandle team never had a chance.

The victory was due mainly to the brilliant footwork and shooting of Stanley Urbanic, the young inside left. Urbanic scored the first and last goals for his team, while Bernchini, with a great run from the center of the field, single-handed scored the other tally.

The game drew only a crowd estimated at 1,000, and Dunlevy scored after 30 minutes of play. Delaire was penalized for tripping, and Urbanic made no mistake with the kick. Half-time arrived with Dunlevy leading, by the only goal scored.

Dunlevy again kept the upper hand in the second half, and Dolphi could have remained off the field, so far as saving shots was concerned. The second goal came with eight minutes to go, Bernchini taking the ball in midfield, and finishing a great run by beating Guidagni. With one minute to go, Urbanic scored his team's third and last goal. The lineup:

| Dunlevy—3. | | Cecil—0. |
|---|---|---|
| Dolphi | G | Guidigni |
| Grandy | R.B. | Aalon |
| Urbanic | L.B. | Praus |
| Rossi | R.H. | Delaire |
| Smith | C.H. | Behling |
| Paterlini | L.H. | Preaus |
| Berchini | O.R. | Hart |
| McCosky | I.R. | Ventrini |
| Grilli | C. | Cherokee |
| S. Urbanic | I.L. | Cherskee |
| Smith | O.L. | Godfrey |

Goals—S. Urbanic 2, Berchini. Referee—Lumsden.

BRICKLAYERS ADVANCE

CHICAGO, March 2.—The Bricklayers yesterday advanced another step in their march to a national championship by defeating the Swedish-Americans, 4 goals to 1, in the Western semifinal of the U. S. National challenge cup competition.

YELLOW JACKET OUTLOOK GOOD

HAVE SERIES CHANCE

Pittsburgh is more likely to meet with success in Windsor than in Cleveland. The Indians were very impressive in defeating Buffalo last Saturday night; the Bulldogs were not at all impressive and were badly outplayed as two lucky goals scored on shots started from the center of the rink enabled them to win here last Thursday.

If the Jackets still are in fourth place at the finish of the week, they will be in a good position to clinch a place in the post-season championship series during the next seven-day span. Home games against Cleveland and Syracuse, and a joust in Detroit, where Pittsburgh victories have come to be taken as a matter of course, is the Schooley skaters' attractive layout for next week.

During the same period, London will be host to Windsor, and will be the guest of Cleveland. The week should produce five points for Pittsburgh, and no more than two for London; and, if the dope runs true to form, a week from Saturday should find the great race practically ended, and Pittsburgh well within the money circle.

DEFEATS UNLIKELY

The decisive manner in which the Jackets vanquished the Tecumsehs here Saturday indicates that not many more Pittsburgh defeats should be expected. After the locals had gained the lead on Halliday's goal in the first period, they concentrated on protecting their edge, and Proudlock's goal in the second stanza was the signal for the Jacket forwards to fall back and do nothing except help guard Goalie Cox. The locals' scoring total was limited to two tallies simply because they didn't need any more markers.

The Jackets have clambered into the money circle four times, and have fallen out of it on three occasions. Manager Schooley and Coach Reid are convinced that their stalwarts this time are "up there" to stay.

INDIANS COP

SYRACUSE, March 2.—(AP.)—The Cleveland Indians took a 2-to-1 International Hockey League decision from the Stars at the Coliseum in an overtime game last night that brought out the roughest hockey of the season.

Sarazen Florida West Coast Champ

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—Gene Sarazen, stocky Italian professional, won the Florida West Coast open golf championship yesterday for the second consecutive year. Sarazen's 72-hole score of 278, the result of rounds of 67-72-68-71, came within two strokes of equaling the record for the event, made in 1923 by Walter Hagen.

Little Mose Butch, southpaw bantamweight, of Oakland, gets a chance for which he has been waiting for some time when he makes his bow as a main-bouter in the Moose Temple ring next Friday night.

Mose Butch

He meets Marty Gold, veteran, of Philadelphia, who has boxed all of the leading flyweights and many of the good bantams and gave Jackie Rodgers, the featherweight puncher, a good battle in the Moose ring about a year ago.

This match between Butch and Gold originally was arranged for several weeks ago, but was passed up then and revived when Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, suffered an injured ear in his battle with Joe Trippe at McKeesport last Thursday night and so could not go through with a match against Billy Rose, of Cincinnati, at the Moose this week.

PIRRONE BOUT BANNED

Before switching over to Butch and Gold, Promoter Apples Meyers arranged what shaped up as the most attractive billing ever arranged for the Moose Club, a pairing between Paul Pirrone, topnotch puncher, of Cleveland, and Rose, but the boxing commission refused to sanction it, on the ground that Pirrone is too good an opponent for Rose, despite the fact that Billy recently defeated both Jimmy Kelly and Billy Holt, hard hitters, in the Moose ring and before that dropped a questionable decision to Tom Malco and defeated Benny McArthur in bouts at McKeesport, and has given evidence of being one of the smartest welterweights ever to show here. Indeed, so far as Pirrone was concerned, he stood a fine chance of being outpointed by Rose and the bout was one in which he figured to have little to gain and everything to lose, and before a small club, where his purse could not be a sizable one.

Between Rounds

Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion of the world, arrived in town today for his battle with Willie Davies at Motor Square Garden tomorrow night. It is a non-title affair and the 'steenth meeting of the two little fellows, who make up in action what they lack in the way of punching power. The Garden looks for a full house, in view of the attractiveness of the offering, as reflected in the large advance sale of tickets. It is the first show in the East End arena following a layoff of a couple of weeks because of the food show. Tiger Joe Randall, who recently handed Ted Yarosz the latter's first defeat, although he didn't get the decision, boxes Jimmy McGraw, of Wheeling, in the eight-round semi-final.

Harry Harris boxes Nick Popleg in the main bout of a show at Wheeling tonight. Frankie Cawley takes on Frankie Simms at Canton, O., and Jack Gross meets Roberto Roberti in Philadelphia, with Billy Jones and Joe Banovic in a return bout in the other half of the double windup.

---

Frank Klaus, of Braddock, former middleweight champion, leaves from Union Station at 11:05 tonight for New York, where he will join a special party for the Primo Carnera-Jim Maloney bout at Miami, Fla., Thursday night. The train leaves New York at 9:25 tomorrow night. Klaus has been invited to go along as the guest of William Dwyer, one of the men connected with the promotion of the battle. Other former champions in the party include Johnny Dundee, Benny Leonard, Johnny Wilson, Johnny Kilbane, Battling Nelson, Mike O'Dowd, Louis (Kid) Kaplan and Charley (Phil) Rosenberg.

Army, Navy Play Lions Saturday

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 2.—Saturday of this week will be "Army-Navy Day" at Penn State. The Army and Navy will compete at State College that day—not against each other—but as opponents of the Penn State boxing and wrestling teams, respectively. Two Carnegie Tech teams, varsity and freshman basketball squads, are scheduled to meet the Nittany Lion courtmen.

A. A. U. Handball Tournament Opens

The senior championship handball tournament of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., gets under way today on the courts of the Keystone A. C. The doubles tournament will be played next week. The junior championships already have been disposed of.

ST. BONAVENTURE COPS

OLEAN, N. Y., March 2.—The St. Bonaventure-Canisius court rivalry, which has furnished fans in Western New York with basketball thrills aplenty during the past 12 years, ended here yesterday with the Bonnies sending their Buffalo foes down to defeat for the sixth consecutive time, 32-28. The lineup:

| St. Bona—32. | | Canisius—28. |
|---|---|---|
| Connor | F | Guarnieri |
| Welch | F | Lipinski |
| Cannon | C | Decker |
| Utecht | G | Mack |
| Riley | G | Barton |

BUCS QUOTED AT 3 TO 1

NEW YORK, March 2.—(INS.)—The general belief that the 1931 pennant campaign in the National League will be the closest race in the loop's history is confirmed by the release of the first set of odds on the chances of the various clubs.

The figures are furnished by Tom Kearney, of St. Louis, whose "dope" is highly regarded by bookmakers throughout the country. He figures the Philadelphia Athletics an odds-on favorite at 7 to 10 to continue their domination in the American League, but thinks the National League race will be a toss-up between St. Louis, Chicago and Brooklyn, with Pittsburgh and New York close behind. Kearney's odds are as follows:

| National League. | | American League. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| St. Louis | 5-2 | Philadelphia | 7-10 |
| Chicago | 5-2 | Washington | 3-1 |
| Brooklyn | 5-2 | New York | 4-1 |
| Pittsburgh | 3-1 | Cleveland | 8-1 |
| New York | 3-1 | Detroit | 20-1 |
| Philadelphia | 30-1 | St. Louis | 100-1 |
| Boston | 40-1 | Chicago | 100-1 |
| Cincinnati | 50-1 | Boston | 100-1 |

O'Donovan Takes Lawther's Berth

Glenn O'Donovan, of Homestead, former captain and forward at Westminster College, has been signed as football and basketball coach at the Freeport, L. I., High School, succeeding John Lawther, who is to return to the Titan institution as director of athletics, succeeding Andy McDonald.

MIAMI MUTUELS

MINORS MOVE INTO CAMPS

TAMPA, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—Five minor league baseball clubs opened training camps in Florida today in addition to nine major clubs now in training.

Batterymen of the Columbus (O.) Senators, of the American Association, are in Lakeland and the balance of the squad is due one week hence.

The Indianapolis Indians, also of the American Association, arrived in Sarasota yesterday for a stay of about a month.

Camp Flashes

NEW ORLEANS—(AP.)—The crack of bats joined the thud of pitched balls as the entire squad of the Cleveland Indians was due on the diamond today with two exceptions. Earl Averill, who signed late, will not report until Wednesday, and Eddie Morgan, who maintains he means his retirement, is believed honeymooning in Mexico.

---

BRADENTON, Fla.—(AP.)—Infielders and outfielders, except Frankie Frisch and Chick Hafey, who are holding out, were due to reach the Cardinals' training camp here today. All the pitchers now have been accounted for. Sylvester Johnson arrived from his home in Portland, Ore., yesterday. All others, with the exception of Jess Haines and Burleigh Grimes, who are at Hot Springs, had been here for some time.

---

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—Still another member of the House of Ferrell has gone in for professional baseball. Marvin, 20 years old, 6 feet tall and weighing 175 pounds, will work out with the St. Louis Browns until they break camp here, when he will join Wichita Falls, of the Texas League. Catcher Dick Ferrell says Brother Marvin has as much natural stuff as Brother Wesley, of the Cleveland Indians. Marvin has played semi-pro ball for three years in Pennsylvania and North Carolina. A fourth brother is in the International League.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(AP.)—Gene Des Autels, young catcher who worked regularly during the latter part of the 1930 season, will be farmed out to Toronto this year by the Detroit baseball club. Des Autels went from Holy Cross College direct to the American League last summer. Manager Stanley Harris had his full squad of 33 players with him at training camp for the first time today.

---

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—Infielders Boley and Williams and Outfielder Bing Miller reported for duty at the Philadelphia Athletics training camp today, and the champions are about ready to get down to routine practice. Manager Mack expects to have two complete teams in the field by tomorrow. He hopes to have most of his regulars and half a dozen pitchers in shape to bear down in the coming series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

---

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—Florida's golf courses will see little or nothing of Babe Ruth until next year. Regretfully the Babe has laid aside putter and mashie, and prepared to get himself in shape for the coming American League campaign. Spring training for New York Yankees began officially today.

---

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Unless the holdout list complicates affairs, only one of the New York Giants will be missing from camp after today. Pitcher Hub Pruett has obtained a leave of absence until May 20 in order to complete his studies in medicine in St. Louis. The rest of the squad was due for today's drill under penalty of having a day's pay lopped off their future salary checks for every day they are late.

---

TAMPA, Fla., March 2.—(AP.)—Stiff workouts, scheduled for as long as the athletes can stand up, are on this week's menu for the Cincinnati Reds, with practically the entire squad on hand. The batterymen have a week's drill behind them and were prepared to offer the remainder of the squad something in the way of real pitching to sharpen eyes dulled by winter layoff. The Reds will meet the Brooklyn Robins in an exhibition tilt next Sunday.

U. S. Horses Favored In Grand National

LONDON, March 2.—(AP.)—Odds posted today at the Victoria Club on the grand national steeplechase, to be run at Old Aintree, March 27, showed Easter Hero, J. H. (Jock) Whitney's American jumper, a co-favorite at 100 to 7 against, with Sir Lindsay, also owned by Whitney, and Draintyre.

Following the two American-owned horses and Drintyre in the betting, were Kakushin and Ballasport, at 100 to 6, and Gib, Melleray's Belle and Grakle, at 20 to 1.

GEORGE BURNS PILOT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—(INS.)—George Burns, former big league player, has been named manager of the Mission Club, of the Pacific Coast League for the 1931 season, it was announced here today. His appointment was made necessary because of the serious illness of Wade Killifer, former manager of the Missions.

Pirate Regulars, Yans to Open Series Saturday

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 2.—(AP.)—Pirate regulars and Yannigans will begin their camp series of ball games next Saturday, unless something turns up to retard training progress, Manager Jewel Ens said today.

WARM WEATHER AIDS PIRATE PRACTICE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Feb. 2.—The big Pirate squad worked out again today under ideal weather conditions. At 10 o'clock the sun was streaming down in such a manner as to make everybody frisky and it was a lively bunch of veterans and rookies that played about in the Paso Robles ball orchard. The second general drill found the newcomers a bit sore, but loaded with pepper. The athletes frolicked for two hours. The only off-color note felt has to do with Larry French, Paul Waner, Adam Comorosky and Steve Swetonic.

French continues to be a stubborn holdout, the southpaw demanding at least $12,000 for the year, it is reliably reported. Larry is running a hotel somewhere in Oregon. Brother Paul is reported almost cured of his leg infection and he may leave for camp within the next 10 days. Comorosky is expected here soon, while Swetonic is in touch with Ens almost daily. Steve is having his pitching arm treated at Los Angeles. He works out daily at the Los Angeles park.

Lloyd Waner, George Grantham, Bill Regan, Gus Suhr, Tommy Thevenow, Augustin Dugas and Stuart Clarke were all a part of the snappy joust of yesterday. When the Pirates started for the park shortly before 11 o'clock, the sun was playing an 80-tune on the pretty countryside, and the temperature hung around this delightful mark until after 3 o'clock.

TEAM IN SHAPE

Ens and his men were loathe to leave the field after they had partaken of a long drill, which was featured by batting and roustabout fielding. The regular infielders were not put through the conventional shindig, but Suhr, Grantham and the others frolicked around the inner works in joyous abandon.

Ens had intended to follow the two-workouts-a-day plan with the arrival of the second squad, but the players have responded so satisfactorily to the single drill plan, he may hold off on the double turn for a couple of days. In all the years of Pirate training in California, and elsewhere, it is seldom a squad has attained such a high point of seasoning. Indeed, the result seems to be a strong argument for those leaders who contend that the single workout plan is the caper.

Lloyd Waner had a promising appearance as he landed in camp and the club medicos today pronounced the little star in fine fettle. Of course, he is not in shape to play ball yet, but he has a good color, and, while he would be stronger with more poundage, he is cheerful and apparently quite strong.

LLOYD TAKES IT EASY

It was noted by Ens and other observers that Lloyd was not at the plate more than twice before his familiar "clotheslines" were being stretched to the various outfield plots. The gent who stated Lloyd was "full of line drives" seems to have had the gift of expression.

The wee centerfielder, however, will not be pushed. Lloyd has no weight to leave here. In fact, he would benefit through the addition of a few pounds.

Brother Lloyd had encouraging news on Paul, who is due to leave a St. Louis hospital tomorrow. Paul wrote his mother that he was getting along in a satisfactory manner. Manager Ens hopes the hard-hitting rightfielder will be able to reach camp in time to get a few days' training. After the Buccos break camp they will stage an extensive tour in this state and Brother Paul probably will be able to take a part in this junket.

MONON LEAGUE TO ORGANIZE

The Monongahela Valley League will hold its organization meeting tonight at the Hotel Main, Monongahela, with Honus Wagner scheduled to add another to his list of baseball leagues.

At the meeting last week a number of teams, including Riverview, Monongahela, Monessen, Elizabeth, Bunola, New Eagle, Charleroi, Donora, Gallatin, Dunlevy, Belleveron, Finleyville and others, attended.

The presence of the former big league star in the up-river town will draw a capacity crowd, and baseball, especially the sandlot end of it, is due for a boom there.

Floyd France and Joe Tabory, two well-known men up the river, are playing a part in the organization of the first Wagner league in that neck of the woods. Finleyville and New Eagle have been represented on the sandlots by some great organizations.

Mike Carrick, Carnegie catcher, has signed with the Shreveport team, of the Texas League, and leaves Saturday for training at that place. Carrick, who is 20, and once played on Honus Wagner's All-Star team, cavorted last year for Dormont.

Fight Results

Rails Drop Sharply

Local Stocks Narrow

RAIL DECLINE WIPES OUT RALLY

Attack by Bears Loosens Brakes on Entire Group; U. S. Steel Drops Gain

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—The rail shares again rolled downgrade in today's stock market, dragging practically the entire list with them.

Bulls struggled to regain control of the price movement during the morning, and managed to lift a wide assortment of issues a point or two temporarily, including several of the motor, utility, merchandising, food and miscellaneous manufacturing issues. After midday, however, bears worked the brakes loose in the rail group.

Particularly disturbing was the appearance of a private estimate that New York Central would earn little more than $1 a share, or half its current dividend rate, in the first quarter. This stock dropped about 4 points.

OTHER ISSUES LOSE

Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, Union Pacific, Worthington Pump and American Smelting, too, showed losses of 3 or more and shares off a point or two included United States Steel, Radio, Johns Manville, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, North American, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Eastman, American Can and International Harvester. Most of the morning advance was canceled. Auburn, after surging up 12 points, broke sharply.

The outstanding news of the day was the announcement of the treasury's March financing, and while it amounts to one of the largest operations in its history, Wall Street in the main was pleasantly surprised with the total of only about $1,400,000,000, of which less than $800,000,000 appears to be the result of passage of the bonus law. This was some $200,000,000 under last week's estimates. Furthermore, interest rates are favorable. The 12-year bonds naturally command the highest rate, but at 3⅜ per cent it is low and compares favorably with previous government financing of that sort.

MONEY RATES

What with the impending government financing and income tax payments, some firming in money rates is expected this month, but call money today held officially at 1½ per cent, and there was a little available at concessions early in the day, although it soon disappeared.

Business and trade reviews appearing over the week-end were in the main conservative. Reports from the steel industry, in particular, stressed the irregular trends now apparent. Some producers, according to one survey, are having difficulty in maintaining the rate of operations reached in the past week or so. Furthermore, it is recalled that a year ago at this time the steel industry, after reaching a rate of 82 per cent of capacity, went into a long, drawn-out slump. Last week operations were estimated at about 52 per cent of capacity.

STEEL PRODUCTION

Estimates for the entire steel industry for the present week are not yet available, but a decline is indicated in the Youngstown area for the first time in several weeks, while operations are quickening in the Chicago area. One authority expects that average ouput for March will be between 55 and 60 per cent of capacity, or substantially ahead of February.

March motor production schedules generally call for substantial acceleration. Chevrolet's February figures, showing output of 64,649 units, however, were a little surprising, as they were under the previously announced schedule of 67,429 units for the month, as well as the 70,763 produced in January. The March schedule, however, calls for 78,713 units.

BARNES CITES BUSINESS GAIN

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP.)—An improving trend in the condition of American business was discerned by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the National Business Survey Conference appointed by President Hoover.

In a report on the mid-winter economic status of the United States, Barnes saw a number of optimistic signs. Outstanding features of the report were summarized as follows:

"Recurring demonstration that industry generally has attained an adjustment of stocks, production and marketing in which even a moderate expansion in demand will have immediate results.

"An improving trend from the low point in December.

"Evidence that reduced city spending reflects into lower farm prices for products in which there is no apparent depressing surplus, such as most dairy products.

"Clear indication that the volume of savings in their various forms has been large and is still mounting."

Mixed Conditions Noted In Steel Producers' Reports

From Chicago the outstanding news took the form of an advance in strip steel prices of $1 to $2 a ton on hot and cold rolled strip. The changes became effective immediately, with cold strip mills stepping up operations to 40 per cent from 35 per cent the week previous. Dispatches from Youngstown were a shade less favorable, various shifts in operating schedules there indicating that steel plants were to enter the week with producing facilities operating at an average of 48 per cent, slightly under the rate of a week ago. Steel corporation subsidiary plants were to maintain their 50 per cent rate, but the shifts in some of the independent schedules account for the lower general rate.

The railroad group went into a tailspin early in Saturday's short session with sharp declines ruling in that quarter of the list. The carrier group had been showing signs of increasing heaviness coincident with the publication of January operating statements. New York Central was perhaps the weakest of the group in consequence of the keenly disappointing nature of its operating report for the first month of the year. This showed gross of more than $9,000,000 compared with the first month of 1930, and net operating income down to $1,872,100 contrasted with $5,609,582. Net operating income of more than 50 roads which have thus far reported for January has run an average of about 37 per cent below that for the corresponding month last year.

Some of the buying which came into stocks in the trying days of the decline near the close of 1930 is being explained with the appearance of annual reports of numerous corporations. A study of the balance sheets of many of these reveals that the corporations were rather heavy buyers of their own securities. Mack Truck, it develops, took some 18,000 shares of its own capital stock, while Columbia Gas bought 70,000 shares of its issue. Freeport Texas 15,200 shares; Congoleum, 276,675 shares, General Railway Signal 12,650 shares and Gold Dust 6,400 shares. Evidently buying of their own stocks by corporations was an important factor in absorbing heavy offerings which reached the market at times. The question now is will these corporations hold such stock or dispose of it on favorable opportunities.

Since the current recovery movement got under way, and more especially during the rapid rise of the last three weeks, the market has swung ahead without much disposition to be guided by anything in the way of news developments. Speculative Wall Street apparently takes it for granted that whatever the ultimate influence of the bonus legislation on general business, its nearby effect will probably be to provide a lift to buying in many directions. Then, too, it had been indicated with greater certainty that an extra session of Congress would be averted. Now the bonus measure is out of the way as a talking point, and adjournment of Congress on schedule next Wednesday, will remove that phase of the situation as a market factor. It is likely that the next few weeks will find the market's action tied in a little more closely with the general run of news.

Standard Statistics, in its current survey of the market, is particularly impressed with the sound long-pull prospects of American Can and Continental Can, both of which in its opinion may be bought with confidence in the expectation that substantial profits will accrue over a period of years. The progress of Continental Can has been marked during recent years, with the common stock only recently breaking out of its narrow trading range on the side of advance.

Construction interests point out that a large part of the recessions sustained between October 10 and December 17 was due to critical internal market situations rather than the result of cool-headed analyses of values and conditions. Therefore the January-February rise has merely reflected the return of confidence in the internal market situation and that so far the list has bardly begun to discount business recovery.

Survey on Security Owners Completed

NEW YORK, March 2.—New York State ranks first among security owners both in volume of holdings and in proportion to population, a survey by Guenther-Law shows. California ranks second, with Illinois and Massachusetts tied for third. The firm's announcement said that it is evident from the survey that "there are no indications of a general saturation point in the distribution of investment securities at this time and there will not be in the near future unless something extremely radical should occur."

PHILA. TRADE LEVEL UPHELD

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—(AP.)—The monthly report on business and financial conditions by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia says that industrial activity in January in this district was maintained at the level of the preceding month and in early February showed a slight seasonal improvement. The report states:

"This was especially true of manufacturing and coal mining, but not of building. Mercantile business declined as is usual for January and the value of inventories particularly at retail establishments, was considerably lower than a year ago.

"Commodity prices have shown further recessions.

"Banks report a decline in loans lately and have added substantially to their investment holdings. Further symptoms of credit ease are to be found in a relatively small volume of borrowing from this bank and a strong reserve position."

Dunlop Reduces Prices on Tires

LONDON, March 2.—Dunlop Rubber Company has reduced standard tires prices by 7½ per cent.

Patent Suit Won By Fruit Growers

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The American Fruit Growers, Inc., won its suit in the United States Supreme Court against Brogde & Co. The suit involved a patent for the treatment of citrus fruits.

NARROW RANGE IN MARKET HERE

Fuels Forfeit Advances Scored in Early Trade; Industrial Issues Dull

Prices of securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange washed back and forth in a comparatively narrow range today apparently but little influenced by the downturn noted in the leading industrials on the New York board.

Fuels reflected a good demand at the opening and fractional advances were noted in Lone Star Gas, Western Public Service and Plymouth Oil. This firmness gave way to a slightly reactionary tone later, but there was no heavy selling and the various issues maintained a fairly steady tone.

Industrial issues were dull and slightly lower. Bids and offers showed only small changes from the price level prevailing on the close Saturday. Uncertainty of the movement on the New York market tended to curtail trading here and traders stood aside waiting a definite cue from the "big board."

Make Agreement on Employment Policy

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 2.—W. M. McClaurine, secretary of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, announced in his final report 83 per cent of the cotton textile industry of the United States had agreed to discontinue night employment of women and minors.

A total of 26,000,000 spindles, including 79 per cent of the spindleage in night running mills, are represented in the agreement, he said.

INVENTORIES DOWN

Inventories of 644 corporations in 27 different lines of industry and miscellaneous at the close of 1930, amounted to $1,016,213,746 and were in the aggregate 17.64 per cent less in dollar value than at the close of 1929, and 5.65 per cent less after adjustment for estimated price recessions, according to a preliminary survey made by Ernst & Ernst, accountants. The dollar value of sales of the same companies for 1930, the survey shows, was $6,411,904,456, a decline of 15.12 per cent from 1929.

ETHYL GASOLINE

The Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, which last year spent $12,000,000 for advertising, has increased its 1931 budget for this purpose 30 per cent. The corporation, which is owned jointly by the General Motors Corporation and Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, reports sales increased 45 per cent in 1930 and anticipates an even greater gain this year.

PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE

New paid-for business of the Prudential Insurance Company of America for 1930 shows a gain of more than 4¾ per cent above the figures reported for the year 1929. The company ended the year 1930 with a total amount of insurance in force of $15,300,000,000, an increase during 1930 of $990,680,000, or larger than that of any other company.

PROCTER AND GAMBLE

Procter & Gamble Company has about completed negotiations with the Portsmouth Cotton Oil Refining Company for acquisition of the latter company. Portsmouth manufactures a cooking fat refined from cottonseed oil. The acquisition will increase Procter & Gamble's sales in the bulk field by 10 or 15 per cent.

BIG BANK SEES WORST OVER

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—Further improvement in the general business situation, and a decidedly more cheerful sentiment during the past month are noted in the current survey of business issue by the National City Bank of New York. The bank says in part:

"Business men no longer feel that they are looking down a black hole, but that they have taken the measure of the depression. Not that they are expecting an early or easy recovery to normal, but simply that they have seen the worst. Once people come to this conclusion, they do not need the promise of a rapid recovery to enable them to pluck up courage."

Standard of Ohio Advances Gasoline

CLEVELAND, March 2.—Effective today, Standard Oil Company of Ohio has advanced the state-wide price structure on gasoline two cents a gallon. On February 14 the company reduced gasoline two cents throughout its territory.

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—Atlantic Refining Company has reduced the price of United States motor gasoline, tank car lots, ½ to 7 cents per gallon, effective today in all territories except Boston and Providence.

LONDON, March 2.—The retail price of gasoline in the United Kingdom has been reduced 2 pence a gallon, effective tomorrow.

H. L. Doherty Seeks Richfield Shares

NEW YORK, March 2.—H. L. Doherty & Co. is offering holders of preferred stock of Richfield Oil Company of California two shares of Cities Service Company preferred "B" and one share of common for each five shares of Richfield, with the stipulation that Doherty company shall not be required to accept more than 100,000 shares of Richfield nor after 30 days from March 2.

Tin Restriction Agreement Made

LONDON, March 2.—Complete agreement regarding the international regulation of production and export of tin for a period of two years has been reached between representatives of Bolivia, the Dutch East Indies, Nigeria and Malaya. The scheme went into effect yesterday.

EXPORT COPPER PRICE RAISED

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP.)—The price of copper advanced one quarter of a cent a pound in the export market today to 10.80, c. i. f. European base ports.

Roebuck Reports Decline in Sales

CHICAGO, March 2.—Sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co. for its second calendar period, January 30 to February 26, totaled $23,536,229, a decrease of 14.8 per cent from sales of $27,624,978 in the same period last year.

In the period from January 2 to February 26, Sears, Roebuck sales aggregated $46,578,500, against $54,445,143 a year ago, a drop of 14.4 per cent.

Baltimore & Ohio Earns $7.44 a Share

BALTIMORE, March 2.—Executives of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad announced today that the road earned its $7 dividend on common stock in 1930 and had 44 cents to spare.

Net income available for dividends and other corporate purposes amounted to $21,423,770, a decrease of 25.53 per cent from $28,767,908 for 1929. Net for 1930 was equal, after payment of preferred dividends, to $7.44 a share on the common stock.

Residence Building Maintains Spurt

Low Standards Affect Real Estate Bonds

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE HARVEST OF FRENZIED real estate financing is being reaped. Within the space of only a few years a type of investment with an excellent record of past performance has fallen into disrepute. Real estate bonds are paying the penalty for abuses which slowly crept into the business when construction activity was at its height and competition between real estate financing houses had reached a fever pitch.

Real estate financing is one of the oldest and originally was one of the most conservative types of investment. The practice of lending money with land as a security goes back to the earliest days of commerce. Loans with real estate as security have always been exceptionally safe when they have been made on a reasonable basis. It is only due to the fact that some old rules have been disregarded that real estate bonds have slipped from grace.

Originally real estate loans were private transactions. But as property values increased and building projects became more extensive it became necessary to split mortgages up into bond issues so that many investors could participate. Instead of one individual taking a mortgage involving several millions of dollars, the mortgage was placed in the hands of a trust company and bonds of convenient denominations were issued against it.

Original Issues Conservative

THE EARLY ISSUES of real estate mortgage bonds were made on conservative grounds and they established exceptionally good records for safety. Only a few houses were engaged in underwriting issues of this type. The cases of default were so few that the originating houses were able to take over the occasional properties which fell down on interest so that losses were not suffered by investors.

The halt in construction caused by the war was followed by an unprecedented period of building activity and a rapid enhancement in property values. This was responsible for real estate speculations and for a lowering in standards which formerly insured safety. The real estate mortgage field was invaded by a great number of organizations. Competition for business forced the older houses to lower their standards. While many students of investment pointed to the growing weakness of real estate financing, no more attention was paid to these warnings than to predictions about the management type of investment trusts or about the excessive values placed on common stocks.

Appraisals Boosted

IN THE FINAL years of the real estate boom it became a common practice to boost appraisals of properties to such an extent that the sale of bonds actually represented the full value of building projects instead of half the value as dictated by sound mortgage procedure. One office building in Pittsburgh was quite representative of the trend of the times. The original financing proved inadequate. A refunding operation was undertaken by which an increased amount of bonds was sold. In the circulars for the second issue of bonds the appraisal of the property was boosted over $1,000,000 although only a few months passed between the two offerings. The building is now in receivership.

The effect of offering bonds to the full value of a building project is quite apparent. If the structure prospered, the bonds, usually a serial issue, would be retired over about 20 years and the owner would have the property clear without any actual investment. If the building failed to carry the heavy charges, the owner would lose nothing. With most parts of the country in an overbuilt condition during the past two years many of the properties financed on such a basis have gone into receivership. This has resulted in heavy losses to investors and has thrown a shadow over all real estate mortgage bond issues.

Business learned a few lessons in the depression of 1920 and 1921. The greatest of these was the danger of carrying heavy inventories. It is to be hoped that some lessons will be found in the current slump. Among the things which may be remembered will be a knowledge of the relationship between stock prices and the earnings of corporations and a realization of the importance of some musty old rules about mortgages and property values.

Many Waiting to Buy Stocks If Prices Dip

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

DAYTON, O., March 1.—The average age of the three principal executives of the two largest enterprises in this city is 43. Frederick B. Patterson, president of National Cash Register, which does business all over the world, is only 39. J. H. Barringer became the active manager of the business before he even was that age, and is still under 50. F. O. Biechler, live wire head of the gigantic Frigidaire Company, is only 40. Both organizations have been pushed ahead with amazing vigor.

In visiting many cities throughout this country, I have been impressed by the fact that the greatest progressiveness usually is shown by the cities—as well as corporations—where young blood is given scope for its initiative and driving power. Stagnant cities and business concerns more often than not are in the grip of gray beards who have ceased to look favorably upon changes and who, consequently, are passed in the procession by young go-getters.

LIKE MANY other cities Dayton used to be politics-ridden. After a strenuous fight led by the late redoubtable John H. Patterson house cleaning was conducted and the commission manager form of government was instituted. Since then civic affairs have been conducted more efficiently and satisfactorily. Population passed the 200,000 mark the last census, and recently much additional territory was brought within the city limits.

THE FIRST thing you notice on reaching Dayton is the most elaborate overhead railroad construction actively in progress. No less than $24,000,000 is now being spent in raising tracks to do away with street crossings. The city is contributing 35 per cent, the railroads the balance of the cost.

Here is an example which many other cities could advantageously follow. Indeed, now would be an ideal time for launching such work—labor is superabundant and eager to give full return for each dollar received, materials are extraordinarily cheap and traffic is quieter than it is likely to become by and by.

HAVE YOU noticed how many fine buildings are being erected throughout the country by the Bell Telephone Company? The Bell system spends on improvements and extensions $2,000,000 every day of the week and every week of the year. Time was when telephone buildings looked like factories. Since Walter S. Gifford, at 40, took over the helm five years ago, very different structures have been erected. It is not uncommon now for the Bell Telephone building to be among the outstanding architectural features of a city.

THE DAYTON of today is a very different city from the preflood Dayton of 1913. That awful catastrophe infused new life, new spirit, new aspirations into the community. No city in America ever undertook more thoroughgoing flood prevention work. Millions were spent unstintedly in rendering repetition of flood damage forever an impossibility.

Not only so, but there has since been a definite move toward the construction of better dwellings and better buildings of every other kind. The percentage of home ownership is unusually large. Ditto automobile ownership.

Dayton also is proud of its magnificent new art institute.

CALIFORNIA can be classed as the most air-minded state in the Union. But no city in California or on the whole Pacific Coast is more air-minded than Dayton. Returning from the war, young Frederick Patterson foresaw the infinite possibilities of the aircraft industry. Accordingly he launched a brave movement to have his native city become prominently identified with its future.

Today more than 2,000 Army and civilian personnel are engaged at the Wright Field, material division of the U. S. Army Aviation Service, and the aviation repair depot, located a few miles from Dayton. Citizens take intense pride in the achievements from time to time of Gen Pratt and his aviators.

P. S.—I FIND that Dayton had its quota of stock panic victims. But here as elsewhere one discovers that the desire prevails to renew market activities when conditions permit. Most citizens of substance are convinced that prices for the stocks of local corporations are abnormally low and that big money can be made in them.

However, Wall Street's latest outburst of enthusiasm is regarded with skepticism. It is reasoned that industry and business have not yet improved sufficiently to warrant speculative fireworks. Should the market have any substantial relapse, not a few buyers would become busy.

And that, perhaps, is as sensible an attitude as any.

Mary Lou Plays Her Part Well With Travers

CHAPTER XV.

Mary Lou's battered trunk, suitcase and box arrived safely at "Westwood House" forwarded by the faithful Larry, from whom she received a lengthy and wild letter, typed on yellow copy paper, demanding, cajoling, warning and pleading. Did she realize what she was getting into? demanded Larry, frantically. Would she never grow up? Of all the crazy, mad, insane and incredible schemes! However, count on him to stand by her, and, if necessary, to get her out of this mess into which, idiotically, she appeared to have gotten herself. For himself, he could not believe a word of her explanation—that is, not with a sane and intelligent mind. And when could he come out and see for himself just what sort of monkey-business this appeared to be?

But Mary Lou wasn't quite ready to face Larry yet. She wrote soothingly, promising to keep in touch with him. She wrote, also, to her uncle and Clara. It would be many weeks before the letters would reach them and months before she would have their answer. She realized, setting down the facts in careful pothooks, on "Westwood" paper, that it would all seem as unreal as a dream to the Sandersons. Well, it seemed unreal to her, she thought.

Mary Lou Acts Well

Yet her role was not hard to play, she found, as the days slipped by and gray snow-clouds began to veil the horizon and there was a breath of winter, frosty and menacing, in the air. For Lorrimer made it as easy for her as possible, trying to keep his word to his mother and Dr. Mathews. It would have been an act of inhuman self-control on his part not to refer to what he thought was their mutual past. That morning on which he had gone out to look for her and had found her at the kennels had passed quickly enough. He'd given her the best police puppy, "Koenig," for her own, and had watched, with a hurting sort of pleasure in her happiness, her gentle, diplomatic overtures of friendship toward the beautiful, boisterous animal. Later, with Koenig at his new owner's heels, they had gone back to the house, and Lorrimer had deliberately suffered the racing and barking and general rowdiness of the pup, not wishing to spoil the girl's pleasure in her new possession, and had found, to his own amazement, that once he made up his mind that he could not permit his nerves to rule him, he almost forgot the noisy accompaniment to their walk.

He was determined not to refer to the past in the deeply intimate personal sense. But he spoke, quite naturally, of the elapsed years and the hideous doubts which had consumed him. He asked, as casually as he could manage, what had happened to the cousins he remembered so well, and Mary Lou, thanking her lucky stars for the presence of the pup, managed, in her turn, to answer, her face averted, and interrupting herself now and then with commands or comments to Koenig.

She had rehearsed her story time and time again. And now that she was forced to give a performance to this particularly important audience, she found herself doing it creditably. She told him that she had moved away from London, told him of the deaths, in an epidemic, of the "cousins" and of her permanent estrangement from her "mother." All this he accepted as perfectly reasonable. It all hung together. And as he tacitly understood that she had believed him dead, and was determined not to speak of that particular phase of the situation, a stranger, overhearing their conversation, would have believed them old friends, separated by circumstances and reunited by chance.

Talk About Horses

"So," said Mary Lou, on a long breath of relief, "when I couldn't find anything to do I came over here, hoping to find some relatives of my — my father's. I had an opportunity to sail with an elderly American woman, a Mrs. Duncan, who paid my passage over. And I hadn't been here very long before I saw your mother's name in the paper and came out to see her on a chance that it might be—"

She stopped and flushed. She had been speaking gravely, a little breathlessly. It wasn't hard to think herself into the part; she had dreamed so long, had for so many years dramatized herself as the heroine of every book she read and every play she saw. And her sobriety lent a semblance of truth to her halting explanation.

"And it was," commented Lorrimer, as soberly as she. "A very wonderful chance," he added, "for me."

His deep, toneless voice took on faint vibrancy and color. Mary Lou, the flush deepening, whistled to Koenig, who was off at some distance, gayly chasing a harmless and chattering squirrel up a tree. It was going to be difficult to ignore the personal equation, after all!

They had just passed the stables. Mary Lou cried out, in snatching at any conversational straw:

"I called on your horses this morning. What beauties they are! I wish," she said truly and wistfully, "that I knew how to ride."

"Don't you?" He bent his tall head and looked at her in some astonishment, and realized, with a pang of amazement, that he knew very little about her, after all. For all his dreaming and despair, his memories of gay, gallant loving, defiantly snatched from time in the very face of death, his actual knowledge of her was so incomplete. Yet he had remembered trivial, small things and, because he remembered, suddenly asked, half whimsically:

"Do you still adore artichokes, Delight?"

Mrs. Lorrimer Pleased

She started a little. It was to be some time before she could become accustomed to that exotic name.

Well, she did like them!

"Of course," said Mary Lou and smiled. "However did you remember?"

"I remember a lot," he said somberly and then, because he saw her wince a little, added, hastily, "If you'd really like to learn to ride, I'll teach you."

She looked at him with her eyes like dark stars. This was the sort of thing she had made up her mind to work for in order to give him some healthy interest, to take him out of himself.

"Would you really?" Are you—strong enough?" she said.

Inspired question! He began to see himself as he must seem to a healthy, normal girl—not "strong" enough, a semi-invalid! Not a pretty picture. He shrugged the broad, stooped shoulders that, from very pride, he was already holding straighter.

They were approaching the house now and Margaret Lorrimer, a loose tweed coat over her frock, was coming down the steps to meet them. She had been very anxious over the result of this first encounter, this initial step in the carefully laid plans. She greeted them easily enough, but her eyes sought Mary Lou's with a clear enough inquiry in their brown depths. Mary Lou nodded imperceptibly, and smiled, and Mrs. Lorrimer drew a long breath of relief.

The dog was chasing a squirrel.

Lorrimer was questioning his mother with more animation than she had seen in him for years.

"About the horses—Delight wants to ride. I've said I'll teach her—if I haven't forgotten myself," he added, half ruefully. "Have we any mount suitable — something pretty tame to begin with?" he went on and, at Mary Lou's indignant exclamation, he startled himself by laughing. Pretty rusty, that laugh, but it served.

"Flapper," his mother said thoughtfully, adeptly concealing her own pleasure and astonishment — "I think she'd do—"

"Flapper? Is that the little brown one?" Mary Lou asked. "Well, she doesn't sound awfully tame!"

"She is, though. And she's been proven recently enough. I've lent her to Jenny Wynne rather often, when she needed an extra saddle horse. Jenny's a neighbor of ours, a distant relative," she explained to Mary Lou, "and she's always having house parties and needing to borrow anything from horses to golf balls!"

"If Jenny was suited," began Lorrimer doubtfully, "I question whether Flapper would be a good horse for a beginner!"

"I didn't say she was suited," laughed his mother, "but any port in a storm." She looked at her son thoughtfully and added, casually, as if a desire to ride on his part was an everyday occurrence: "Don Lorenzo would be about up to your weight, I think. I bought him a year or two ago, perhaps you remember, and he's in excellent condition, Masters tells me."

She turned to Mary Lou, her eyes shining.

Riding Habit Ordered

"While you were out I telephoned shops and things. One of the saleswomen at—" she mentioned the name of a famous Fifth avenue establishment—"is coming out this afternoon with some ready-to-wear things for you to try on. I'll catch her before she leaves town and tell her to include a riding kit."

Mary Lou tried hard to look demurely accustomed to such service, but her eyes betrayed her. She had overcome her first reluctance, as what normal girl would not, and had given Mrs. Lorrimer her measurements. She wouldn't be hard to fit, being what is known as a perfect sixteen, and, armed with that knowledge, and glove and shoe sizes, Mrs. Lorrimer had simply gone to a telephone and given certain orders.

DAILY TRUE STORY—A Wise Woman

Mason Grant's palatial yacht lay anchored near the mouth of the bay. Julianne and Lincoln Morley loitered on the forward deck while Grant went below for papers, including the title. The deal was that near closed. Julianne's blue eyes were shining like chicory weed drenched in dew.

"We." A sting of bitterness split the word and a grim smile twisted the corners of his clean cut mouth.

"Why put it that way? I've never been connected with the financial end of any of your extravagances. If you want—take it, by all means."

His tone cut Julianne like a whip. He lit a cigaret, then, with a nervous gesture, ground it out in the glass ash tray on the arms of the lounge. There was a sullen, angry look in the dark eyes that gazed out at the horizon. Julianne bit her lip. When Grant returned with the papers, she rose, smiling.

Woman of Resources

"I think, after all, Mr. Grant, we won't decide just yet. Say, day after tomorrow, we'll let you know. There's another matter I want to settle first," she said sweetly.

They drove home in silence. A cold, still silence, that not even the warmth of Julianne's love could penetrate. The breach between them was becoming unbearable. That was the matter she wanted to settle, the yacht had shown her how.

Julianne had always been a woman of resources. From the day she had launched on her career as an interior decorator in the modest little shop on Ninth street, with a certain more elaborate place on Eleventh, as a goal, she had gone straight ahead with every undertaking. She was a genius at getting what she wanted.

It was in the select little shop on Eleventh street, with several thousand dollars to invest that she met Lin. He was Morley of Morley & Co., bankers and brokers. He spelled success in big letters, too, and he was ambitious — Julianne liked that, and she liked other things about him. He made several rather profitable investments for her, and he had laughed and said that everything she touched turned to money. It was just then that Julianne decided on two other goals. She wanted to own the most outstanding interior decorating shop on the avenue, an enormous undertaking for a woman, but she would never rest until the dream was realized. Then—she wanted to marry Lin, and being Julianne in addition to having set her mind to it, that was easy. They were married while the establishment on the avenue was still a dream, and it was only when it became a reality that things began to prick at their happiness.

Quick in Deciding

Julianne's shop began to attract the wealthiest people in town, and her praises were sung in every home where the interior decorations were a work of art for which she had received unbelievable sums. As Julianne's success grew to such astonishing proportions, Lin's interest in her affairs, and in fact, in his own business, began to wane.

He left a good deal to his junior partner, with the result that business began to fall off to an alarming degree. This, however, didn't seem to worry Lin in the least. He grew restless, loitered around the apartment a great deal, played golf and tennis and spent the remainder of his time at the club. His attitude worried Julianne. He was no longer the keen, alert young chap that she had married. Even when he had cleaned up a good deal of money in steel for her, and she had bought the Long Island place, he seemed only mildly interested. She had tried, on several occasions, to sift his indifference down to some definite cause, but he was always evasive, only today—the yacht had given her the clue she needed.

As usual, Julianne was quick in deciding. There was never any doubt in her mind what she wanted, and this one thing she wanted, at any cost. It was the only thing in the world that counted, just at present.

The next day she worked fast and sandwiched between other important things she arranged with Mason Grant to give a little party on board the yacht that night. From the eagerness with which he fell in with her plans, it was evident that Grant thought the sale of the yacht was a sure bet.

Lin was, as usual, the perfect host—he could be depended on for that. But, under the gallantry, Julianne was conscious of the thorn in his flesh. When the dancing was at its height, she sent him to the forward deck for her scarf. As soon as he was out of sight, she followed. She found him, a figure of restless discontent, leaning against the rail, smoking. As she approached, he threw his cigaret overboard.

"That's easy. You'll take the yacht, make a laughing stock of me. Very well, go ahead. I've been that all along. I can't begin to coin money like you do—I've quit trying." With a fierce gesture he caught her by the shoulders.

"Buy up the whole universe if you like, but—let me tell you this. I'm that weak that though it's crushing out every ounce of ambition I've ever had, I won't give up, you hear that? I'll let 'em say I'm living on your money—I don't care a hang what they say, I won't give you up—I can't go on without you." His words choked down in a sob, and he caught Julianne in his arms.

Julianne Satisfied

He loved her like that—and all these months she had been tortured—but never mind. For one blinding moment she was too happy for words. Then she held herself off and laughed, a little heartbreaking sound, husky with tears.

"I'm not buying anything, Lin. In fact I've sold every thing I own. The shop to Duford, Inc., the Long Island place to the Lanes and the cars to Sam Hardy. From now on we're on your own."

Lin seemed, suddenly, to be tremendously alive. He stared at her with wide, questioning eyes.

"You mean—" but Julianne interrupted.

"Exactly." There was that in her voice that was confusing to the senses.

Lin caught her in his arms.

"Oh, gosh, honey. I'll buy it all back—I'll buy you the yacht, too, just give me time," he whispered huskily, his cheek against hers.

But Julianne had what she wanted, and being a woman of resources, she got it over to him, without words, that the yacht mattered not at all, except that, at present, it held all that she wanted in the world.

The Voice of the People

Demand That Council Conduct Open Investigation of Food Scandal Comes from All Sides.

If Council has been in any doubt as to whether the people really demanded an open investigation of the manner in which the Department of Supplies has been conducted, it can no longer be so.

The action of the League of Women Voters in calling for an inquiry into the contracts awarded for the purchase of supplies during the last six years was pretty good evidence that the public was aroused. And now comes one trade or civic body after another with the announcement that it is to hold a special meeting to consider the situation.

The stockholders of the corporation of Pittsburgh are angry at learning that there has been reckless extravagance in the management of the business. They insist that the board of directors ascertain the extent to which this has been going on and give them a reckoning.

If the directors—that is, the councilmen—are wise, they will comply.

Loans to the Veterans

Checks Issued to Former Service Men Will Benefit the Whole Community.

The argument of those who advocated the measure under which increased loans are being made by the federal government to World War veterans was vindicated in Pittsburgh Saturday, the first day on which payments were made under the new arrangement.

The money unquestionably was a godsend to hundreds of those who received it. Former service men in no particular need of funds will be slow to apply for funds. It is the destitute and the sorely distressed who will be aided.

The whole community will benefit, not only by the expenditure of the money that the veterans are receiving, but also through the improvement in morale. Already people are saying that the payments to the ex-service men mark a definite turn for the better.

The local office of the Veterans' Bureau is entitled to praise for the expeditious way in which it is handling the applications for loans.

A Puritan Invention

Pittsburghers planning to argue the pro and contra of the Blue Law at the hearing soon to be held by the Legislature will find plenty of material for the debate in current newspaper and magazine discussions of the subject not only in this country but also abroad. Bitter controversies over Sunday amusements are now under way in half a dozen states and in England.

As was to be expected, the advocates of the repeal of blue laws, having right and reason on their side, are making the better showing.

In view of the opposition of certain religious bodies to a change in the Pennsylvania statute, it is pertinent to call attention to the fact that the Christian church is not committed by immemorial tradition to a dismal Sunday. The London Spectator, which has been investigating this phase of the matter, finds the "English Sunday" did not always exist, but was a creation of the Puritans.

It was the Puritans of whom Macaulay said they objected to bear-baiting "not because it gave pain to the bear but because it gave pleasure to the spectators"—which possibly explains why they invented the blue laws.

The last Archbishop of Canterbury before the Puritans came into power "was accustomed not merely to consent to amusements on Sunday, but positively to encourage them—after people had been to church."

And then, of course, we have on the authority of the Founder of Christianity himself, that "the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath."

In Good Hands

Ablest Men in Pittsburgh Are Behind the Operation of the Plan for Unemployment Relief.

The acceptance by R. B. Mellon, president of the Mellon National Bank, of the general chairmanship of the finance committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association means that the Pittsburgh Plan for the relief of the unemployed will be carried out by the ablest men in the community.

That is one of the most encouraging and impressive features of the plan. The willingness of the community's big men—its big business men, its big men in the field of social welfare, and its big professional men—to put their shoulders to the wheel gives assurance of the soundness of the undertaking.

Men like Mr. Mellon would not promote the Pittsburgh Plan unless they were convinced there was genuine need for such an enterprise, and also that it was practical, and held out the hope of large benefits for the community.

It remains for the people in general to support these efforts. Everyone can help. The co-operation of the obscure citizen in humble circumstances who contributes his mite is needed as well as that of Mr. Mellon.

If all the citizens will work for the success of the Pittsburgh Plan as zealously as the "big shots," unemployment will soon be a thing of the past.

Food for Wild Songbirds

Mulberry and Cherry Trees Will Attract Feathered Visitors.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission states in a current report that protection of wild songbirds is as much a part of its work as the preservation of the supply of animals sought by hunters. Since the next hunting season is a long way off the commission thinks this an opportune time to try to arouse interest in the songbirds.

It makes various suggestions as to how Pennsylvania's wild birds may be protected and increased. The erection of bird houses is recommended, for example, as one way in which our feathered friends can be welcomed.

There is one important omission from the recommendations, and that is that trees be planted to supply the birds food.

The boy Scouts of Allegheny County were active at one time in planting mulberry trees for birds, but in late years the work has been lagging. It would be well to have this activity revived.

It is desirable also that people living on premises sufficiently spacious plant a few sweet cherry trees, to be dedicated to the birds. The trees are beautiful in themselves and in many respects are preferable to the Carolina poplars and Norway maples that so many people are planting.

Un-American Signal

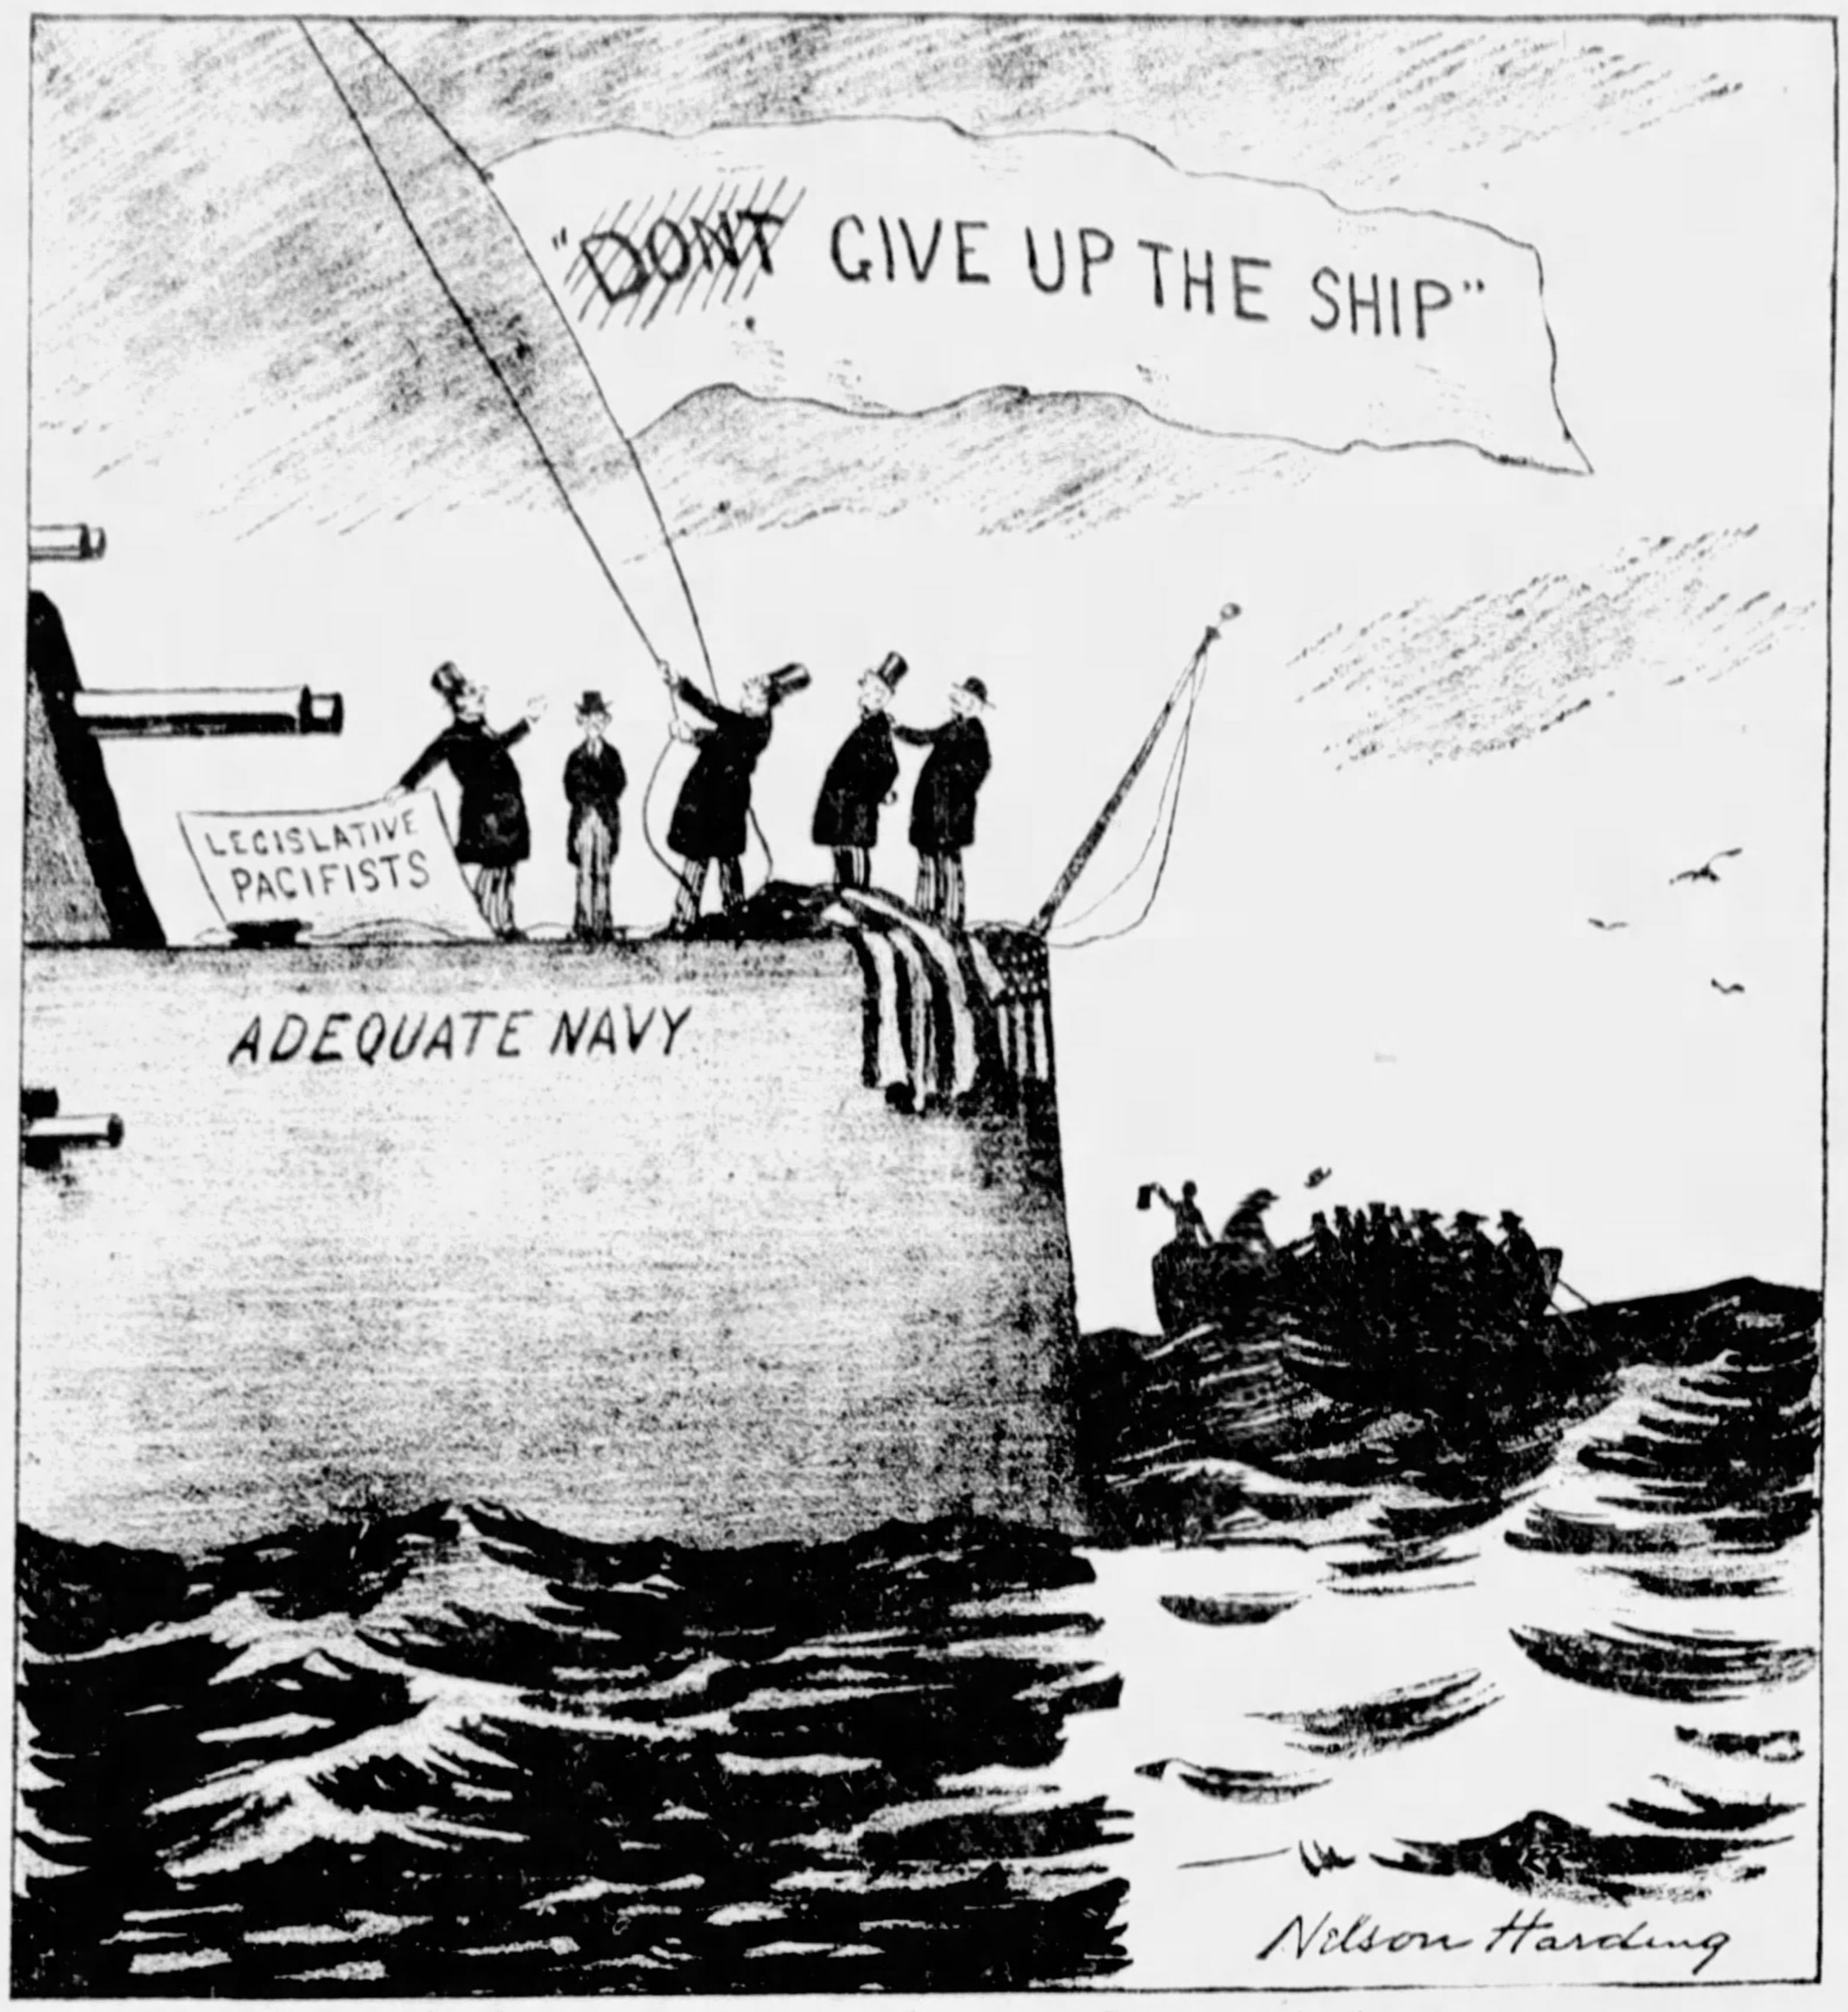
By Nelson Harding



The words that dying Lawrence spoke
Were "Don't give up the ship,"
And once that gallant slogan was
On every patriot lip.

But now a signal's going up
With meaning different.
Its well dead Lawrence cannot see
That shameful sentiment.

"What's It All About?"

Do you ever have that "What's-it-all-about'?' feeling?. That "Why-am-I-here-and-what-am-I-doin-this for?" feeling? "Why-am-I-struggling-so-hard-for-money-for-success-for-a-living?" Most of us have it these days.

The post-war "prosperity" jag has worn off, and we have waked up with the morning-after headache, and are looking with disgust on our sordid, stupid, dollar-chasing lives. Our meaningless, UNbeautiful lives, spent in GETTING money, and in spending it for "THINGS!"

* * *

We have forgotten the visions and dreams of our youth; the dashing, picturesque, effective things we were going to DO and BE. The glamorous life we planned to lead. The way we were going to set the world aflame.

We have forgotten the MEANING of life. For life is like a poem, the important thing about it is not that it should be long, but that it should be beautiful. Beautiful and interesting and inspiring.

That is the trouble with the world today. It is so full of UNbeautiful, sordid, drab, ineffective lives. Lives that follow no pattern, no vision and no ideal. Lives without one spot of color, one beautiful love, one roseate dream to relieve their ugliness.

Yet, at 20, every one of us looked into the mirror and visualized himself or herself as a glamorous, picturesque, dashing figure, who would cut a wide swath in the world. Come back, sweet vision! THAT was what it was "all about."

* * *

Here and there, a beautiful life flashes across our vision, and we can only admire, envy and pay tribute to it. A Nathan Strauss, loving, beloved and revered to the last. A young eagle, Lindbergh, winging alone across an uncharted ocean. A d'Annunzio, poet, lover and fighter—picturesque personality, even at 70.

These are the ones who do not compromise with life—who did not take the detour, or barter that young vision for cheap tinsel and whoopee. And MONEY!

And now that the money is gone, perhaps some of us will take stock of ourselves, start again, and try to do the Big Thing, or create the lovely thing we saw ahead of us before the madness overtook us. Perhaps we can make the rest of the chapters of our lives worth reading.

CARNOT, STUDENT OF HEAT

By Archibald Henderson

The study of heat and energy exert an immense influence upon our lives, whether we are aware of it or not. Take an ordinary railroad train, in which most of the energy from the fuel is dissipated, and only a relatively small proportion is employed in pulling the train. If scientists could change that, and reverse the situation, the results would be immense; in lowering the cost of running the train and hence in making our railroad tickets much cheaper!

Nicholas Leonard Sadi Carnot lived to be only 36—from June 1, 1796, until August 24, 1832, when he died of cholera. But in that time this brilliant young Frenchman had laid the foundation of a great new science, thermodynamics. It has been vastly extended and developed by Clausius Toule, Lord Kelvin, Prof. Willard Gibbs and others. Lord Kelvin went so far as to say that there is nothing greater in the whole extent of the domain of the sciences than the work of Sadi Carnot.

Carnot came of a famous family. He was the son of the historic figure, Nicholas Carnot, who was most prominent in organizing the Republican armies of France prior to Napoleon's accession to power, being known in history as the "Organizer of Victory." He was also the uncle of his namesake, who was president of the third Republic. He studied at the Ecole Polytechnique in Paris; but his studies were interrupted for a time by military service. After resigning from the army, he devoted himself to the intensive study of the laws of heat, and their application to the development of the steam engine.

Carnot developed a great principle which is called after him. It is succinctly stated in his own words:

Wherever there is a difference of temperature followed by return to equilibrium the generation of power may take place. Water vapor is one means, but not the only one . . . A solid body, for example a metal bar, gains and loses in length when it is alternately heated and cooled and thus is able to move bodies fastened to its ends.

"We cannot create mechanical force," said Helmholtz, "but we may help ourselves from the storehouses of Nature." Carnot studied the theory of the ideal frictionless engine; and showed that any engine must pass through a cycle in order that the working substance, steam or what not, may be brought back to its original state. The great modern principle, the second law of thermodynamics, was anticipated by Carnot.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Mamma didn't raise her boy to be a husband—

There's the cause of many a domestic tragedy.

She raised him to be a doctor or lawyer, a druggist or shoe clerk, a neck clipper or a toe dancer, but not once in a blue moon does an American mother train her boy to be a Married Man.

So, when the Only Girl takes over the job, expecting to drape her life around a Sturdy Oak, what does she find? She finds grief.

When the average young man marries, he doesn't even know how to take care of his own personal effects, much less assume charge of a home and family.

Since she was born, his sister has been instructed in the duties of a wife and mother, but has anyone ever talked seriously to him about the duties of a husband and father? Has anyone trained him for the sacrifice and self-control which are required in the Head of the House? No one has. Instead, it's dollars to doughnuts that Mamma and the Girls have waited on him as if he were a prize pup—picked up after him—humored his every whim.

Nor was this service entirely unselfish on Mamma's part. She has two motives in spoiling him besides her maternal solicitude. Often his love for her is a compensation for that romance which she missed with his father. And always, it gratifies her desire to manage and meddle.

When he marries he expects the Dear Little Woman to take up the job where Mamma left off. It rarely occurs to him to question the excellence of Mamma's job. Isn't he a good banker? Doesn't he sell a lot of real estate? And isn't he Big Stuff down at the Lodge? He does—he is. Naturally, he assumes that he'll be equally successful as a Man About the House. But he assumes wrong—as the Dear Little Woman speedily discovers, to their mutual irritation.

For Mamma hasn't trained him to be a Man About the House. Rather, she has trained him to be anything But. It has served her own ends to relieve him of every responsibility about the house—to spare him every sacrifice. Usually, she has done this out of excessive devotion. She hasn't intended to make things hard for the wife who must some day take her place. But she has, nevertheless, succeeded. For the honeymoon hasn't even begun to wane before Mother's Pet discovers that—

It's Heaven to live with Mamma—But Hades to live with the wife.

Some girls succeed in spite of that. Plenty don't. But why should any girl have to fight such a handicap?

Why shouldn't little boys be trained for home life as well as little girls?

Why shouldn't husbands have to qualify as well as Wives?

Isn't It So?

The Twilight Hour

No toll of all your busy time I ask,
Of morn, high noon or golden afternoon;
I would not keep your hand from any task
Or change one measure of your life's swift tune;
But ever in the twilight may we go,
Hand clasping hand thus closely side by side,
Together through the aureate afterglow
Which marks the ebb of day's tumultuous tide.

The twilight hour I would have you keep
For me always, though we should stray apart,
The hour when Nature lulls the land to sleep
Though some strange twilight I may not be near,
My little ghost's light footfall you will hear!

Crime of Being Wealthy

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, in unsuccessfully opposing confirmation by the Senate of the appointment of Eugene Meyer, Jr., as governor of the Federal Reserve Board, has again raised the issue of whether it is a crime to possess a million dollars.

This is an extraordinary dictum to come from the mouth of a member of the upper House of Congress, which in theory is supposed to be composed of wise men.

The Hearst newspapers do not argue that all large fortunes were legitimately accumulated.

They do not object to criticism of the methods by which aggregations of capital were attained. But they do think it a sign of demagogy to besmirch a man's character merely because he is rich.

The newer political tradition is to ignore the unreasoning envy of the successful on the part of the unsuccessful.

In appointing Bernard M. Baruch and other dollar-a-year men for key wartime posts, President Wilson parted company with the older prejudices.

President Harding followed the example of his predecessor in calling the second richest man in the country to the Treasury post. Secretary Mellon has vindicated the confidence which was reposed in him.

We do not advocate for purposes of efficient government an oligarchy of millionaires.

On the other hand, the country will deprive itself of excellent and highly competent public servants if it adopts the Brookhart standard of excluding from office all men who succeeded conspicuously in private competitive activity.

It confirmed Mr. Meyer and thus gave the country the benefit of the services of an extremely intelligent individual who has proved that he understands the practical subtleties of finance.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 2.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay late and in a troubled ponder over what I said at a dinner, causing such abrupt silence. Nor did my wife understand, albeit conscious of a faux pas. Came the picture men to hang the Jean Baptiste Robie canvas Will Hogg left us.

So at my typing and to a tea, meeting the young minnesinger Ogden Nash, who in appearance is not unlike a Kansas plow boy. And Richard Haliburton, the English scrivener, there. Also Carl Van Vechten, Harry Maule and others.

After dinner with Laura and Irvin Cobb and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Carney to hear a broadcast and Will Edrington joined us. Then on to see Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights," finding it better than I imagined yet to me lacking something. To bed.

They were discussing best quips of paragraphic pundits. My choice is one by Eugene Field during Chicago days. A well known figure who loaned money to newspaper workers returned from a six months tour of Europe. Field observed:

Seattle has become as much a city of civic enthusiasm as Los Angeles. During the week I met five residents of Seattle. Each gurgled ecstatically of the wonders of his seven-hilled city, its absence of seasons, its winter time flowers. And, of course, with a fluttery Billie Burke laugh, the L. C. Smith Building.

Marlene Deitrich, so likened to Garbo, has little of the Swedish star's cloistered aloofness. She has a joyous time in New York. Among intimates she is "Dutchy," is fond of cafes, theater, supper clubs and parties. Her English is unaccented and she is otherwise untouched by the Nordic nuances that characterizes her rival.

Paderewski was recently asked to a big dinner before a concert. He excused himself with "When I play I do not dine. When I dine I do not play."

Caruso on caroling nights quaffed only a small glass of orange juice. But at midnight he would face his triple portion of spaghetti, tuck a napkin under his chin and "lick the platter clean."

The expert does not really eat spaghetti. He entwines it with a few quick twists on the end of his fork, throws back his head and with a magical abracadabra inhales it. The late Raymond Hitchcock was a finished spaghettist. The novice it seems to me should carry along scissors so when taking a mouthful, he can clip off the loose ends.

A fireside diversion has been salvaging nonsensical names from the telephone book such as Heeza Sapp, Tip Scales, etc. The person finding the greatest number wins the prize. And they still chuckle at taffy pullings out by the water towers.

Broadway racketeers are never in business. They have a "piece" of this night club or that speakeasy and this gives them opportunity to muscle in on various side ventures and to spot the live wires ripe for a shake-down. A high flyer with a bank roll is as safe along the Big Alley as a careless cigaret smoker in a powder factory.

Perhaps it is reaction to a disappointing breakfast, but it strikes me, Beatrice Lillie and Gertrude Lawrence have been skimming along for several years chiefly on the deserved hit they made in the first Charlot Revue. Now every thing they do is marvelous—simply incredible!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Often wives complain when their husbands insist upon being undisturbed in some room of the home.

There may be some degree of fairness in complaint. A woman who has been alone all day naturally deserves the right to visit with her husband in the evening.

But such wives should also give consideration to the fact that every man who has a measure of success must have time alone to think.

At times like the present it is more necessary than it has been in years for men in all undertakings to bring longer and more serious consideration to matters that confront them.

But with so much to think of, it is imperative that there be peace and quiet at home.

Instead of complaining and making his task harder, every wife should make the quiet hour easily possible for the bread winner when he comes home.
